Layoffs Continuing

By The Associated Press

Layoffs are continuing in many major industries despite a slight easing of unemployment. Numerous workers who lost jobs remain without work and their prospects of being rehired are questionable.

An Associated Press check of major industries shows some — notably steel, aerospace and, in some cases, construction — are still dropping employes. Many other employers remain uneasy enough about the economy to not rehire all workers and some apparently have no plans to return to the peak employment of before the recesssion.

"The ball may have bounced back a little bit, but it didn't bounce very high," was the way Warren Smith, an Ohio ALF-CIO official, characterized the situation.

Government employment experts had expected employment to lag behind economic recovery because employers tend to cancel abbreviated work weeks and even pay overtime before rehiring or hiring new workers.

The latest Labor Department unemployment figure was 8.4% in August, down from the peak of 9.2% last May. The work week averaged 39.8 hours in August, up an hour from last spring.

Of those industries rehiring, the auto industry seemed typical. It hit its nadir last March, with 213,000 of its 712,000 workers on indefinite layoff. Now, 81,000 remain indefinitely laid off, with the number expected to decrease to 77,000 by the end of the September.

The same pattern was seen in the textile industry. In South Carolina, a major textile area, a spokesman for the state Textile Manufacturers Association said that last month 159,000 persons were employed in textile mills and related synthetic fiber plants, up from the low point of 144,000 last March.

However, that was still well below the peak employment of 180,000 in June 1974.

And a spokesman for the Celanese Fiber Co. in Rome, Ga., which has cut layoffs from 700 to 450 since March, was not optimistic about the prospects of laid-off workers.

"We've done most of the rehiring we plan to do, within a small percentage," he said.

Another example is the appliance industry. At General Electric's Appliance Park complex near Louisville, Ky., a spokesman says 5,400 of 24,000 workers were laid off between September 1974 and last May. Two thousand have been rehired, he said.

What happens to those workers not rehired? Again, the auto industry may be an example.

Layoffs in the industry began earlier than in other fields because car makers were stung by the 1973 Arab oil embargo before other manufacturers began to suffer under recession. That means the 712,000 figure used as the base during the recent layoffs was already down from the 803,000 hourly workers employed before the embargo.

Of the nearly 100,000 workers not rehired, many on layoff for more than a year were dropped from employment lists because they were no longer eligible for rehiring under union contracts. Other were recalled but never appeared because they'd gotten other jobs.

One California auto worker, Louise Betts, was skeptical about how many in the auto industry had found other work.

"Everyone has it bad," she said. "It's almost impossible to find a job anywhere. I'm just glad I have GM to go back to."

Mrs. Betts, who has received most of her salary since her layoff last December in unemployment and supplemental benefits, says she expects to be rehired in January.

A United Steel Workers official in Utah says much the same thing when asked about workers who leave the industry.

"Some have found jobs in construction, though that's been badly hit too," he said. "Some are working in service stations and driving cabs, but the bulk of them still are getting unemployment compensation and supplemental unemployment."

Over-all, the number of employes in the steel industry is still dropping. The American Iron and Steel Institute says 447,500 workers were employed in steel mills in August, the latest month for which it has figures. That was down from a peak of 524,000 in July 1974.

However, a spokesman noted that the 4,400 drop in employment from this July to this August was the lowest drop this year, and others noted that production is now increasing because a price hike has been announced for October. Where that will leave production — and employment — after October remains to be seen.

Employment is also still falling in the aerospace industry. A spokesman for Boeing Aerospace Co. says the company now has 48,300 workers, down from 54,700 last January. The company had predicted it would lay off from 2,000 to 8,000 this year, and the spokesman says:

"Our assumption now is that we will hit the 8,000 level by the end of the year."

Parts of the construction industry provide another example of still slipping employment. In Florida, with a big construction industry because of its population growth, state figures show 263,000 workers employed in August 1974, compared to 175,700 in August.

However, the drop of 2,100 from July to August was the smallest since the slide began, a state spokesman noted Florida's economy lags about six months behind the nation as a whole, and a spokesman for Florida builders had an optimistic forecase also.

"It's starting back up," said Tom Becker of the Florida Homebuilders Association "We can look back and cry a little bit, but look forward with a little bit of a smile on our faces."

Generally, spokesman in most industries were optimistic about the economic and employment outlook.

Antibusing Amendment Gains Senate Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Wednesday approved on a 51-45 vote an antibusing amendment designed to block the transportation of students to distant schools to achieve racial balance.

The amendment, by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., would prohibit the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from requiring school districts to bus pupils to schools other than the one nearest their homes to end racial segregation.

Foes of the antibusing amendment expressed little concern because it did not affect court orders that have resulted in nearly all of the major busing programs now under way over the nation.

In addition, they said Byrd's language was virtually the same as permanent law on the subject adopted last year in an education bill.

The amendment faces two more Senate votes before passage. The next test will come on an amendment to which Byrd's amendment is attached.

If it passes the second vote, it will be part of the $36.2 billion HEW and Labor Department appropriations bill before the Senate.

After passage of the Byrd amendment, the Senate invoked cloture to limit debate on the bill, a move prompted in part by the four-day filibuster created by the West Virginia Democrat's proposal

The Senate turned back, 62-32, an attempt by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., to cut the total in the bill by $1 billion.

HEW Secretary F. David Mathews Monday asked senators to make sharp reductions in the measure to get it back close to President Ford's budget.

As it came to the floor from the Appropriations Committee, it exceeded the Ford request for the current fiscal year by $1.1 billion.

Allen noted his proposal called for a cut of less than 3%.

However, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., contended Ford's budget was deficient on health research and many other vital programs in HEW.

Lincolnite Shot By Law Officer

By WES ALBERS
Star Staff Writer

A Lincoln man was shot and "very seriously" injured by a law enforcement officer Wednesday night during an attempt to serve him with a search warrant, according to County Atty. Ron Lahners.

The man was taken to Lincoln General Hospital by ambulance and was being treated in the emergency room early Thursday morning. A hospital spokesman would not release the nature of his wounds.

The shooting victim is believed to be Sherdell Lewis, approximately 26 years old, according to unofficial news sources.

Lahners said a "goodly number" of officers were in the area of 23rd and Potter about 10 p.m. to serve a search warrant at a house there. The officers went to the door of the house and were met by a man carrying a gun, he said.

"An officer then discharged his weapon, injuring the occupant of the house," Lahners said in a press conference late Wednesday night.

At about 10:15 p.m., a police officer radioed police headquarters with a request for an ambulance at 2284 Potter. An ambulance and backup police units were sent to that address. A plainclothes member of the Lancaster County sheriff's office was also at the scene.

LEWIS . . . believed to be shooting victim.

Lahners said he was called by the police department and went to the house, where he stayed for about an hour to investigate.

An investigation "to determine exactly what happened" was being conducted early Thursday morning. Lahners said he would be questioning several people about the incident but no arrests had been made.

At the press conference, Lahners would not give the names of the officer and man involved or the exact address where the shooting occurred.

Curtis, Hruska Back Antibusing

From Press Reports

Nebraska Sens. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska voted with the majority to approve the antibusing amendment Wednesday.

On the vote to cut $1 billion from the $36.2 billion appropriations amendment for Health, Education and Welfare and Labor Departments, Curtis voted with the majority that defeated the amendment 62-32. Hruska voted for the amendment.

Boxcar Troubles Pile Up

"You can't buy a boxcar in our town today," said Don McNeese, manager of the Hickman elevator. McNeese had hoped to have a new elevator built on the site of the grain pile this year; however, delays in obtaining a release on the land prevented construction of additional grain storage facilities. The small but growing pile of milo is an indication that the boxcar shortage is returning to plague Nebraska farmers at harvest time. (Star Photo.)

2 Deputies Build Without Permits

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Two deputy sheriffs have built houses in Lancaster County without building permits, a violation of county law.

But they did it after clashing head-on with the building permit bureaucracy and after getting advice from a deputy county attorney.

And that's only part of the story.

The entire series of episodes over the past three years involves deputy sheriffs who were asked to report construction projects which did not have permits posted, a deputy county attorney who was retained as private attorney for a deputy sheriff during the time when the County Board frowned on outside practice for county attorneys, and conflicting accounts of what legal advice was given.

At issue is a county building permit law which has never been enforced for anyone at any time, despite a file of about 50 alleged violations in the county attorney's office.

About three years ago Deputy Sheriff Earl Zieman bought an 80-acre parcel of land along Princeton Rd. in southern Lancaster County.

Deputies David Halverstadt and James Russell were among at least eight people who purchased pieces of this land from Zieman.

Since the tracts were all more than five acres each, the owners did not have to meet county subdivision requirements, but in order to build on their land (less than 20 acres) they did need a building permit.

But three families have constructed homes, another family has put up a garage and no one has obtained a county building permit.

Halverstadt, the first to build on the land, says he got only confusing information about a building permit when he went to the county engineer's office.

So he turned for advice to Deputy County Atty. Bob Gibson, who was then being retained by former landowner Zieman.

"I don't remember the exact reason, but he did say I didn't need one (a permit)," Halverstadt recalls

So Halverstadt built his home, meeting all State Health Department water and sewage requirements and all inspections for his Veteran's Administration loan.

Russell too wanted to comply with all laws, but his case was even more difficult than Halverstadt's. Russell's property is landlocked — it does not face on a public road — and therefore does not meet zoning requirements for a building permit.

For three months Russell went around and around the building permit circle: no permit for landlocked property, no bank loan without a permit.

"I was not ignorant. I did try to get one. And I would still pay for one even though my house is finished," Russell said

Frustrated Russell also sought advice from Gibson. And Russell remembers that both Gibson and an attorney for Union Loan and Savings said he did not need the permit.

Gibson's memory is different. "I never told anyone they didn't need a permit," he said this week.

The entire problem surfaced at the County Board's Tuesday meeting when County Engineer Marv Nuernberger brought up the building permit question on behalf of another frustrated landowner.

Randall Lee Friendt purchased land from Zieman about 1½ years ago and has been trying unsuccessfully for several months to get a building permit. His property too is landlocked.

It does not front on a public road, but on a private lane, a lane still owned by Zieman.

Zieman has said that he intends to deed the lane to the county as a public road, but this commitment may have been jeopardized by other disputes, including a civil suit between Friendt and Zieman.

Even if Zieman agreed to give up the lane, the process would take several months, time that Friendt wants to use for construction.

New Chief's Arrival Only Part Of Busy Lincoln Police Worries

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Things like homicides, burglaries and speeders appear to be more on the minds of Lincoln police officers than the swearing in Monday of their new chief.

George Hansen, named to the position by Mayor Helen Boosalis, is now enroute to Lincoln with his family from Sunnyvale, Calif., where he was public safety director.

He is the first new police chief in Lincoln since more than 30 years ago when Joseph T. Carroll stepped into the spot and stayed there like the Rock of Gibraltar until retiring this spring.

Despite the novelty of the change in command, it appeared to be business-as-usual in the department, based on responses to questions put to a variety of police personnel.

"We haven't had time to think about it for the past two weeks," said Det. Marling Rauscher, one of the plainclothed detectives who has been working on the Jacob Surber-Jon Simpson deaths.

One detective, when asked for his feelings on the swearing in of the new chief, replied, "As far as I know Monday is the first day of my vacation."

He then pleaded for anonymity.

"I think it's similar to anyone getting a new boss," said Det. Seth Thomas.

"I think everyone's looking forward to it," said Off. Dave Harnly.

"I think the officers have the same apprehensions that anyone would in preparing to go to work under a man they haven't met," said Capt. John Miller.

"I think they're looking forward to working with Chief Hansen and carrying on the traditions of a fine police department."

The stacks of papers lying on Hansen's future desk perhaps symbolize the lack of flurry in the department in anticipation of the new chief's arrival.

Dale Adams, assistant chief, is still using the desk he took over as acting chief almost five months ago when Carroll retired.

Adams, who was a losing candidate for the job of chief, said Wednesday that he still has not made a decision on whether to leave the department.

Adams has been receiving encouragement from citizens, including Mayor Boosalis, to stay with the force he joined in 1947.

Leighton Wessel, police-community relations coordinator, also a losing candidate for the job, said he too is undecided on future plans.

Wessel, who said initially that he planned to take some time off to paint his house when Boosalis announced her selection, said Wednesday that he still is taking compensatory time off.

The paint is not yet on the house, Wessel said, "but I got the damn stuff as far as the garage."

1,590-Page Request Sets Budget Record

If Nebraska had its own version of the Guiness Book of World Records, the State Department of Education would be listed as a record-holder.

The department has submitted a six-volume, 1,590-page budget request for 1976-77.

That qualifies as the largest agency budget document ever submitted, officials indicated.

While congratulations may be in order for the department, condolences should be sent to budget analysts who will have to wade through the mountain of paperwork.

Adams has been receiving encouragement from citizens, including Mayor Boosalis, to stay with the force he joined in 1947.

Leighton Wessel, police-community relations coordinator, also a losing candidate for the job, said he too is undecided on future plans.

Wessel, who said initially that he planned to take some time off to paint his house when Boosalis announced her selection, said Wednesday that he still is taking compensatory time off.

The paint is not yet on the house, Wessel said, "but I got the damn stuff as far as the garage."

1,590-Page Request Sets Budget Record

If Nebraska had its own version of the Guiness Book of World Records, the State Department of Education would be listed as a record-holder.

The department has submitted a six-volume, 1,590-page budget request for 1976-77.

That qualifies as the largest agency budget document ever submitted, officials indicated.

While congratulations may be in order for the department, condolences should be sent to budget analysts who will have to wade through the mountain of paperwork.

CIA Secretly Opened One Letter To Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA secretly and illegally read the mail of many prominent Americans and opened at least one letter addressed to Richard M. Nixon before he became president, the chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee said Wednesday.

Later in the day, the panel agreed unanimously to ask Nixon to testify in its wide-ranging probe of improper activites by U.S. agences.

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said committee members felt Nixon himself was the "best witness" in a number of areas, including questions surrounding the short-lived Huston plan to give intelligence agencies sanction to break the law at times.

Nixon is not being called under subpoena, and Church would not say when or in what manner Nixon might appear.

Earlier, Church disclosed that in June 1968 the agency opened and read a letter, which commented on Nixon's prospects in that year's presidential election, written by Nixon speechwriter Raymond Price while traveling in the Soviet Union.

And Church said that one of his own letters, written to his mother-in-law from the Soviet Union, was included in correspondence found by his committee's staff while probing the CIA mail-opening operation — a project which was begun in 1952 and not closed down until Feb. 15, 1973.

Church's first statement on the matter Wednesday morning offered no detail but implied a wider scope to the mail surveillance than he later outlined.

In part he said, "We want to know why the CIA opened the mail of organizations such as the Ford Foundation, Harvard University, and the Rockefeller foundation or why mail to and from persons such as (Federal Reserve Chairman) Arthur Burns, Rep. Bella Abzug, Jay Rockefeller, Martin Luther King Jr., Richard Nixon himself, Hubert Humphrey and Edward Kennedy . . . should have been regularly opened and scrutinized by the CIA."

Church said that all the letters intercepted by the CIA were either sent from Communist Bloc countries or mailed from the United States to persons in those nations.

He said the mail files on prominent persons included single letters in some cases and a series of letters in others.

"These names were never on the (CIA) watchlist, so it is obvious that in the opening of mail they have gone very far afield indeed."

Church turned to James Angleton, the CIA's former counter-intelligence chief, to ask why the agency found it necessary to open the letter to Nixon.

"I would say it was very much in error," Angleton replied.

But Angleton insisted the overall operation had been valuable.

"In the future, intelligence organizations had better honor the Constitution and the laws because that's what freedom is all about," Church said.

Rockefeller, former West Virginia secretary of state and a nephew of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, said in Charleston, W.Va., that "to say the least, I am very surprised and not very pleased" upon learning that his mail had been opened.

Other targets of the mail opening expressed similar criticism.

The Federal Reserve's Burns said: "All I've got to go on is the news accounts. But if true, it is outrageous."

Sen. Kennedy said: "This is, I think, another examlle of the violation to the right of privacy by the CIA."

Sen. Humphrey called the mail interception "a fine example of bureaucratic arrogance" and added: "However, if they are going to read my mail, I wish they would start answering some of it."

Rep. Abzug commented: "I never thought that Richard Nixon and I would have anything in common. But it just goes to show that no American is safe from the CIA's mail snooping and other monstrous illegal actions."

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert B. "Bob" Considine, columnist for King Features Syndicate, was in serious condition Wednesday after suffering a stroke in his Manhattan apartment.

Considine, 68, was found lying on the floor of his apartment Monday morning and was taken to New York Medical Center University Hospital.

New York Times News Summary

Portugal, Angolu Focus

Washington — Four official sources said millions of dollars were being poured covertly into Portugal and Angola by East and West in the continuing struggle for control of the Mediterranean and for influence and raw materials in Central Africa. U.S. funds go to the Socialist and other Portuguese parties from the CIA through West European Socialist parties and labor unions at the rate of several million dollars, the sources said. The Soviet Union and its East European allies are reliably reported to have poured from $50 million to $100 million into Portugal since April 1974 and hundreds of tons of military hardware into Angola since March.

Modest Increase Expected

Vienna, Austria — The ministerial conference of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries moved toward what was expected to be a modest oil price increase.

Expulsion Favored

United Nations — Iraq's Foreign Minister Saadun Hamadi Wednesday termed the plight of the Palestinians "perhaps one of the supreme cases of injustice in the history of mankind," and said the right approach toward a settlement to the Middle East problem would be the expulsion of Israel from the United Nations.

Hearings Not Wanted

Washington — The Justice Department has asked a congressional investigating committee to hold off public hearings on two top-secret tax intelligence programs to avoid disrupting prosecutions in several major cities, congressional and department sources report.

Ineptitude Uncovered

Washington — The Agriculture Department, in an investigation of its own failure to act on repeated warnings of possible corruption in the grain-export trade, has uncovered a pattern of bureaucratic ineptitude and timidity, according to government officials. "It's impossible to tell whether the problem was stupidity, timidity or venality," one official says.

She Almost Made It

New York — Diane Nyad swam most of the way around Manhattan Wednesday, giving up after 6 hours and 25 minutes because she was "cold, frozen and tired." The 25-year-old graduate student started north in the East River, turned south at Spuyten Duyvil and had turned north from the Battery before asking to be taken from the water.

Child Care Tax Break May Grow

Washington (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to expand the child care tax break to all parents who must pay a babysitter or day care center in order to work, regardless of income.

The tax break would be extended to those using the standard deduction.

But while an estimated 1.9 million additional persons would get the break for the first time, more than 90% of the 2.1 million who received it in the past would get a smaller benefit.

Under the committee proposal, added to its growing tax revision bill, anyone who must pay outside help for child or dependent care in order to work could subtract 15% of those expenses directly from taxes owed, up to a maximum $360 for one child or $720 for two or more. This differs from a deduction, which is subtracted from income before taxes are calculated.

The proposal, approved 19 to 13, would cost the treasury an estimatd $110 million. It must be approved by both the House and Senate before going to President Ford.

17 Laws Added To Murphy's First

New York (UPI) — A New York management consulting firm said Wednesday that, after years of research, it had pieced together 17 more "Murphy's Laws."

Everyone has heard of Murphy's first law — "if anything can go wrong, invariably it will." But hardly anybody has even a foggy idea of who Murphy was.

Charles Yulish Associates said that in response to inquiries from numerous clients, it had set out to rectify this.

The search for Murphy's notebooks led to a garage in Toledo, an inventor's junk loft in Alequippa, Pa., the home of a retired female blackmailer in Sarasota, Fla., and some other places.

It was learned that Murphy had no first name, he never could hold a job and his writings invariably were returned by the post office for insufficient stamps and, added the researchers, "learned that Irish whiskey definitely deteriorates writing paper."

Nevertheless, the 17 additional Murphy's laws were pieced together. Among tham were these:

—Nothing is ever as simple as it first seems.

—Everything you decide to do costs more than first estimated.

—Every activity takes more time than you have.

—It's easier to make a commitment or to get involved in something than to get out of it.

—Whatever you set out to do, something else must be done first.

—If you improve or tinker with something long enough, eventually it will break.

—By making something absolutely clear, somebody will be confused.

—You can foul some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time and that's sufficient.

Grand Jury Indicts Five In Explosion On Turnpike

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A federal grand jury indicted five American Indians Wednesday on charges of possession and interstate transportation of illegal firearms and explosives.

The grand jury returned a 10-count indictment which affirmed previous charges against the accused, who were arrested Sept. 10 when a station wagon caught fire and exploded on the Kansas Turnpike near Wellington.

Indicted were Darlene P. Nichols, 20, Shawnee, Okla.; Bernadine Nichols, 21, Pine Ridge, S.D.; Keith DeMarrias, 22, no permanent address; Norman Charles, 19, Rosebud, S.D. and Robert Eugene Robideau, 28, Pine Ridge.

Bond was set at $75,000 for Robideau and Charles; $25,000 for DeMarrais, and $7,500 each for the two women.

Darlene Nichols, the common-law wife of American Indian Movement leader Dennis Banks, was the only one who had posted bond on the earlier charges and she remained free.

Two juveniles also were charged in connection with the explosion, but federal authorities dismissed Wednesday a complaint against a 15-year-old girl.

A 16-year-old boy remained in custody pending juvenile delinquency proceedings in U.S. District Court in Wichita.

Federal agents said the station wagon carrying the Indians from Rosebud to Shawnee contained firearms with obliterated serial numbers and hand grenades.

The station wagon caught fire because its muffler fell off as it crossed the Kansas-Nebraska line and heat finally ignited its flooring or some of the explosives.

Moore Paid Collector $145 For .38 Revolver

San Francisco (UPI) — Sara Jane Moore, the former paid FBI informant who fired a shot at President Ford, bought the chrome plated 38 caliber revolver only four hours earlier from a private gun collector for $145

"Here's a middle-aged woman, a divorcee with a child," Mark Fernwood, 26, the collector, said Wednesday "There's no way of knowing she would do an insane thing like that."

Mrs. Moore, 45, whipped the gun from her purse Monday and fired a single shot at the President 40 feet away Monday as he emerged from a hotel She has been ordered to the San Diego metropolitan correctional center, a new federal facility, for a 60-day psychiatric examination.

Public Defender James Hewitt said he was considering an appeal of the terms of the order, issued by U S. Magistrate Owen E Woodruff. The magistrate stayed the order until Friday to give Hewitt time to deal with a contention that a defense psychiatrist and lawyer must be present at the examination.

Fernwood, who lives in suburban Danville, said Miss Moore was introduced to him by mutual friends At one time Miss Moore lived in Danville.

Three weeks ago, when he first met her, Fernwood sold her a 44 caliber pistol she said she needed for protection because she lived in a dangerous neighborhood of San Francisco

He accompanied her to a nearby firing range to determine that she knew how to handle a gun properly Fernwood concluded, "I thought she was very safe with it and there was no likelihood she would injure herself "

But the .44 caliber gun was confiscated Sunday by police.

The Secret Service questioned Miss Moore Sunday night and released her as not constituting a threat to the President

One factor may have been that Miss Moore had served until last June as a paid FBI informant reporting on activities of various radicals she knew while working with the People-In-Need program distributing food as part of the Patricia Hearst ransom effort

Monday morning Miss Moore returned to Ferwood's Danville home and hastily drank a soft drink he offered

"She got here about 11 a.m. and she seemed in good spirits," he said. "I joked with her and everything seemed normal. We never discussed politics and she never said anything about the President "

Miss Moore paid in cash, and left for her position outside the St. Francis Hotel where at 3:30 p.m. local time she fired at Ford.

"Fortunately, she got a gun that's very poor," Fernwood said "For a sniper weapon, it's very inaccurate It's a close-range, self-defense weapon."

Fernwood was questioned by FBI agents and released Under state law he said private sellers are not required, as are professional dealers, to report gun sales to authorities

PATTY'S CAT? . . . It's one of two cats found where Miss Hearst was arrested.

Radical Groups Skeptical About Patty's Torture Story

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Radical groups reacted with skepticism Wednesday to Patricia Hearst's sworn statement that she was tortured and driven to insanity by her Symbionese Liberation Army captors

But her attorney said Miss Hearst personally approved every detail of her long affidavit, and Steven Weed, her ex-fiance, said he was glad she had issued the statement.

"Our feeling is, we haven't heard anything come out of Patty's mouth since she's been arrested except when she identified herself as an urban guerrilla," said Kathy Streem, a spokeswoman for the Prisoners of War Offense-Defense

"We don't know anything about the circumstances of how the affidavit was made," she said "We still support her until she says something herself to prove we shouldn t"

Miss Hearst's attorney, Terence Hallinan, said, "She told me everything that's in the affidavit under penalty of perjury "

The newspaper heiress, arrested here Thursday swore in an affidavit presented Tuesday in support of her request for a reduction in bail that she lied under duress when she told of her rebirth as the revolutionary 'Tania

She declared in her affidavit she was tortured mentally and physically by her kidnapers, that she was blindfolded, bound and locked in a closet for weeks while constantly threatened with death

' From everything I know about the SLA I just don t believe they would treat her the way the affidavit described," Miss Streem said

She said her organization was active in the legal defense of SLA members Joseph Remiro and Russell Little in their murder trial on charges of assassinating Oakland Schools Supt Marcus Foster It also is one of three groups that issued a statement of support immediately after Miss Hearst, fellow SLA members William and Emily Harris and fugitive Wendy Yoshimura were captured

The United Prisoners Union, another group that joined in that statement, "doesn't believe that she turned on people we consider comrades," said spokesman Sleepy Bailey

"If she gets up in court and starts saying those things, or if we hear them confirmed by other SLA members like the Harrises, then she would no longer be considered a comrade," Bailey said

"It's immaterial whether Patty Hearst became a willing accomplice or was merely a victim of the SLA, said a spokesman for the Progressive Labor party, which describes itself as a Communist organization dedicated to violent revolution "The real issue is how this gang of police agents and informers was used to discredit the entire left movement in this country "

Two black community groups that worked with the People in Need food giveaway designed to free Miss Hearst shortly after she was kidnaped said they would have no comment Leaders of the Black Muslims and Western Addition Project Area Committee said they had pledged at the time of the food program not to become involved in other aspects of the case.

Patty Changes Listing

REDWOOD CITY Calif (AP) — Patricia Hearst is no longer listed as an ' urban guerrilla ' on a jail booking slip

San Mateo County Sheriff John McDonald said Wednesday that Miss Hearst had conferred with her attorneys and now lists herself as not employed

Miss Hearst had described herself as an urban guerrilla when she was booked into the jail after her capture

Ford Won't Curtail Travel But He'll Be More Careful

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman declared anew Wednesday that there will be no letup in President Ford's travel plans despite the chief executive's statement that "I'm anxious to be as careful as I can "

Press Secretary Ron Nessen indicated, however, that the President is otherwise taking greater safety precautions He cited as evidence the fact that Ford had not plunged into the sidewalk crowd from which a shot was fired at him Monday

Nessen's remarks followed Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott's prediction — after a meeting with Ford — that the President would indeed be trimming his travel

Scott, of Pennsylvania, and other GOP congressional leaders visited Ford at the White House to discuss his safety in the wake of the two recent attempts on the President's life by women with guns

The senator said that Ford told him ' I know what people are feeling and I'm anxious to be as careful as I can "

Scott said he thought there would be "some hiatus" in Ford s travels "before too long " When pressed for the source of that belief, Scott referred vaguely to items he had read in newspapers

Questioned about Scott's remarks, Nessen said "truly there's been no change in the President's travel plans as the result of the two incidents" in California Ford now is scheduled to go to Chicago Sept 30 and to Detroit Oct 10, and several side trips associated with those two journeys are under consideration

Nessen noted, however, that there will be a letup in any case in November and December when the President will be concentrating on the budget and other reports to be submitted to Congress in January

Nessen hinted that Ford has begun to bow more to the Secret Service's advice in traveling situations As an example, he said, the President followed the recommendation of his bodyguards that he avoid handshaking in the crowd from which a shot was fired at him in San Francisco Monday

The press secretary said the President "is more than satisfied with the security he receives from the Secret Service " Even so, he "certainly is not going to try and block" a planned Senate investigation of the agency Nessen said

Both Scott and House Minority Leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz , said after their meeting with Ford that the Secret Service should expand its efforts to locate potential assassins before they can get within range of the President

Tests Begun On Exhibits In Sirhan's Murder Trial

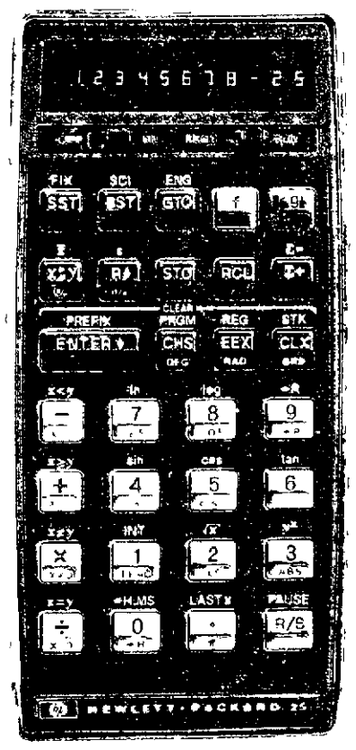

Los Angeles (UPI) — Seven firearms experts began private tests Wednesday on exhibits in the murder trial of Sirhan B Sirhan to try to answer the question of whether more than one gun was used in the assassination of Sen Robert F. Kennedy

The experts worked in a jury room, equipped as a laboratory, in the county courthouse

The panel was appointed by Superior Court Judge Robert Wenke in response to a lawsuit filed by Paul Schrade, a former United Auto Workers official, who was among those wounded when Kennedy was killed in June 1968 in a pantry at the Ambassador Hotel

Supporters of the second gun theory contend there is evidence indicating that not all the bullets that struck Kennedy and wounded five other persons were fired from the same pistol

Moore Paid Collector $145 For .38 Revolver

San Francisco (UPI) — Sara Jane Moore, the former paid FBI informant who fired a shot at President Ford, bought the chrome plated .38 caliber revolver only four hours earlier from a private gun collector for $145.

"Here's a middle-aged woman, a divorcee with a child," Mark Fernwood, 26, the collector, said Wednesday. "There's no way of knowing she would do an insane thing like that."

Mrs. Moore, 45, whipped the gun from her purse Monday and fired a single shot at the President 40 feet away Monday as he emerged from a hotel. She has been ordered to the San Diego metropolitan correctional center, a new federal facility, for a 60-day psychiatric examination.

Public Defender James Hewitt said he was considering an appeal of the terms of the order, issued by U.S. Magistrate Owen E. Woodruff. The magistrate stayed the order until Friday to give Hewitt time to deal with a contention that a defense psychiatrist and lawyer must be present at the examination.

Fernwood, who lives in suburban Danville, said Miss Moore was introduced to him by mutual friends. At one time Miss Moore lived in Danville.

Three weeks ago, when he first met her, Fernwood sold her a .44 caliber pistol she said she needed for protection because she lived in a dangerous neighborhood of San Francisco.

He accompanied her to a nearby firing range to determine that she knew how to handle a gun properly. Fernwood concluded, "I thought she was very safe with it and there was no likelihood she would injure herself."

But the .44 caliber gun was confiscated Sunday by police.

The Secret Service questioned Miss Moore Sunday night and released her as not constituting a threat to the President.

One factor may have been that Miss Moore had served until last June as a paid FBI informant reporting on activities of various radicals she knew while working with the People-In-Need program distributing food as part of the Patricia Hearst ransom effort.

Monday morning Miss Moore returned to Ferwood's Danville home and hastily drank a soft drink he offered.

"She got here about 11 a.m. and she seemed in good spirits," he said. "I joked with her and everything seemed normal. We never discussed politics and she never said anything about the President."

Miss Moore paid in cash, and left for her position outside the St. Francis Hotel where at 3:30 p.m. local time she fired at Ford.

"Fortunately, she got a gun that's very poor," Fernwood said. "For a sniper weapon, it's very inaccurate. It's a close-range, self-defense weapon."

Fernwood was questioned by FBI agents and released. Under state law he said private sellers are not required, as are professional dealers, to report gun sales to authorities.

PATTY'S CAT? . . . It's one of two cats found where Miss Hearst was arrested.

Radical Groups Skeptical About Patty's Torture Story

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Radical groups reacted with skepticism Wednesday to Patricia Hearst's sworn statement that she was tortured and driven to insanity by her Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

But her attorney said Miss Hearst personally approved every detail of her long affidavit, and Steven Weed, her ex-fiance, said he was glad she had issued the statement.

"Our feeling is, we haven't heard anything come out of Patty's mouth since she's been arrested except when she identified herself as an urban guerrilla," said Kathy Streem, a spokeswoman for the Prisoners of War Offense-Defense.

"We don't know anything about the circumstances of how the affidavit was made," she said. "We still support her until she says something herself to prove we shouldn't."

Miss Hearst's attorney, Terence Hallinan, said, "She told me everything that's in the affidavit under penalty of perjury."

The newspaper heiress, arrested here Thursday, swore in an affidavit presented Tuesday in support of her request for a reduction in bail that she lied under duress when she told of her rebirth as the revolutionary "Tania."

She declared in her affidavit she was tortured mentally and physically by her kidnapers, that she was blindfolded, bound and locked in a closet for weeks while constantly threatened with death.

"From everything I know about the SLA, I just don't believe they would treat her the way the affidavit described," Miss Streem said.

She said her organization was active in the legal defense of SLA members Joseph Remiro and Russell Little in their murder trial on charges of assassinating Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster. It also is one of three groups that issued a statement of support immediately after Miss Hearst, fellow SLA members William and Emily Harris and fugitive Wendy Yoshimura were captured.

The United Prisoners Union, another group that joined in that statement, "doesn't believe that she turned on people we consider comrades," said spokesman Sleepy Bailey.

"If she gets up in court and starts saying those things, or if we hear them confirmed by other SLA members like the Harrises, then she would no longer be considered a comrade," Bailey said.

"It's immaterial whether Patty Hearst became a willing accomplice or was merely a victim of the SLA," said a spokesman for the Progressive Labor party, which describes itself as a Communist organization dedicated to violent revolution. "The real issue is how this gang of police agents and informers was used to discredit the entire left movement in this country."

Two black community groups that worked with the People in Need food giveaway designed to free Miss Hearst shortly after she was kidnaped said they would have no comment. Leaders of the Black Muslims and Western Addition Project Area Committee said they had pledged at the time of the food program not to become involved in other aspects of the case.

Patty Changes Listing

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Patricia Hearst is no longer listed as an "urban guerrilla" on a jail booking slip.

San Mateo County Sheriff John McDonald said Wednesday that Miss Hearst had conferred with her attorneys and now lists herself as "not employed."

Miss Hearst had described herself as an "urban guerrilla" when she was booked into the jail after her capture.

Ford Won't Curtail Travel But He'll Be More Careful

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman declared anew Wednesday that there will be no letup in President Ford's travel plans despite the chief executive's statement that "I'm anxious to be as careful as I can."

Press Secretary Ron Nessen indicated, however, that the President is otherwise taking greater safety precautions. He cited as evidence the fact that Ford had not plunged into the sidewalk crowd from which a shot was fired at him Monday.

Nessen's remarks followed Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott's prediction — after a meeting with Ford — that the President would indeed be trimming his travel.

Scott, of Pennsylvania, and other GOP congressional leaders visited Ford at the White House to discuss his safety in the wake of the two recent attempts on the President's life by women with guns.

The senator said that Ford told him: "I know what people are feeling and I'm anxious to be as careful as I can."

Scott said he thought there would be "some hiatus" in Ford's travels "before too long." When pressed for the source of that belief, Scott referred vaguely to items he had read in newspapers.

Questioned about Scott's remarks, Nessen said "truly there's been no change in the President's travel plans as the result of the two incidents" in California. Ford now is scheduled to go to Chicago Sept. 30 and to Detroit Oct. 10, and several side trips associated with those two journeys are under consideration.

The press secretary said the President "is more than satisfied with the security he receives from the Secret Service." Even so, he "certainly is not going to try and block" a planned Senate investigation of the agency, Nessen said.

Another Great Train Robbery

Pershing College at Beatrice may well turn out to be another big steal — from Fairbury. That is the current status, at least, as the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College board has voted to negotiate the acquisition of the Beatrice facilities in order to move the Fairbury campus there.

That, in our opinion, would represent an unjustified steal. We are well aware of the problems at Fairbury, found largely in a small enrollment and a substantial debt.

We are well aware, too, of the debt-free campus at Beatrice and the larger population base available there. These, however, are not necessarily compelling reasons to take from the people of Fairbury an important community facility that they have long supported.

The alternative, in our opinion, is to attempt to make Fairbury into a viable institution by initiating programs there that would expand its student body. Put exactly what you have at Fairbury in Beatrice, a program too heavy on academic affairs and too light on vocational affairs, and you would simply have another problem.

If a move to Beatrice succeeded, it would be because the curriculum was changed. That can be accomplished just as easily at Fairbury and, in the process, not disrupt a whole community.

The Southeast Technical board must assume a large part of the responsibility for the declining position of the Fairbury institution. The board has done nothing, to our knowledge, to make a go of it in Fairbury.

This whole business comes about for one simple but unfortunate reason — the availability of the old Pershing Campus in Beatrice. That campus is now owned by the University of Nebraska Foundation, a group that should never have accepted it in the first place.

Now realizing what a white elephant it has on its hands, the foundation wants to pawn the place off on the Southeast Technical group. There are, of course, many legal questions about that which still could stop the move from Fairbury to Beatrice.

One can easily understand the interest of Beatrice in finding a productive use for its empty facilities but that is no reason for that goal to be achieved at the expense of someone else. All that would mean is that the big, rich and powerful get everything they want and the others get kicked in the teeth.

The proper course for the Southeast Technical board is to end its negotiating for Pershing, turn down that political gift and get to work in making Fairbury what it can and should be.

With Liberty, You're Dead

Give me liberty or give me . . . one of her pups. That should be "Liberty," with a capital L, for it is a proper name. It is the name, to be exact, of the family dog belonging to the nation's First Family.

You may remember having seen pictures of Liberty recently and of her litter of pups. The pups will go to select friends or associates of Mr. Ford.

This is one time you can count your blessings, that you are not on close terms with the President. How many times have the kids tried to con you into getting a dog?

Now and then you may have relented, and always lived to rue the day. Hair all over the place, messes here and there around the house, a ruined yard, bigger grocery bills and a healthy check to the veterinarian now and then were a few of the rewards you received for having relented.

So, when the kids get on the "Why can't I have a dog" kick, you now have the firmness to say no and make it stick. But what if the President of the United States gave you a pup?

Well, of course you would have no choice but to accept it. Throughout the nation are millions and millions of kids who wish they knew the President and millions and millions of parents who are glad they don't.

Demolition Folly

Lincoln, Neb.

The taxpayers cannot afford the luxury of the demolition of the old police station for a parking lot.

These buildings are only 40 years old. Someone is asking for more courtroom space. There is a ready-made courtroom in the northwest corner and several others could easily be constructed.

It is sheer folly to the hard-pressed real estate taxpayer to consider demolishing buildings as good as these!

Shooting Range Available

Lincoln, Neb.

Congratulations to the Nebraska Game commissioners for turning down the request for a shooting range on Branched Oak grounds.

How dumb can the CUSTER committee be, or misinformed, about there not being any shooting range in this part of the country, as they claimed? All they have to do is go out to the Izaak Walton League grounds southeast of Lincoln and they will find everything they proposed, already installed and available to members for $20 annual dues, plus a beautiful club house and acres of parking.

Let the cheapskates plunk down $20 for a year's use, and quit belly-aching.

Thinks Walton Misses Target

Table Rock, Neb.

I must take strong exception to Don Walton's article on gun control in his column, "On Target" — which I definitely think he is not.

Don criticizes people for becoming emotional on this issue, then quickly becomes guilty of his own criticism by calling people who believe in the right to keep and bear arms insane in their arguments. If he believes that guns, not people, kill people, then an analogy would be that cars kill people, not drunk drivers. Insane?

I think that it is important to point out that we as hunters and sport shooters believe that we have a constitutional right to keep and bear arms just as the news media believe they have the rights of free speech and press. Many people, including myself, believe that the news media have many times abused their rights by flooding the populace with opinion under the guise of news. Yet when the media are criticized for these abuses, no one squawks louder than they about their rights of free speech and press.

So when somebody such as Don wants to take away our constitutional rights to keep and bear arms, we are going to be heard also.

Another important point that needs to be made is that the NRA has for years recommended a mandatory jail sentence for persons convicted of a crime involving the use of a firearm. Why doesn't the media help this recommendation become a reality instead of trying to make it harder for the honest person to acquire guns for legal use?

Don also ridicules a person for keeping a firearm for self-protection. A lot of good law-abiding citizens have lost faith in our judicial system that often allows persons charged and/or convicted of serious crimes to walk freely among us. Unless this trend is reversed, self-protection may be the only answer.

I have endeavored to make my points without becoming emotional.

MILAN TOMEK

Seeking And Searching For Answers

By WILLIAM V. SHANNON

WASHINGTON — Prudence suggests that President Ford should cancel his public appearances for the next several weeks and restrict them thereafter to indoor settings.

There are fashions in paranoia as in almost everything else. One addled young woman tries to shoot the President in Sacramento. Two weeks later, another woman takes a shot at him in San Francisco.

In the interim, before a presidential appearance in St. Louis, a policeman chases but cannot catch a man with a large black pistol.

Assassination has become the fashion. Like airline pilots when the hijacking of airplanes was the "in" thing among crazy people, Ford is the potential victim of a temporary mania. He should impose a self-denying restraint and avoid public appearances until the excitement dies down.

On a purely voluntary basis, newspapers, magazines and television might also try to avoid agitating other disordered minds. The media could withhold photographs of the would-be assassins and play down detailed coverage of their private lives.

Thus, Time and Newsweek showed regrettable judgment in placing on their covers the face of the young woman who earlier this month tried to shoot the President.

There is repetitive quality to these events that the press should try to break up. These persons, experiencing themselves as ciphers, yearn for sensational publicity that will seem to validate the self-importance they crave. The press, while reporting the essential facts, has a responsibility to deny them the gratification of instant celebrity. It would thereby avoid encouraging other sick persons to get their names and faces on the front pages or the evening news shows by an act of violence.

According to a Gallup Poll in June, more than two-thirds of the public supports registration of all firearms. But a majority — 55% to 41% — opposes banning the private possession of pistols and revolvers. Support for such a ban is strong in the East and the big cities, but the opposition is overwhelming in the South and West. As long as the latter attitude persists, the prospects are poor for enactment of a strong, comprehensive law.

The argument is sometimes made that gun control is irrelevant to the problem of political assassinations because such a law would fail to deter an assassin. That would be true if these crimes were committed by trained killers from the underworld or from a serious political conspiracy. But the only proved episode of that character was the attack by Puerto Rican conspirators on President Truman at Blair House in 1950.

All of the others were committed or attempted by eccentric individuals who, so far as is now known, were acting by themselves and for no clear purpose. A gun control law would not preclude such persons obtaining a weapon, but it would greatly diminish their chances of doing so.

It may also be significant that usually only presidents and not presidential candidates have been the targets of this violence. The only exceptions were Theodore Roosevelt, a former president, in the campaign of 1912, and Robert Kennedy, the brother of a murdered president and himself a figure of virtually presidential fame and intensity at the time of his death. (The death of Sen. Huey Long might be said to be a third exception. But in his native state of Louisiana, Long had become a virtual dictator. Since his arbitrary exercise of power had created numerous personal enemies, his assassination was politically comprehensible. Rather than a random event, it was perhaps the unique American example of tyrannicide.)

If presidents rather than presidential candidates are the targets of assassination, it is because presidents are not like other men. As symbols of the power of the government, they have a singular hold on the public imagination and evoke singular fantasies and frenzies.

An ordinary public man, even a presidential candidate, can probably still mingle with crowds in relative safety. But once a man takes on the extraordinary powers of the presidency, he assumes also an extraordinary burden of risk. Because of the harm that an assassin does to the stability of the body politic, a President has now to conduct himself with rigorous restraint and discretion. By his refusal to recognize that fact, Ford does himself and the Republic a disservice.

The No-Gun Theory

By JAMES RESTON

NEW YORK — After these two sudden threats on President Ford's life, two questions haunt the American mind: What explains this mindless violence and even vengeance against the authority of the Republic? And what, if anything, can be done about it?

The easy answer to the first question, which Ford always gives, is that these "incidents" are the regrettable acts of twisted minds, part of the unavoidable tragedy and pity of human life, and therefore not to be confused with the generous character and good people of the nation.

An equally easy answer to the second question is that nothing much can be done about the violence, short of two undemocratic and unacceptable decisions: to isolate the President from the people, or to impose the "right" of preventive detention and lock up suspected assassins wherever he goes, which happens to be unconstitutional.

These may be easy but they are not frivolous answers. The President is undoubtedly right in warning against drawing general conclusions from unusual acts by rebellious individuals or minority political factions. This goes with Edmund Burke's admonition to the House of Commons in the case of the rebellious American colonies that you cannot condemn or "indict a whole people." But it is no answer to the problem.

We go through this philosophical argument after every personal and political tragedy in America. It is always the same story: Sarah Jane Moore, shooting at the President in San Francisco; Lynette Fromme in her scarlet cape and clown's hat pulling a gun on him in Sacramento; Patty Hearst, holding up banks and winding up with her clinched fist on the covers of Time and Newsweek, are all "misled or demented" souls, telling us nothing about the life of America but only about their own personal failures and confusions.

There is, however, something unsatisfactory about this line of thought, and it is not helpful and may even be dangerous for the President to say he will go right on with his political meetings in Chicago, announcing them in advance and where he's going to be. For in the process he is identifying his attackers as crazies, which many of them obviously are, but at the same time almost inviting them to show up at his next political rally.

You don't have to "indict a whole people" or be sentimental about these California felons and killers in order to wonder if there isn't something deeply wrong with the way things are going in the country as a whole. The Ford administration says that Patty Hearst, Sally Moore, and Lynette Fromme are an "aberration", which is a fancy word for "kooks", but John Kennedy said the Bay of Pigs was an "aberration", and Teddy Kennedy said that Chappaquiddick was an accident, and the Democrats said the Vietnam war was an aberration, and Nixon said Watergate was an aberration — all untypical of an essentially law-abiding country.

Everybody caught violating the laws and principles of the country in recent years, including the CIA with its cache of deadly poisons against presidential orders, says it was all a human failing and nothing institutional or national. But the record of the last decade suggests something more serious and fundamental.

After the murder of President Kennedy, the Warren Commission set up a task force to study the causes of violence and assassination in the United States. The report of that task force made some observations about the history and character of American life that may be relevant to the recent threats on President Ford's life.

— The level of assassination in the United States, it said, corresponds to the level of political turmoil and violence in general.

— In comparison to other nations, the report added, the United States has a higher level of violence and assassination. Violence to achieve political goals is a thread which runs throughout the history of the country, but the present level of assassination and political turmoil is no greater than in times past.

— "The United States was born in political violence," it observed. War for independence, war against Indians, against Mexicans, Civil War between the States, between sheep and cattlemen, between labor and management, between the races and the classes.

Dr. Herbert Hendin, a psychoanalyst at Columbia University, who has written a perceptive troubling book called "The Age of Sensation," suggests other reasons for the turmoil and violence of the age. We are seeing a lot of people like Fromme and Sally Moore, he says, who are angry at the world they see. They are lost and in rebellion. They do not know what family life is, and want to attach themselves to somebody or something, to Manson or to the Symbionese Liberation group or whatever.

Sure, he says, this is an "aberration", but this is a culture that pays millions of dollars to watch a man jump across a canyon. It's a culture that puts an emphasis on the kind of sensational thing that gets attention.

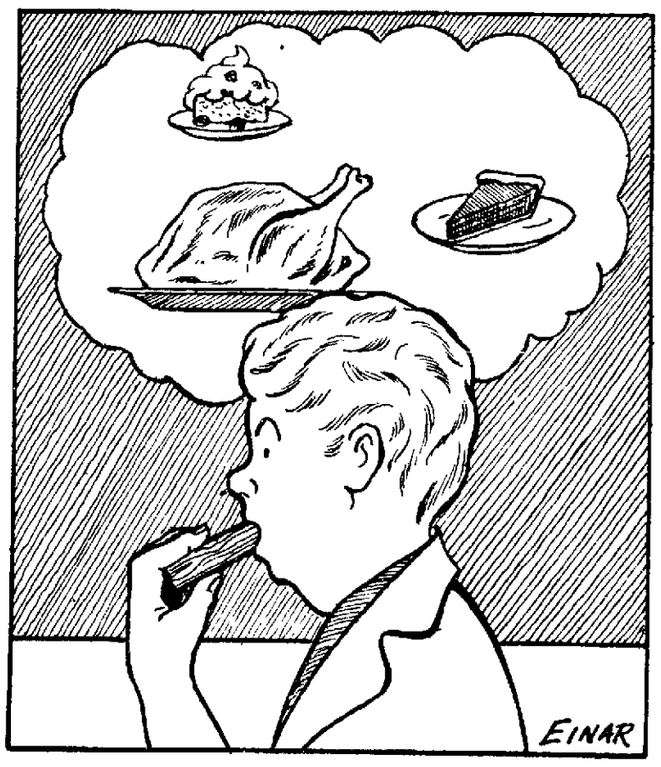

And he agrees that press and television probably contribute to all this. "I see it," he said, "even with students who are suicidal, and made attempts following Marilyn Monroe's suicide. They participate in the glamor and excitement and I think the one attempt, highly publicized, encourages others."

So maybe it won't do to say that all these tragedies are accidents and personal failures. You don't have to "indict a whole people," as Edmund Burke insists, in order to recognize that something has gone wrong in the common purpose of the nation.

Patchwork Prairie Country

The pond is down to moss and scum, an indication what the summer has been in our area. Large areas surrounding the pond have been without water all summer but now there remains only a small portion where the pond is deepest that holds water. The reeds and rushes and sloo grass that grew there have wilted and died lending an acrid tang to the air.

The wheat has been sown into the dry dirt . . . something The Farmer didn't want to do but waiting for rain seemed a remote dream.

Also, more pressing problems are immediately before him. Many farmers are reporting the milo is going down due to the stress of summer heat and sparse rainfall. Though the stalks are still green, combining has begun in our area. The Farmer didn't want to get into a labor bind of sowing wheat and combining milo all at the same time. Now it will be resetting the combine from the wheat harvest to that of milo and cleaning and greasing the monster with its long, wide mouth of saw-edged silver teeth.

There is somewhat of a chill finality in knowing that the shadows are long now and growing longer. The wind is crisp and an extra jacket is an added comfort. It is almost a kind of sadness to realize that flowering time is now sealed in the pod and harvest will soon be gone. Perhaps it is because summer was one of wind and drouth with all the clouds wrung out of moisture.

"Can this be all?" I ask myself. Summer is gone and no one saw it go. Summer skies that were bronze as the breast feathers of a cock pheasant were without rain clouds. These same skies also became the skies of autumn. Perhaps this is why autumn subtly sneaked upon us.

The asters blooming beside the walk confirm the autumn season for me. They nod and dip as the wind passes by. Day after day the blossoms sway giving a certain zest of color. Finally the heads drop and a brown mass of petals hang from the stems.

The rusty trills of a robin also tell me autumn is here. Its notes fall sluggishly, half formed as if remembering April twilight notes, yet unable to recapture them in all their gusto.

Today we had our first home-grown acorn squash for dinner along with an apple pie made from the apples in our orchard. While the oven was being used, I put in a roasting chicken. When the delicious blends of cooking apples and browning fowl reached me, I suddenly became famished. Hunger immediately overtook me and I wondered how I could summon enough strength to wait until I put the meal on the table.

This also happens to me when I thumb through a magazine and see such beautiful color pictures of food displayed. Reading recipes only adds to the agony. I immediately feel as if I have not eaten for days. I might add that at this stage, nibbling on a carrot does very little to alleviate the pangs of hunger.

After all, a carrot is a poor substitute for an inch-thick charcoal broiled steak, oozing with golden juices or a beautiful strawberry dessert piled high with an elegant meringue.

The longer I look and read, the more haunting the brooding power becomes until finally I go to the kitchen, rattle those pots and pans and try another recipe.

I should have more recipes like the following taken from a cook-book I purchased several years ago when we visited the Ozarks. It's called "Ozark Carp."

Use one 12-inch pine board cleaned well. Butter the board and place cleaned carp on board. Add salt, pepper, bay leaf, parsley and thyme. Bake one hour at 350 degrees. When done to a golden brown, remove from oven. Carefully remove carp from the board. Throw the carp away and eat the board.

Gnawing on a board would at least keep me occupied until time for the next meal. Does a pine board have any calories?

If a move to Beatrice succeeded, it would be because the curriculum was changed. That can be accomplished just as easily at Fairbury and, in the process, not disrupt a whole community.

The Southeast Technical board must assume a large part of the responsibility for the declining position of the Fairbury institution. The board has done nothing, to our knowledge, to make a go of it in Fairbury.

This whole business comes about for one simple but unfortunate reason — the availability of the old Pershing Campus in Beatrice. That campus is now owned by the University of Nebraska Foundation, a group that should never have accepted it in the first place.

Now realizing what a white elephant it has on its hands, the foundation wants to pawn the place off on the Southeast Technical group. There are, of course, many legal questions about that which still could stop the move from Fairbury to Beatrice.

One can easily understand the interest of Beatrice in finding a productive use for its empty facilities but that is no reason for that goal to be achieved at the expense of someone else. All that would mean is that the big, rich and powerful get everything they want and the others get kicked in the teeth.

The proper course for the Southeast Technical board is to end its negotiating for Pershing, turn down that political gift and get to work in making Fairbury what it can and should be.

With Liberty, You're Dead

Give me liberty or give me . . . one of her pups. That should be "Liberty," with a capital L, for it is a proper name. It is the name, to be exact, of the family dog belonging to the nation's First Family.

You may remember having seen pictures of Liberty recently and of her litter of pups. The pups will go to select friends or associates of Mr. Ford.

This is one time you can count your blessings, that you are not on close terms with the President. How many times have the kids tried to con you into getting a dog?

Now and then you may have relented, and always lived to rue the day. Hair all over the place, messes here and there around the house, a ruined yard, bigger grocery bills and a healthy check to the veterinarian now and then were a few of the rewards you received for having relented.

So, when the kids get on the "Why can't I have a dog" kick, you now have the firmness to say no and make it stick. But what if the President of the United States gave you a pup?

Well, of course you would have no choice but to accept it. Throughout the nation are millions and millions of kids who wish they knew the President and millions and millions of parents who are glad they don't.

Demolition Folly

Lincoln, Neb.

The taxpayers cannot afford the luxury of the demolition of the old police station for a parking lot.

These buildings are only 40 years old. Someone is asking for more courtroom space. There is a ready-made courtroom in the northwest corner and several others could easily be constructed.

It is sheer folly to the hard-pressed real estate taxpayer to consider demolishing buildings as good as these!

Shooting Range Available

Lincoln, Neb.

Congratulations to the Nebraska Game commissioners for turning down the request for a shooting range on Branched Oak grounds.

How dumb can the CUSTER committee be, or misinformed, about there not being any shooting range in this part of the country, as they claimed? All they have to do is go out to the Izaak Walton League grounds southeast of Lincoln and they will find everything they proposed, already installed and available to members for $20 annual dues, plus a beautiful club house and acres of parking.

Let the cheapskates plunk down $20 for a year's use, and quit belly-aching.

Table Rock, Neb.

I must take strong exception to Don Walton's article on gun control in his column, "On Target" — which I definitely think he is not.

Don criticizes people for becoming emotional on this issue, then quickly becomes guilty of his own criticism by calling people who believe in the right to keep and bear arms insane in their arguments. If he believes that guns, not people, kill people, then an analogy would be that cars kill people, not drunk drivers. Insane?

I think that it is important to point out that we as hunters and sport shooters believe that we have a constitutional right to keep and bear arms just as the news media believe they have the rights of free speech and press. Many people, including myself, believe that the news media have many times abused their rights by flooding the populace with opinion under the guise of news. Yet when the media are criticized for these abuses, no one squawks louder than they about their rights of free speech and press.

So when somebody such as Don wants to take away our constitutional rights to keep and bear arms, we are going to be heard also.

Another important point that needs to be made is that the NRA has for years recommended a mandatory jail sentence for persons convicted of a crime involving the use of a firearm. Why doesn't the media help this recommendation become a reality instead of trying to make it harder for the honest person to acquire guns for legal use?

Don also ridicules a person for keeping a firearm for self-protection. A lot of good law-abiding citizens have lost faith in our judicial system that often allows persons charged and/or convicted of serious crimes to walk freely among us. Unless this trend is reversed, self-protection may be the only answer.

I have endeavored to make my points without becoming emotional.

Seeking And Searching For Answers

By WILLIAM V. SHANNON

WASHINGTON — Prudence suggests that President Ford should cancel his public appearances for the next several weeks and restrict them thereafter to indoor settings.

There are fashions in paranoia as in almost everything else. One addled young woman tries to shoot the President in Sacramento. Two weeks later, another woman takes a shot at him in San Francisco.

In the interim, before a presidential appearance in St. Louis, a policeman chases but cannot catch a man with a large black pistol.

Assassination has become the fashion. Like airline pilots when the hijacking of airplanes was the "in" thing among crazy people, Ford is the potential victim of a temporary mania. He should impose a self-denying restraint and avoid public appearances until the excitement dies down.

On a purely voluntary basis, newspapers, magazines and television might also try to avoid agitating other disordered minds. The media could withhold photographs of the would-be assassins and play down detailed coverage of their private lives.

Thus, Time and Newsweek showed regrettable judgment in placing on their covers the face of the young woman who earlier this month tried to shoot the President.

There is repetitive quality to these events that the press should try to break up. These persons, experiencing themselves as ciphers, yearn for sensational publicity that will seem to validate the self-importance they crave. The press, while reporting the essential facts, has a responsibility to deny them the gratification of instant celebrity. It would thereby avoid encouraging other sick persons to get their names and faces on the front pages or the evening news shows by an act of violence.

According to a Gallup Poll in June, more than two-thirds of the public supports registration of all firearms. But a majority — 55% to 41% — opposes banning the private possession of pistols and revolvers. Support for such a ban is strong in the East and the big cities, but the opposition is overwhelming in the South and West. As long as the latter attitude persists, the prospects are poor for enactment of a strong, comprehensive law.

The argument is sometimes made that gun control is irrelevant to the problem of political assassinations because such a law would fail to deter an assassin. That would be true if these crimes were committed by trained killers from the underworld or from a serious political conspiracy. But the only proved episode of that character was the attack by Puerto Rican conspirators on President Truman at Blair House in 1950.

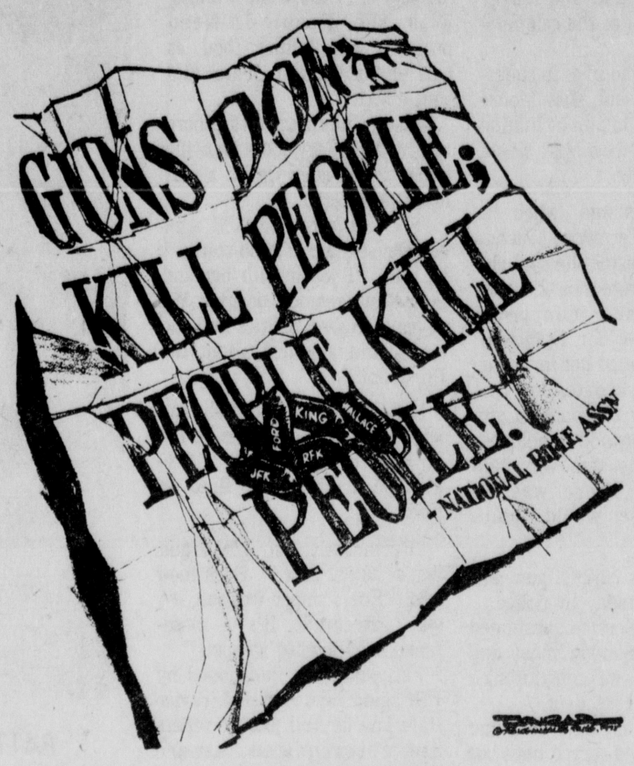

All of the others were committed or attempted by eccentric individuals who, so far as is now known, were acting by themselves and for no clear purpose. A gun control law would not preclude such persons obtaining a weapon, but it would greatly diminish their chances of doing so.

It may also be significant that usually only presidents and not presidential candidates have been the targets of this violence. The only exceptions were Theodore Roosevelt, a former president, in the campaign of 1912, and Robert Kennedy, the brother of a murdered president and himself a figure of virtually presidential fame and intensity at the time of his death. (The death of Sen. Huey Long might be said to be a third exception. But in his native state of Louisiana, Long had become a virtual dictator. Since his arbitrary exercise of power had created numerous personal enemies, his assassination was politically comprehensible. Rather than a random event, it was perhaps the unique American example of tyrannicide.)

If presidents rather than presidential candidates are the targets of assassination, it is because presidents are not like other men. As symbols of the power of the government, they have a singular hold on the public imagination and evoke singular fantasies and frenzies.

The No-Gun Theory

An ordinary public man, even a presidential candidate, can probably still mingle with crowds in relative safety. But once a man takes on the extraordinary powers of the presidency, he assumes also an extraordinary burden of risk. Because of the harm that an assassin does to the stability of the body politic, a President has now to conduct himself with rigorous restraint and discretion. By his refusal to recognize that fact, Ford does himself and the Republic a disservice.

By JAMES RESTON

NEW YORK — After these two sudden threats on President Ford's life, two questions haunt the American mind: What explains this mindless violence and even vengeance against the authority of the Republic? And what, if anything, can be done about it?

The easy answer to the first question, which Ford always gives, is that these "incidents" are the regrettable acts of twisted minds, part of the unavoidable tragedy and pity of human life, and therefore not to be confused with the generous character and good people of the nation.

An equally easy answer to the second question is that nothing much can be done about the violence, short of two undemocratic and unacceptable decisions: to isolate the President from the people, or to impose the "right" of preventive detention and lock up suspected assassins wherever he goes, which happens to be unconstitutional.

These may be easy but they are not frivolous answers. The President is undoubtedly right in warning against drawing general conclusions from unusual acts by rebellious individuals or minority political factions. This goes with Edmund Burke's admonition to the House of Commons in the case of the rebellious American colonies that you cannot condemn or "indict a whole people." But it is no answer to the problem.

We go through this philosophical argument after every personal and political tragedy in America. It is always the same story: Sarah Jane Moore, shooting at the President in San Francisco; Lynette Fromme in her scarlet cape and clown's hat pulling a gun on him in Sacramento; Patty Hearst, holding up banks and winding up with her clinched fist on the covers of Time and Newsweek, are all "misled or demented" souls, telling us nothing about the life of America but only about their own personal failures and confusions.

There is, however, something unsatisfactory about this line of thought, and it is not helpful and may even be dangerous for the President to say he will go right on with his political meetings in Chicago, announcing them in advance and where he's going to be. For in the process he is identifying his attackers as crazies, which many of them obviously are, but at the same time almost inviting them to show up at his next political rally.

You don't have to "indict a whole people" or be sentimental about these California felons and killers in order to wonder if there isn't something deeply wrong with the way things are going in the country as a whole. The Ford administration says that Patty Hearst, Sally Moore, and Lynette Fromme are an "aberration", which is a fancy word for "kooks", but John Kennedy said the Bay of Pigs was an "aberration", and Teddy Kennedy said that Chappaquiddick was an accident, and the Democrats said the Vietnam war was an aberration, and Nixon said Watergate was an aberration — all untypical of an essentially law-abiding country.

Everybody caught violating the laws and principles of the country in recent years, including the CIA with its cache of deadly poisons against presidential orders, says it was all a human failing and nothing institutional or national. But the record of the last decade suggests something more serious and fundamental.

☆ ☆ ☆

After the murder of President Kennedy, the Warren Commission set up a task force to study the causes of violence and assassination in the United States. The report of that task force made some observations about the history and character of American life that may be relevant to the recent threats on President Ford's life.

— The level of assassination in the United States, it said, corresponds to the level of political turmoil and violence in general.

— In comparison to other nations, the report added, the United States has a higher level of violence and assassination. Violence to achieve political goals is a thread which runs throughout the history of the country, but the present level of assassination and political turmoil is no greater than in times past.

— "The United States was born in political violence," it observed. War for independence, war against Indians, against Mexicans, Civil War between the States, between sheep and cattlemen, between labor and management, between the races and the classes.

Dr. Herbert Hendin, a psychoanalyst at Columbia University, who has written a perceptive troubling book called "The Age of Sensation," suggests other reasons for the turmoil and violence of the age. We are seeing a lot of people like Fromme and Sally Moore, he says, who are angry at the world they see. They are lost and in rebellion. They do not know what family life is, and want to attach themselves to somebody or something, to Manson or to the Symbionese Liberation group or whatever.

Sure, he says, this is an "aberration", but this is a culture that pays millions of dollars to watch a man jump across a canyon. It's a culture that puts an emphasis on the kind of sensational thing that gets attention.

And he agrees that press and television probably contribute to all this. "I see it," he said, "even with students who are suicidal, and made attempts following Marilyn Monroe's suicide. They participate in the glamor and excitement and I think the one attempt, highly publicized, encourages others."

So maybe it won't do to say that all these tragedies are accidents and personal failures. You don't have to "indict a whole people," as Edmund Burke insists, in order to recognize that something has gone wrong in the common purpose of the nation.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

The pond is down to moss and scum, an indication what the summer has been in our area. Large areas surrounding the pond have been without water all summer but now there remains only a small portion where the pond is deepest that holds water. The reeds and rushes and sloo grass that grew there have wilted and died lending an acrid tang to the air.

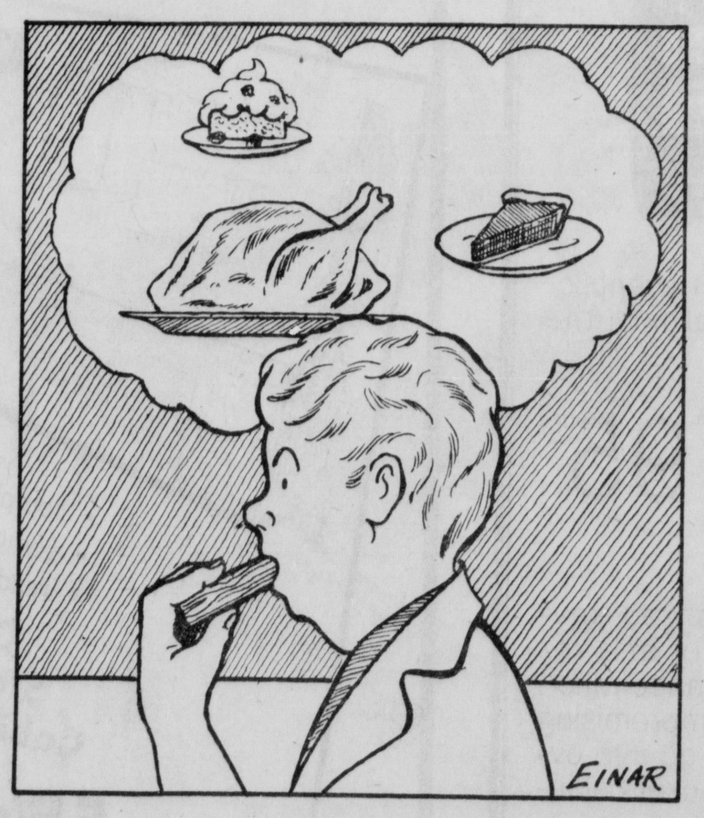

The wheat has been sown into the dry dirt . . . something The Farmer didn't want to do but waiting for rain seemed a remote dream.

Also, more pressing problems are immediately before him. Many farmers are reporting the milo is going down due to the stress of summer heat and sparse rainfall. Though the stalks are still green, combining has begun in our area. The Farmer didn't want to get into a labor bind of sowing wheat and combining milo all at the same time. Now it will be resetting the combine from the wheat harvest to that of milo and cleaning and greasing the monster with its long, wide mouth of saw-edged silver teeth.

There is somewhat of a chill finality in knowing that the shadows are long now and growing longer. The wind is crisp and an extra jacket is an added comfort. It is almost a kind of sadness to realize that flowering time is now sealed in the pod and harvest will soon be gone. Perhaps it is because summer was one of wind and drouth with all the clouds wrung out of moisture.

"Can this be all?" I ask myself. Summer is gone and no one saw it go. Summer skies that were bronze as the breast feathers of a cock pheasant were without rain clouds. These same skies also became the skies of autumn. Perhaps this is why autumn subtly sneaked upon us.

The asters blooming beside the walk confirm the autumn season for me. They nod and dip as the wind passes by. Day after day the blossoms sway giving a certain zest of color. Finally the heads drop and a brown mass of petals hang from the stems.

The rusty trills of a robin also tell me autumn is here. Its notes fall sluggishly, half formed as if remembering April twilight notes, yet unable to recapture them in all their gusto.

Today we had our first home-grown acorn squash for dinner along with an apple pie made from the apples in our orchard. While the oven was being used, I put in a roasting chicken. When the delicious blends of cooking apples and browning fowl reached me, I suddenly became famished. Hunger immediately overtook me and I wondered how I could summon enough strength to wait until I put the meal on the table.

This also happens to me when I thumb through a magazine and see such beautiful color pictures of food displayed. Reading recipes only adds to the agony. I immediately feel as if I have not eaten for days. I might add that at this stage, nibbling on a carrot does very little to alleviate the pangs of hunger.

After all, a carrot is a poor substitute for an inch-thick charcoal broiled steak, oozing with golden juices or a beautiful strawberry dessert piled high with an elegant meringue.

The longer I look and read, the more haunting the brooding power becomes until finally I go to the kitchen, rattle those pots and pans and try another recipe.

I should have more recipes like the following taken from a cook-book I purchased several years ago when we visited the Ozarks. It's called "Ozark Carp."

Use one 12-inch pine board cleaned well. Butter the board and place cleaned carp on board. Add salt, pepper, bay leaf, parsley and thyme. Bake one hour at 350 degrees. When done to a golden brown, remove from oven. Carefully remove carp from the board. Throw the carp away and eat the board.

Gnawing on a board would at least keep me occupied until time for the next meal. Does a pine board have any calories?

Top Steer Sells For $15 A Pound

Omaha (AP) — Ak-Sar-Ben's grand champion steer sold for a record $15 a pound during the auction Wednesday.

Entering the high bid for the 1,220-pound Limousin-Hereford-Angus crossbred shown by Chris Maier, 15, of Eagle Grove, Iowa, was Chapman Commodities of Omaha. It shattered the previous high of $12 a pound paid by Gorat's Steakhouse of Omaha set a year ago.

The reserve grand champion steer, a 1,160-pound Limousin-Red Angus exhibited by J.D. Anderson, 16, of Arapahoe, Neb., brought a record $6.25 a pound.

Safeway Stores of Omaha purchased the grand champion lamb for $16 a pound. The 106-pound Suffolk wether was shown by John Sweeney, 16 of Runnels, Iowa.

Bidding for the grand champion market hog reached a record $21.50 a pound with Kay Omaha Livestock Market Inc., purchasing the 279-pound Hampshire gilt shown by Minnesota 4-H'er Tim Baumgarn, 14, who has a Lake Park, Iowa address.

Second Feeder Calf Show Dominated By Crossbreds

Omaha — Crossbred animals dominated the winner's circle in the second feeder calf show at the Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show with Nebraskans showing the top animals.

Thirteen-year-old Todd Adamson of Cody exhibited the chapion among feeder calf steers, a 560-pound Chianina-Charolais-Angus cross. Adamson, making his first appearance at the Ak-Sar-Ben Show, also placed seventh in feeder calf showmanship.

The reserve grand feeder steer, shown by Shelly Satree, 15, of Craig, was a Simmental-Angus-Hereford. The Craig girl also placed second in feeder calf showmanship.

Leading the field of feeder heifers was the Angus-Simmental exhibited by Paula Brand of Nickerson. The reserve grand heifer was the Simmental-Hereford-Brown Swiss entry to Mike Zeis, 17, of Valley.

Winning the top two spots in the Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn feeder calf steer division was Kirk Barnes, 12, of Cody, with his Angus entries.

Kirk's brother Steven, 17, had the reserve champion British breed calf heifer, also an Angus, and was edged out of the top slot by the Hereford entry of Matt Lawver of Weston.

Mike Schlegel, 15, of Culbertson received the top place rosette for Shorthorn Market steers.

Washington County was awarded the sheep herdsmanship plaque.

Ann Henderson, 17, of Alliance displayed the reserve champion Hereford market steer.

Gib Kelly of Page placed third in the 4-H tractor operator's contest held in conjunction with the livestock show. The winner was Steve Mergen of Glen Haven, Wis. Kelly placed first in the practical exam portion of the contest.

Drop Expected In Production Of Phosphates

Rabat, Morocco (AP) — Production of phosphates in Morocco, the world's largest exporter, is expected to drop some six million metric tons, or 27%, below the total planned for 1975, according to authoritative sources in the Moroccan capital.

Morocco's overall production of some 20 million tons last year was to have been stepped up to 22.5 million tons in 1975. Instead, the total output is likely to be around 16.5 million tons, the sources said.

Diplomatic observers attributed the sharp production drop to the six-fold price increase imposed since 1973 by the Moroccan phosphate industry.

Top quality phosphate sold at $10 to $12 a ton in 1973 is now sold at $68 a ton.

Bereuter Urges Reorganization At County Level

Utica Sen. Douglas Bereuter suggested Wednesday at the Nebraka Grange Convention in Lincoln that a constitutional change is needed to revamp county government.

According to Bereuter's proposal, county governments should establish a manager or administrator form of government. in place of the present fragmented system of county administration.

Better administration could reduce problems counties face as they approach the consitutional limit on mill levies, Bereuter said.

Mrs. Marguerite Spaedt

Mrs. Spaedt Named Lincoln's City Clerk

Finance Director Jim Mallon appointed Marguerite Spaedt City Clerk Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Spaedt is a 21-year veteran in the clerk's office and has served as deputy clerk since 1966. She will succeed clerk Harold Springer who died unexpectedly last week.

Mallon said that Springer's death "will be a great loss to us, but we feel fortunate to have someone as capable as Mrs. Spaedt to take his place."

Mayor Helen Boosalis said she concurs in the appointment since, she said, "I favor appointing qualified people to city positions."

The clerk's office is a division of the Finance Dept.

Council Plans N-Plant Hearing

The City Council will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the council chambers on the construction of a nuclear power plant.

The Lincoln Electric System (LES) Administrative Board suggested that the city buy into 13% of the proposed Ft. Calhoun No. 2 nuclear plant which may be built near Omaha.

A bond ordinance before the city lawmakers would lay the groundwork for the city to participate in the construction of the plant.

Mayor Helen Boosalis said Wednesday she still hasn't made up her mind whether she favors the bond ordinance, which would authorize issuing $425 million in electric revenue bonds to pay for LES's 10-year power supply program.

She said she wants to listen to the testimony Thursday to obtain in as much information as possible on both the ordinance and the Ft. Calhoun obligation.

The mayor can veto actions of the City Council. The council, in turn, can override the veto with a two-thirds vote.

Although council members have yet to commit themselves publicly on the nuclear plant issue, it appears that the council will be divided when when the matter comes up for a vote Monday.

Canadian Gas Prices To Rise

Edmonton, Alberta (AP) — The federal and Alberta governments reaffirmed an agreement to increase natural gas prices in eastern Canada by 52% effective Nov. 1.

Federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said following the meeting with his Alberta counterpart, Don Getty, that the governments are taking action to head off an arbitration board award that would have boosted prices in the huge eastern market by 85% on Nov. 1.

Under the new arrangement gas prices will be set at $1.25 a thousand cubic feet wholesale in Toronto.

Oldsmobile 1976.

An Olds for everybody. And good mileage in every size.

Take a look at the beautiful new 1976 Oldsmobiles in your dealer's showroom. They're impressive.

Then take a look at the 1976 EPA Mileage Guide test figures for Oldsmobile. They're impressive, too.

They show that good gas mileage runs in our family. Remember these mileage figures are estimates. Naturally the actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment

From sporty Starfire supercoupes to full-size, front-wheel drive Toronados, there's good gas mileage in every size Olds.

That's quite a feat considering the array of sizes and models that Olds is offering this year. With this kind of selection, there's bound to be an Olds to fit your lifestyle and pocketbook. And every Olds, whether small, mid-size or full-size is built to be right for the times.

If you own a 1974 or earlier car, you can expect every 1976 Olds to save you money through reduced recommended maintenance schedules ... up to 7,500 miles between oil changes, up to 22,500 miles before changing spark plugs

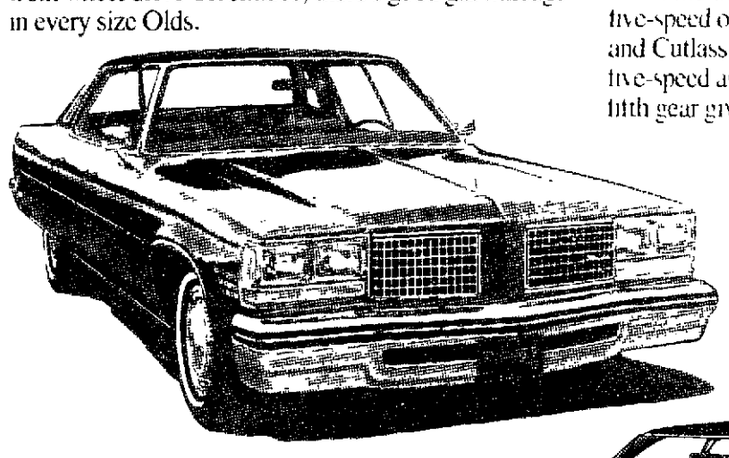

And this year Oldsmobile is offering an available five-speed overdrive transmission on Starfire, Omega and Cutlass models. (You may be used to thinking of five-speed as strictly a performance feature, but the fifth gear gives you overdrive efficiency.)

We invite you to make a total comparison. Good gas mileage, traditional Oldsmobile engineering, construction, dependability and solid comfort. You'll find each Olds packed with value because it's built with the care and attention to detail that's a tradition at Oldsmobile. Can we build one for you?

Mrs. Spaedt Named Lincoln's City Clerk

Finance Director Jim Mallon appointed Marguerite Spaedt City Clerk Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Spaedt is a 21-year veteran in the clerk's office and has served as deputy clerk since 1966. She will succeed clerk Harold Springer who died unexpectedly last week.

Mallon said that Springer's death "will be a great loss to us, but we feel fortunate to have someone as capable as Mrs. Spaedt to take his place."

Mayor Helen Boosalis said she concurs in the appointment since, she said, "I favor appointing qualified people to city positions."

The clerk's office is a division of the Finance Dept.

Council Plans N-Plant Hearing

The City Council will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the council chambers on the construction of a nuclear power plant.

The Lincoln Electric System (LES) Administrative Board suggested that the city buy into 13% of the proposed Ft. Calhoun No. 2 nuclear plant which may be built near Omaha.

A bond ordinance before the city lawmakers would lay the groundwork for the city to participate in the construction of the plant.

Mayor Helen Boosalis said Wednesday she still hasn't made up her mind whether she favors the bond ordinance, which would authorize issuing $425 million in electric revenue bonds to pay for LES's 10-year power supply program.

She said she wants to listen to the testimony Thursday to obtain in as much information as possible on both the ordinance and the Ft. Calhoun obligation.

The mayor can veto actions of the City Council. The council, in turn, can override the veto with a two-thirds vote.

Although council members have yet to commit themselves publicly on the nuclear plant issue, it appears that the council will be divided when when the matter comes up for a vote Monday.

Canadian Gas Prices To Rise

Edmonton, Alberta (AP) — The federal and Alberta governments reaffirmed an agreement to increase natural gas prices in eastern Canada by 52% effective Nov. 1.

Federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said following the meeting with his Alberta counterpart, Don Getty, that the governments are taking action to head off an arbitration board award that would have boosted prices in the huge eastern market by 85% on Nov. 1.

Under the new arrangement gas prices will be set at $1.25 a thousand cubic feet wholesale in Toronto.

Oldsmobile 1976.

An Olds for everybody. And good mileage in every size.

Take a look at the beautiful new 1976 Oldsmobiles in your dealer's showroom. They're impressive.

Then take a look at the 1976 EPA Mileage Guide test figures for Oldsmobile. They're impressive, too.

They show that good gas mileage runs in our family. Remember these mileage figures are estimates. Naturally the actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment.

From sporty Starfire supercoupes to full-size, front-wheel drive Toronados, there's good gas mileage in every size Olds.

That's quite a feat considering the array of sizes and models that Olds is offering this year. With this kind of selection, there's bound to be an Olds to fit your lifestyle and pocketbook. And every Olds, whether small, mid-size or full-size is built to be right for the times.

If you own a 1974 or earlier car, you can expect every 1976 Olds to save you money through reduced recommended maintenance schedules ... up to 7,500 miles between oil changes, up to 22,500 miles before changing spark plugs.

And this year Oldsmobile is offering an available five-speed overdrive transmission on Starfire, Omega and Cutlass models. (You may be used to thinking of five-speed as strictly a performance feature, but the fifth gear gives you overdrive efficiency.)

We invite you to make a total comparison. Good gas mileage, traditional Oldsmobile engineering, construction, dependability and solid comfort. You'll find each Olds packed with value because it's built with the care and attention to detail that's a tradition at Oldsmobile. Can we build one for you?

55 MPH Law On Docket

By United Press International

The Nebraska Supreme Court will hear oral arguments Oct. 7 on the constitutionality of a speed limit law enacted this year which limits to $10 the fine paid by anyone caught speeding 10 miles per hour or less on the interstate system, it was learned Wednesday.

George Turner, Supreme Court Clerk, said the case would be the first one heard on that day. The court goes into its October session on Oct. 6 and finishes on Oct. 10.

The high court accpeted the constitutional case as an original action That means that no case was filed in a lower court, a decision handed down and then appealed by one side or the other.

The request to file the question as an original action was made by Atty Gen Paul Douglas on behalf of Gov. J James Exon

The law in question was originally designed only to make the 55 mph speed limit a permanent feature in Nebraska. The limit was set at 55 mph last year in response to the energy crisis.

But during the legislative process, Sen Ernest Chambers of Omaha had it amended to allow a maximum fine of $10 for going up to 65 mph on the interstate No drivers license points are lost and no court costs are assessed in those cases

Douglas contends the legislation amounts to special legislation in that it does not treat every speed limit violator the same

Exon argues that to leave the law on the books means the state really doesn't have a speed limit law, up to a point, and makes it hard to enforce the portion that is there

AAUP Case Before Court

The State Court of Industrial Relations will hear arguments Thursday on the appropriateness of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) Lincoln chapter as a collective bargaining unit

The hearing will begin at 9 30 a-m in the Terminal Building, 10th and O, and may continue on Friday if necessary.

The AAUP petitioned the industrial relations court seeking a faculty election, in steps to form a union The action was sparked by NU Regents temporary suspension of tenure-granting and faculty disgruntlement about what they said was low pay and insufficient faculty roles in decision-making

The regents have asked the court to deny the petition, on the basis the university system should be included in the bargaining unit The AAUP has proposed the unit consist of Lincoln campus full-time faculty members, excluding those in the Law and Dental Colleges and top administrators

More than 60% of UNL faculty signed cards asking for an election

Groundbreaking Set For Cozad Diagnostic Unit

Cozad — Groundbreaking ceremonies for the Cozad Diagnostic Resource Center will be held at 9 a.m Friday

Scheduled speakers for the event include Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan, State Sen. Herbert Duis of Gotherburg, R Jerry Hargitt, president of the State Board of Education, Cozad Mayor Ivan B. Svoboda, and Kenneth Clark, Lincoln architect.

Nebraska Commissioner of Education Anne Campbell will turn the first spade of dirt.

Major purposes of this center will be teacher training, applied research, testing of mentally and physically handicapped children, and training of special education personnel.

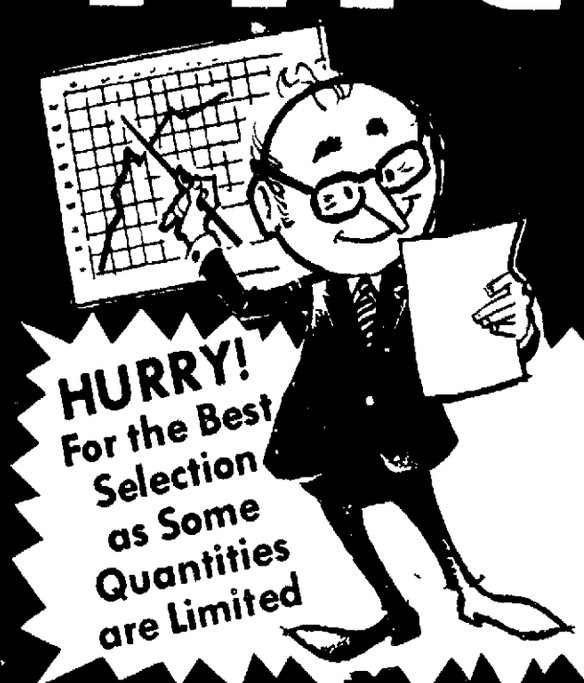

Anticipated completion date of the center is March 1977.

UNL Grad Hauck To Show Drawings

Marty Hauck, a 1972 University of Nebrska-Lincoln graduate, will show pencil drawings in the lounge of Wesley Chapel, 640 N. 16th St., on Sept. 28 from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

School Officials Did Not Follow Directions

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public Schools officials failed to follow directions in preparing their budget statement for state auditors on Aug. 15, The Star learned Wednesday.

As a result, Lincoln Public Schools' figures for the 1974-75 school year understated income from the state's school lands by $587,000.

Robert Den Hartog, Lincoln Public Schools finance administrator, said the district submitted a revenue projection for school land income prepared a year earlier, because the budget report was required prior to the end of the district's fiscal year.

The schools' fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1975. The budget report required by State Auditor Ray A.C. Johnson was submitted Aug. 15.

Directions Misunderstood

Den Hartog said the district misunderstood the budget documents' directions and submitted estimated amounts instead of actual school land income for 10 months and estimated income for 2 months.

"There was no practical way to get the actual figures," Den Hartog said Wednesday during a meeting with Johnson.

The Star Wednesday requested a copy of the directions Johnson sent the school district for filling out the forms.

On the second of five pages of directions, the school districts are clearly told that state school lands income should be "based on actual amounts from Sept. 1, 1974 through June 30, 1975, PLUS estimations for July and August, 1975."

Instructions Underlined

The entire sentence was underlined for emphasis in the directions. On the budget form, the appropriate column is headed "actual and estimated."

On March 19, 1975, the school district received a $1.3 million check from the state for its share of rental income from the leasing of state-owned school lands.

Payments for all districts were larger than anticipated due to improved school land rents.

In its budget report to auditors, the district listed its school land and related income at $780,000. Such an underestimation, if not counteracted by higher than anticipated expenses in other areas, would raise the unused balance carried forward into the 1975-76 school year by $587,000 and possibly require a higher mill levy than absolutely needed.

Den Hartog Wednesday noted that the Lincoln Board of Education was informed in writing on April 8 that the district's school land income was $1.3 million.

Questions Logical

After meeting with Johnson, Den Hartog said there had been "a misunderstanding of a document that needs clarification." He called the meeting "very constructive" and added that the auditors' questions would logically arise in any examination of the budget.

Johnson agreed that some clarification may be needed.

However, Johnson said, "If we (auditors) have trouble understanding a school district's budget, think of the poor taxpayer at the budget hearing."

Johnson said he became involved in the issue because, "The public expects somebody to review these budgets. If we haven't enforced the budget laws in the past, that's not to say we're going to continue.

'More Requests'

"People have made more requests for information about budgets this year than any other since I took office."

In a sense, the disagreement over the budget report is the latest development in a debate concerning the size of the uncommitted funds the Lincoln School District carries. For the current school year, the district is maintaining a $5.7 million budget "cushion."

Bayh Slated To Address Democrats

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., is scheduled to address the Nebraska First Congressional District Democratic caucus Sunday in Fremont.

Bayh's office said the Democratic presidential contender, will return to Nebraska on Thursday, Oct. 2, for a press conference at the Omaha airport prior to speaking to a coffee for Democrats in Council Bluffs, Iowa.

The three-term senator is a member of the Senate Judiciary and Appropriations Committees.

Lancaster County Demos Schedule Fund-Raisers

Lancaster County Democrats Wednesday announced plans for a series of receptions and fund-raising efforts scheduled over the next several months.

Receptions are scheduled for the Clayton House on Sept. 25, Sept. 29, Sept. 30, Oct. 1 and Oct. 2, all beginning at 8 p.m.

A series of four money-gathering get-togethers, beginning next month, will replace the traditional annual county fund-raising dinner.

A "Salute to Democratic History" will launch the fund-raising program, dubbed "Fun-Raising '75," on Oct. 10 at the National Guard Armory.

Other programs are planned Nov. 6 at Uncle Sam's discotheque and Dec. 5 at the Northeast Holiday Inn.

The fund-raising effort will be capped on Jan. 24 with a "Gubernatorial Gala," ending with a champagne nightcap at the Governor's Mansion.

Man Found Beaten Dies

Omaha (AP) — Omaha police said Arthur Hinz, 83, of Chicago died Tuesday night in a hospital after he had been found beaten in a downtown alley.

Acting Douglas County Coroner James Keenan ordered an autopsy.

Relatives told police Hinz was traveling by bus to Denver. Officers theorized he was walking in the downtown area during a layover in Omaha. He was found in the alley early Tuesday.

Relatives said Hinz apparently had a wallet containing several hundred dollars. Police said the wallet was missing.

Shooting Justifiable

Omaha (AP) — Douglas County authorities have ruled that the Monday night shooting death of an Omaha man was a case of justifiable homicide.

The victim, James M. Nunn, 26, was shot in the head as he allegedly tried to kick down the door of an apartment occupied by two women, according to Deputy County Atty. Edward Warin.

Warin said Nunn was acquainted with the two women.

According to Warin, one of the women, Terry L. Griffen, 19, fired the shot that hit Nunn.

Miss Griffen and the other woman in the apartment were questioned about the incident, but were released Wednesday morning.

Lincoln SCC Graduation Set Thursday Night

Graduation exercises for 124 students of the Southeast Community College Lincoln campus will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday at East High School, 1000 S. 70th.

College Area President Robert S. Eicher will give the welcome. Lincoln campus Director David L. Buttner will preside, and Dr. Gene Harding of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will present the address, "What Now?"

Of the 124 graduates, 25 will receive an associate degree in applied science, after completing six-quarter programs. Ninety-two will receive a diploma, for four-quarter programs, and seven students will receive certificates of completion for three-quarter course work.

More than half the graduates, 64, list permanent residences outside Lincoln, from as far away as Benkelman.

Lancaster County Demos Schedule Fund-Raisers

Lancaster County Democrats Wednesday announced plans for a series of receptions and fund-raising efforts scheduled over the next several months.

Receptions are scheduled for the Clayton House on Sept. 25, Sept. 29, Sept. 30, Oct. 1 and Oct. 2, all beginning at 8 p.m.

A series of four money-gathering get-togethers, beginning next month, will replace the traditional annual county fund-raising dinner.

A "Salute to Democratic History" will launch the fund-raising program, dubbed "Fun-Raising '75," on Oct. 10 at the National Guard Armory.

Other programs are planned Nov. 6 at Uncle Sam's discotheque and Dec. 5 at the Northeast Holiday Inn.

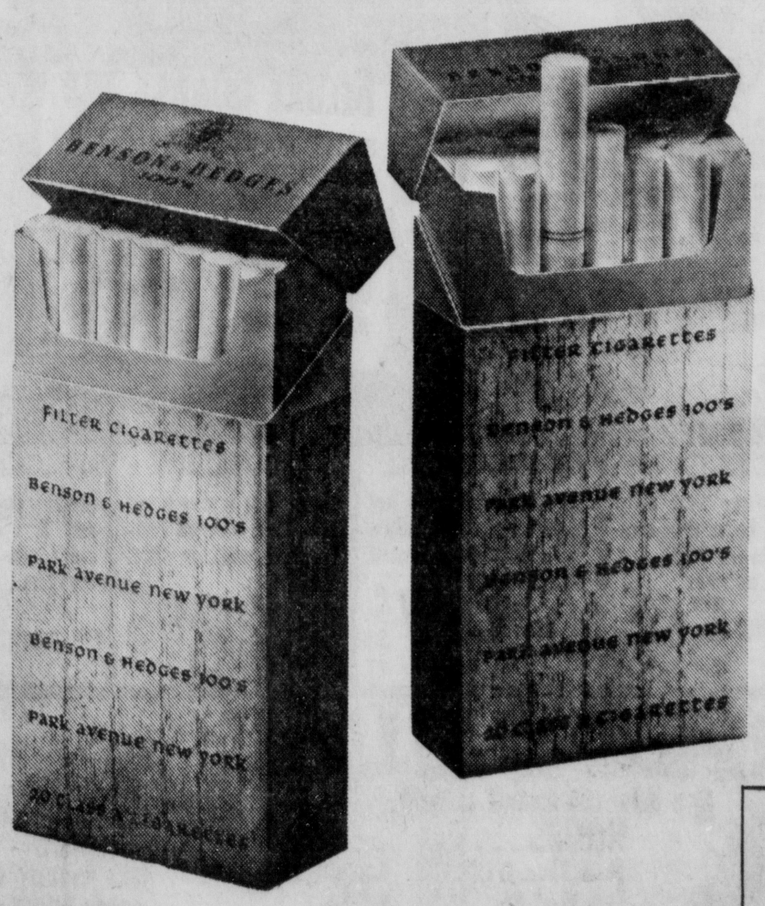

The fund-raising effort will be capped on Jan. 24 with a "Gubernatorial Gala," ending with a champagne nightcap at the Governor's Mansion.

Legislator Accuses Public Of Resisting Tax Reforms

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature is frustrated in its efforts to respond to the public's demand for lower property taxes, Sen. Cal Carsten of Avoca said Wednesday.

"Sneators are always being told that property taxes are too high," the Revenue Committee chairman said.

"But we get rebuffed in every attempt we make" to take the pressure off local property taxation, he said.

Carsten's committee is now holding hearings on a number of tax proposals, including two bills which would switch the school support revenue burden from property to income taxes.

Support Not Broad

In a series of outstate hearings committee members did not find "overwhelming support for this approach," Carsten noted.

The committee met in Lincoln Wednesday, and heard strong opposition to the school income tax support concept expressed by the Nebraska Tax Research Council.

The balanced system of state sales and income taxes in combination with local property taxes is a "more fair" approach to government revenue needs, Forrest Johnson, the business-oriented council's executive vice president said.

Worried About Costs

Responding to Carsten's frustrations, Johnson said he believes the public's concern over taxes is chiefly directed at government costs.

"They believe more attention should be paid to economy than to ways to get the money," Johnson said.

Carsten said he can "buy the concept that we've got to quit spending," but inflationary pressures make that difficult.

Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus said he thinks some of the public's disinterest in the school income tax bills results from lack of information.

"They're the best kept secret there is," he said.

One measure, LB362, introduced by Sen. George "Bill" Burrows of Adams, would provide for school district income taxes.

Extra 5% Tax

The other, LB506, sponsored by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, would impose an additional 5% state income tax to support the schools.

Burrows said his bill would provide differing rates for each county, just as property taxes do. A 3.3% income tax rate could probably support the schools in Lancaster County, he said, and it might drop to about 3% after one year.

Johnson said his organization does not oppose more state aid for the schools, "but we are against funding it strictly from income taxes."

Public dissatisfaction with property tax rates combined with lack of support for legislative efforts to reduce them "put the Legislature in a mean spot," Carsten said.

Cooper N-Plant Will Be Partially Fixed

Columbus (AP) — The Nebraska Public Power District said Wednesday that a partial fix will be performed at its Cooper Nuclear Station near Brownville next month to correct the instrumentation tube vibration problem in the reactor that has existed since April.

NPPD has notified the Nuclear Regulatory Commission that its currently plans to shut down Cooper Station to perform the partial fix in late September or early October.

NPPD estimates it will cost about $350,000 to perform the partial fix, not including the cost of buying replacement power.

On April 26, the commission modified NPPD's license to operate Cooper Station by ordering a reduction in the core power level and flow rate. The result of the order and subsequent amendments was a restriction to about 50% of the plant generating capability.

The commission issued its order after detection of an in-core vibration in the reactor and the existence of irregular instrumentation readings.

General Electric Co., manufacturer of the plant's reactor, has told NPPD that an acceptable fix has been determined after months of investigation of the problem. The correction prescribed for Cooper Station is similar to ones GE devised for nuclear plants experiencing the vibration difficulties in Iowa, Vermont and Massachusetts.

Basically, NPPD said, the partial fix involves the plugging of 88 holes in the bottom grid plate of the reactor with springloaded stainless steal plugs. Cooling water flowing through the holes is what caused the vibrations.

NPPD said it also will inspect the fuel process channels and change those showing unacceptable wear.

Next spring, when NPPD is scheduled to shut down the plant for partical refueling, supplemental modifications will be performed on the reactor to effect a permanent fix. This will involve drilling new holes in a different location to provide the bypass cooling water to the reactor. It is expected that following this fall's partial fix, NPPD will be able to operate the nuclear facility at about 85% of capacity. After the permanent fix next spring, the station should be allowed to operate at full capacity.

NPPD said it will not perform the total permanent fix during the October shutdown because it would take too long to complete and the plant is needed back on line about Nov. 1 to provide power for an increase in demand that normally occurs at that time of year. Also, after Nov. 1 replacement power that will be needed while Cooper Station is shut down will no longer be available at an economical rate.

Farmers To Find Soybean Checks Smaller

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Nebraska farmers who sell soybeans after Oct. 1 will find a half-cent per bushel deduction from their check with the money going to fund the new Soybean Development Utilization and Marketing Board activities.

The board was established set up and operate programs aimed at solving farmers' production problems and increasing the soybeans markets to get farmers a better price for their product.

At a special meeting Wednesday, the board decided to launch the collection on Oct. 1. The small but complete public relations program will feature posters in county elevators and brochures distributed at elevators and county extension offices in the state's 55 soybean producing counties.

The American Soybean Association (ASA) of Hudson, Iowa, already operates similar programs in several other states.

ASA public relations expert Jim Yancy also offered to provide free news releases to the state board until funds start coming in after Jan. 1.

The board will require elevators to send in checks quarterly to keep bookkeeping at the local elevator to a minimum.

This means the board must operate without funds until Feb. 1, when the first payments will become due. ASA has agreed to supply the brochures and posters immediately so that farmers getting the reductions in their check will know about the program.

"We don't want to spend any more money on administration and public relations than we have to. We do this for several states so the printing costs can be held to a minimum. We can tailor the information in the brochure to your state," Yancy said.

The board also received copies of the state open meetings law and studied the requirements which apply to them.

The board finds itself in an embarrassing position of being unable to pay bills for meetings, mileage, printing and postage until it has funds in February. If any farmers do request a refund for their half-cent a bushel deduction, the board will be unable to pay the refund until after that date.

Under the law, a farmer must apply for a refund within 60 days of the date when he sells the soybeans. However, there is no provision in the law as to when the board must send the money to the farmer.

Allan Klies, executive secretary of the Minnesota Soybean Board, told the committee that the Minnesota group had managed to pay its operating expenses out of interest earned from funds it had collected but not yet spent. "This way every dollar a farmer invests in the program is actually used in either market development or research programs," he said.

The committee plans to hold its next meeting just before Thanksgiving.

Ford Asked To Resume Grain Sales

WASHINGTON (AP)—The International Trade Represenative of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association was among a delegation which met with President Ford Wednesday in an attempt to end the moratorium on grain sales to the Soviet Union.

"All I got was a big smile," said Ray Davis of Potter, "but the President explained to us he was working on a long-term agreement that would benefit American farmers."

Davis and three others, including Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., met with Ford Wednesday morning for about 15 minutes.

Davis said the President was told "that farmers were angry and frustrated" over the grain situation.

"He didn't give us any immediate satisfaction on calling off the moratorium," Davis said, "but he said he hoped to make an announcement soon and intended to sell nore grain after a long-term agreement is reached."

Davis later said Ford would make an announcement of a major grain export agreement with the Soviets on or before Oct. 11.

The President was told, Davis said, that agricultural organizations are upset about Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz being bypassed in negotiations with the Soviets on grain exports.

He cited the State Department becoming involved in those negotiations.

Davis was in Washington to testify before the Senate Agriculture Committee on recent grain inspection irregularities.

Wage Dispute Delays Opening Of Beet Plants

SIDNEY, Mont. (AP)—The Holly Sugar Corp. has delayed opening by one week its sugar-beet processing plants in Sidney and Worland, Wyo., pending settlement of contract negotiations with factory workers.

Bob Williamson, the firm's agricultural manager here, said Wednesday the two plants had been scheduled to begin receiving beets Tuesday.

He said the new schedule calls for the firm to begin taking in beets next Tuesday and to open the factories one day later.

He said the opening is being delayed by one week to get the contract settled. Williamson said the firm's contract with the workers expired April 30.

Williamson said the labor talks are being conducted in Denver and also affect workers at Holly plants in Torrington, Wyo., and Delta, Colo. He said the Torrington plant had not been scheduled to open until next week while the Delta plant is to open Oct. 7.

Firth Legion Offers Inexpensive Flu Shots

A flu clinic offering inexpensive flu shots will be held Oct. 18 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Firth American Legion Hall.

The clinic has been a civic project of the Firth American Legion Auxiliary for more than a decade. The flu shots, available to all county residents, will cost $2.

Expert Predicts Fertilizer Delivery Trouble

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Farmers who can do so probably should put down as much fertilizer as possible this fall, according to Ned Case, chief agronomist for the Phillips Petroleum Co.

Case, in Lincoln for a visit with University of Nebraska agricultural scientists, said there may not be a fertilizer shortage but he does expect to see delivery problems next spring because more land is being farmed and more land is being irrigated each year.

"If there is a natural gas shortage this winter there could be a cutback in nitrogen production of up to a million tons. If we have a winter like the last two which were warmer than normal, it will be a half million tons," he said.

Fertilizer supplies are ample this fall and prices are lower than they were this spring. "There is little loss of fertilizer in most Nebraska soils over winter. We recommend fall application except in the sandhills where the soil won't hold fertilizer over winter," he said.

Case noted the price of fertilizer and the price of wheat were in about the same relationship they were before fertilizer prices increased. "I think there was good reason for panic by farmers this summer when wheat prices dropped and fertilizer prices were high. Now fertilizer prices have come down a little and wheat prices have improved," he said.

"The key to better wheat prices and good business conditions for agribusiness is a good export market for crops," Case noted.

"We exported $21.6 billion in agricultural products, imported $9.6 billion in agricultural products but that still left an agricultural trade balance of about $12 billion. That money bought a lot of oil, Volkswagens and other things this nation needs," he said.

Case is working with University of Nebraska scientists on a number of new wheat varieties and tillage methods. "The key to making these new technological developments work well is the proper application of the correct amount of fertilizer," he said.

"Nebraska was famous for its high protein hard winter wheat for years. This protein percentage is dropping and must be restored to find a premium market," he said.

Case said the shortage of fertilizers had produced recommendations for smaller amounts of plant food on farmers fields but it was beginning to result in crop problems.

"We know it has resulted in some yellow wheat and in some reduction in crop yields. I don't have figures for Nebraska yet but the corn yield in Kansas is down 9 to 10 bushels and in Oklahoma it is down about 7 bushels. This is mostly due to a lack of nitrogen," he said.

"We have to remind ourselves that we are farming 350 million acres of land now compared to 300 million acres in 1970 and there is much more irrigation. Irrigation doubles the need for fertilizer so it puts a tremendous burden on farmers to get the work done and the entire agribusiness supply system to get fertilizer, chemicals and equipment to farmers," he said.

War On Thistles Declared By State

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Glenn Kreuscher, state agriculture director, has issued what might be called a declaration of war on the musk thistle, Canadian thistle, plumeless thistle and leafy spurge

These are the enemies listed on this year's state noxious weed list

The biggest pest is the musk thistle, which can be found easily in any county but is most prevalent in the eastern areas where pastures and crops intermingle.

Southern Ties

Valley and Sherman counties and counties along the bottom of the state were cited as particular problem areas by Marv Sitorius of the State Agriculture Dept Bureau of Plant Industry

Valley County is getting particular attention in a spraying campaign with the aid of some federal funds but no area of the state will be neglected under the fall spraying effort

"We are holding meetings with county officials to show them what we want done and when it should be done Sitorius said, "Under LB14 we now have the authority to approve of or disapprove of weed control programs and can supervise local weed control officers"

Training programs are being set up for weed inspectors that involve public relations, weed identification, control measures and chemical use

Fall Attack

The key to the program is a fall spray attack against the musk thistle Fall spraying has been proven to be effective in a research program conducted by M K McCarty, a weed specialist with the U S Agriculture's Dept. Agriculture Research Service

There are two times yearly when the thistle is easy to kill — in the spring and fall when good rains make them grow rapidly. When the thistle is under stress from drouth it is almost impossible to kill

Spring spraying time comes at the same time as branding, spring corn planting and a lot of other chores Sprays that are available endanger soybeans, garden crops and trees in the spring

Officials reason that fall is better because most crops and trees that can be damaged by spray are harvested and the farmers have more time to get the job done

Two Chemicals

Unfortunately only two chemicals are available to kill the thistles They are 2-4D and Banvel, both of which may be familiar to home owners as usable in the effort to control weeds in lawns

Two others, Tordon and a new chemical from Dow Chemical Co, are effective but unusable unless the Environmental Protection Agency permits their use

Tordon, unfortunately, is soluable in water, which makes it a hazard around streams and the Dow product may never be made available because of the tremendous cost involved in getting a chemical cleared for use under strict environmental regulations

Officials think that three years of spring and fall spraying can thin out thistle numbers to the point where they won t be a problem

"The seed can live in the ground for years If a single plant emerges it must be dug out or destroyed

A single musk thistle plant can produce more than 10,000 seeds which can produce a considerable crop of thistles the next year," Sitorius warns

Curtis' OSHA Change Advances

WASHINGTON (AP)—After several years of trying, Sen Carl Curtis R-Neb, was finally successful Wednesday in getting Senate approval of an amendment that would exempt very small business from regulations set down in the Occupational Safety and Health Act

Curtis' amendment, which was added to the Labor Department-Health, Education and Welfare Appropriations Bill, would exempt businesses with three or fewer employes

The vote approving the amendment was 48-5

Meat Packers File Suit Against EPA Guidelines

Omaha (AP) — Almost two dozen meat packers and processors from Nebraska and several other surrounding states have filed suit to overturn a new set of waste disposal guidelines handed down by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA)

The action, filed in U S District Court here, alleges that the new standards are "unlawful, arbitrary and capricious," and are 'erroneous in the law"

The suit further claims that the new guidelines, which were set down in the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, are not supported by substantive evidence

Named as defendants were the EPA, and its administrator, Russell E Train

Among those filing the suit were Iowa Beef Processors, Inc, Dakota City, the Minden Beef Co, the Platte Valley Packing Co, and the National Independent Meat Packers Association (NIMPA)

The new guidelines direct that by next July the "best practicable control technology currently available" shall, be applied by industry to limit effluents, and that by 1983, the best technology "available and economically achievable" shall be applied.

The plaintiffs claim that the technology identified by the EPA as being practicable and available by next year and for 1983 will not achieve the level of controls specified for compliance with the new standards, and that the EPA has "erroneously assessed" the cost of applying existing technology to comply with the July 1976 deadline

The suit asks the court to "suspend, enjoin, annul and set aside" the new guidelines, and order that the EPA promulgate a new set "based upon scientifically valid methodology." ology"

Voting Plan Presented To Wheat Board

Oklahoma City (AP) — Oklahoma Wheat Commission members were sympathetic Wednesday to a Nebraska plan to change the voting structure of Great Plains Wheat Inc, which markets wheat from Oklahoma and other states in the region

Commission members agreed there is dissatisfaction over the control of the private marketing group by representatives from Kansas and North Dakota, who control 50% of the votes

At the same time, Oklahoma wheat growers said they do not unnecessarily want to disrupt the operations of Great Plains which has been an economic asset to the state

Wheat Commission Chairman Lloyd Long said that for the past five years Kansas has consistently cast its four votes in combination with North Dakota s three votes to control all of the marketing association's board activities

Kansas and North Dakota, as the major contributors, have the greatest number of votes, while Oklahoma as the third largest financial contributor, gets two votes

We simply want to make it more Democratic Long said

The commission heard a proposal from Elton Haarberg chairman of the Nebraska Wheat Advisory Commission that members of Great Plains change the rules to give each state additional votes bringing the total from 14 to 21

He said by granting each state one extra vote the Kansas-North Dakota control of the organization would be broken up

The wheat panel was told that Colorado officials are so unhappy with the present situation that they have given notice they will withdraw from Great Plains in June if the Kansas-North Dakota strangle-hold isn't broken

The commission took no action on Haarberg s proposal although members said they thought the Oklahoma position may be set by early October

State wheat growers said that even if the state backs the plan, there still may be a parliamentary fight when the official effort is made to get Great Plains to change its voting structure

Valley County is getting particular attention in a spraying campaign with the aid of some federal funds but no area of the state will be neglected under the fall spraying effort.

"We are holding meetings with county officials to show them what we want done and when it should be done. Sitorius said, "Under LB14 we now have the authority to approve of or disapprove of weed control programs and can supervise local weed control officers."

Training programs are being set up for weed inspectors that involve public relations, weed identification, control measures and chemical use.

Fall Attack

The key to the program is a fall spray attack against the musk thistle. Fall spraying has been proven to be effective in a research program conducted by M. K. McCarty, a weed specialist with the U.S. Agriculture's Dept. Agriculture Research Service.

There are two times yearly when the thistle is easy to kill — in the spring and fall when good rains make them grow rapidly. When the thistle is under stress from drouth it is almost impossible to kill.

Spring spraying time comes at the same time as branding, spring corn planting and a lot of other chores. Sprays that are available endanger soybeans, garden crops and trees in the spring.

Officials reason that fall is better because most crops and trees that can be damaged by spray are harvested and the farmers have more time to get the job done.

Two Chemicals

Unfortunately only two chemicals are available to kill the thistles. They are 2-4D and Banvel, both of which may be familiar to home owners as usable in the effort to control weeds in lawns.

Two others, Tordon and a new chemical from Dow Chemical Co., are effective but unusable unless the Environmental Protection Agency permits their use.

Tordon, unfortunately, is soluable in water, which makes it a hazard around streams and the Dow product may never be made available because of the tremendous cost involved in getting a chemical cleared for use under strict environmental regulations.

Officials think that three years of spring and fall spraying can thin out thistle numbers to the point where they won't be a problem.

"The seed can live in the ground for years. If a single plant emerges it must be dug out or destroyed.

A single musk thistle plant can produce more than 10,000 seeds which can produce a considerable crop of thistles the next year," Sitorius warns.

Curtis' OSHA Change Advances

WASHINGTON (AP)—After several years of trying, Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., was finally successful Wednesday in getting Senate approval of an amendment that would exempt very small business from regulations set down in the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

Curtis' amendment, which was added to the Labor Department-Health, Education and Welfare Appropriations Bill, would exempt businesses with three or fewer employes.

The vote approving the amendment was 48-5.

Meat Packers File Suit Against EPA Guidelines

Omaha (AP) — Almost two dozen meat packers and processors from Nebraska and several other surrounding states have filed suit to overturn a new set of waste disposal guidelines handed down by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The action, filed in U.S. District Court here, alleges that the new standards are "unlawful, arbitrary and capricious," and are "erroneous in the law."

The suit further claims that the new guidelines, which were set down in the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, are not supported by substantive evidence.

Named as defendants were the EPA, and its administrator, Russell E. Train.

Among those filing the suit were Iowa Beef Processors, Inc., Dakota City; the Minden Beef Co., the Platte Valley Packing Co., and the National Independent Meat Packers Association (NIMPA).

The new guidelines direct that by next July, the "best practicable control technology currently available" shall be applied by industry to limit effluents, and that by 1983, the best technology "available and economically achievable" shall be applied.

The plaintiffs claim that the technology identified by the EPA as being practicable and available by next year and for 1983 will not achieve the level of controls specified for compliance with the new standards, and that the EPA has "erroneously assessed" the cost of applying existing technology to comply with the July 1976 deadline.

The suit asks the court to "suspend, enjoin, annul and set aside" the new guidelines, and order that the EPA promulgate a new set "based upon scientifically valid methodology."

Voting Plan Presented To Wheat Board

Oklahoma City (AP) — Oklahoma Wheat Commission members were sympathetic Wednesday to a Nebraska plan to change the voting structure of Great Plains Wheat, Inc., which markets wheat from Oklahoma and other states in the region.

Commission members agreed there is dissatisfaction over the control of the private marketing group by representatives from Kansas and North Dakota, who control 50% of the votes.

At the same time, Oklahoma wheat growers said they do not unnecessarily want to disrupt the operations of Great Plains, which has been an economic asset to the state.

Wheat Commission Chairman Lloyd Long said that for the past five years Kansas has consistently cast its four votes in combination with North Dakota's three votes to control all of the marketing association's board activities.

Kansas and North Dakota, as the major contributors, have the greatest number of votes, while Oklahoma, as the third largest financial contributor, gets two votes.

"We simply want to make it more Democratic," Long said.

The commission heard a proposal from Elton Haarberg, chairman of the Nebraska Wheat Advisory Commission, that members of Great Plains change the rules to give each state additional votes, bringing the total from 14 to 21.

He said by granting each state one extra vote, the Kansas-North Dakota control of the organization would be broken up.

The wheat panel was told that Colorado officials are so unhappy with the present situation that they have given notice they will withdraw from Great Plains in June if the Kansas-North Dakota strangle-hold isn't broken.

The commission took no action on Haarberg's proposal, although members said they thought the Oklahoma position may be set by early October.

State wheat growers said that even if the state backs the plan, there still may be a parliamentary fight when the official effort is made to get Great Plains to change its voting structure.

Iowa Pharmacist Gets Two Years In Tax Evasion

Des Moines (UPI) — Sidney Pearlman, a Des Moines pharmacist, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment for income tax evasion by U.S. District Judge William C. Stuart.

Pearlman, formerly a pharmacist at the Des Moines College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery, was also fined $6,000 plus court costs. All but 60 days of the prison term was suspended, with imprisonment slated to begin Oct. 23.

Pearlman was convicted by a federal court jury last month on three counts of tax evasion. Pearlman, 68, was accused of not reporting more than $40,000 in income for 1968 through 1970.

Jobless Benefits Up

Des Moines (UPI) — Eligible unemployed Iowans were paid a total of $11,288,791 in jobless benefits during August, including regular state unemployment benefits over 300% higher than last year, the Iowa Employment Security Commission said.

Maresh Pledges 'All-Out Effort' To Block SeTech

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Sen. Richard Maresh has promised an "all-out effort" to block the intended transfer of the Pershing College campus to Southeast Community College.

The Milligan legislator, whose 32nd District includes an area from which the Fairbury campus draws many of its students, said he will question the state attorney general this week concerning the legality of SCC's decision to acquire Pershing. He believes the acceptance would violate a 1975 statute regarding gifts to state agencies.

A section of LB610, an appropriations bill, stipulates that all "gifts or bequests" of more than $10,000 must be approved by the governor. Maresh said Gov. J. J. Exon "has already expressed himself in a published letter against the acceptance of Pershing."

2 Possible Bills

If LB610 doesn't halt the transfer, Maresh said, he already has in mind two possible bills that could "force another look" before the transfer is finalized.

He suggested that, if necessary, he could draft a bill specifically denying technical community college area boards authority to acquire real estate without legislative consent. He also thinks lawmakers might pass legislation requiring a public vote on the transfer of college properties.

"I don't believe any transfer could be completed before the Legislature meets in January, so there still should be time to block this legally questionable action," he said.

Maresh said he objects not only to the board's vote but to "the hasty way it was accomplished," Several hearings throughout the 15-county SCC area should have preceded the board's decision, he said.

"The only people really expressing themselves were those from Beatrice and Fairbury," he continued, "yet every taxpayer in southeast Nebraska, including those in Lincoln, will be affected."

Meanwhile, the apparent loss of Fairbury's 34-year-old campus left that community in a state of near shock.

"The community is simply stunned," said board member Ted Doyle, who has spearheaded opposition to the Pershing offer.

"This never would have happened except that many people figured the whole idea was so ridiculous. They didn't take it seriously."

Bill Nuckolls, publisher of the Fairbury Journal-News, said "some type of lawsuit" appears likely because of the board's vote. He added that the Fairbury campus faculty and student body are particularly distressed.

Student Reaction

"All the students are hanging their heads in disbelief," he said. "They feel, as many others do, that the board didn't even take students into consideration."

Nuckolls said the board "could very well go after Peru State College next." He suggested that transfer programs at five other Nebraska colleges could be threatened "if this action is allowed to stand."

The board's vote resulted in part, Nuckolls said, from "too much apathy in other parts of our district."

"If only support would have come from the other counties, this wouldn't have happened," he continued. "Fairbury has really been trying, but we just couldn't convince people elsewhere that anybody could actually be serious about Pershing."

Capitol Bomb Threat Target

Strict security measures were imposed at the Statehouse Wednesday after a caller said a bomb was in the building.

A phone call indicating the bomb would detonate Wednesday was received by police Tuesday night. Security officials searched the Statehouse during the night but found no bomb

Security officers checked visitors and state employes as they entered the Capitol until mid-morning Wednesday.

Pershing Campus Transfer Faces Legal Hurdles

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Several legal hurdles may lurk as an ally to the already-declared opposition forces moving to block Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College from closing its Fairbury campus and acquiring the defunct Pershing College.

Accepting the Beatrice campus as a gift could involve a high hurdle race not so much for the SeTech Area Board as for the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

And the Legislature and Gov. J James Exon apparently may set the height of the hurdles and the length of the race.

The SeTech Board Tuesday authorized college Area President Robert S. Eicher to negotiate acquisition of Pershing by gift, purchase or lease. The 7-4 vote also reserved the board members' right to approve or reject any negotiated agreement.

Complications

But because of numerous state laws, including two passed by the 1975 Legislature, the transfer of Pershing from the University of Nebraska Foundation to SeTech may not be simple.

The NU Foundation assumed ownership of Pershing on the premise it would be used by NU, but the university then could justify no immediate use to take over the campus

Thus, NU President D. B Varner in an August 1 letter to Eicher said, "Because the foundation is authorized to give property only to the University of Nebraska," the foundation first would have to transfer the Pershing title to the regents, who in turn would transfer it to the SeTech board.

Based on informal discussions, Varner said he's "satisfied" that regents "would be agreeable to helping make this property available for the use of your (SeTech) institution."

Hearings Required

Varner noted state law would require regents to hold a public hearing before accepting the property, and suggested regents and the SeTech board hold joint or concurrent hearings.

Varner said "this could be done without much delay."

But there are at least three possible stumbling blocks to swift action.

First, a 1975 appropriations bill (LB605) for state agencies says that "all gifts or bequests (to the state) of personal property in excess of $10,000 be approved by the governor before acceptance."

$2-3 Million

Pershing's value has been estimated between $2 million and $3 million.

LB605 further provides that gifts of such value "to be used for state purposes be approved by the governor and the Legislature before acceptance."

Who determines "state purposes" is now open to question, since the Board of Regents is seeking a ruling from Nebraska Supreme Court to determine the extent of its authority vis-a-vis the Legislature.

Secondly, LB610, another new funding bill for state agencies including NU, requires identical gubernatorial approval for gifts worth more than $10,000.

Third, possibly the highest hurdle, stands tucked away in the 1971 Reissue of Nebraska Revised Statutes. Section 85-105 says NU Regents "may acquire real and personal property for the use of the university, and may dispose of the same whenever the university can be benefited thereby;

"Provided, however, it (Board of Regents) shall never dispose of grounds upon which buildngs of the university are located without the consent of the Legislature."

By accepting Pershing, NU Regents would also temporarily hold title to five buildings on the campus.

One obvious alternative would be for the NU Foundation Board to try to bypass the possible legal tangle by waiving its rules barring a direct gift to a non-NU recipient.

The Star corroborated information from two sources, including an NU Foundation official, that a means to give Pershing directly to SeTech is "under legal consideration."

The empty Beatrice campus has already cost the foundation an estimated $35,800 for insurance, security and maintenance since it took title last December.

Besides the SeTech Board, the only agencies authorized to advise on the best course in its pursuit of Pershing are two newly organized higher education coordinating commissions, one for the Technical community college and the other for all Nebraska post-high school institutions. Neither has decision-making authority, however.

Ginsburg Fund Collected For Law Students

About $21,200 has been contributed to an endowed scholarship fund at the University of Nebraska Foundation in memory of Herman Ginsburg.

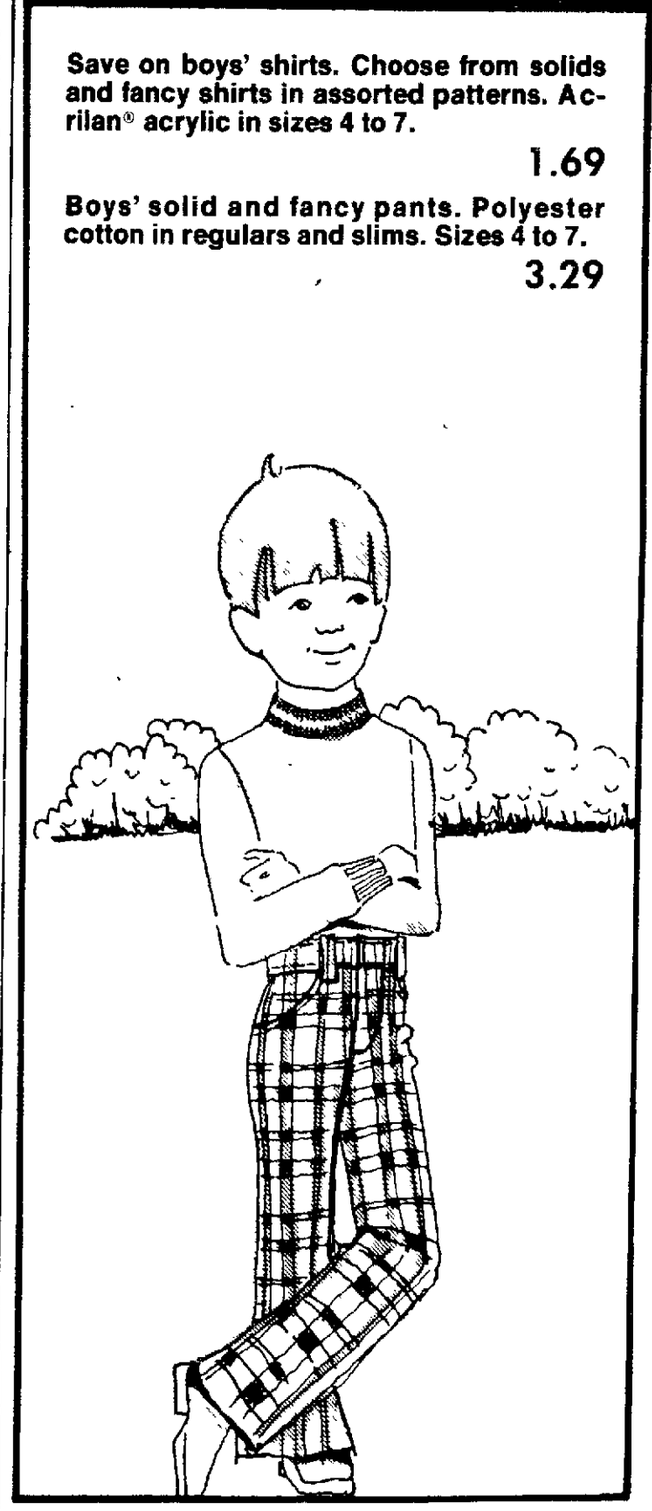

Income from the fund will provide annual scholarships for law students who are in financial need and show promise, according to foundation Director Harry R. Haynie.

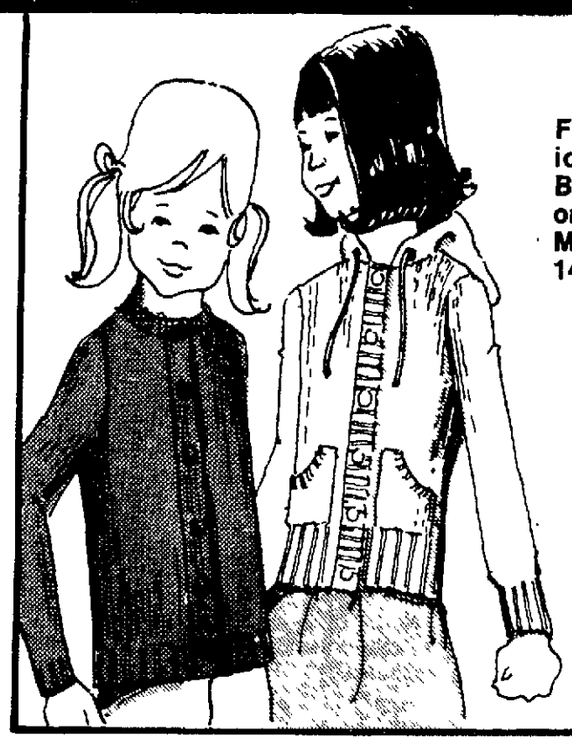

Ginsburg, who died in June 1974, began practicing law in Lincoln in 1925. He received his degree from NU, where he graduated cum laude and Order of the Coif. He specialized in real estate and corporate law.

Proposed Legislation To Affect Older People

By JOANNE FARRIS

A READER WRITES: "Please alert your readers to the need to keep their eyes on what s going on in Washington in September and October Congress will be completing legislation to amend the Older Americans Act This determines the money and kinds of programs for aging that will be available in 1976

"Sen Lawton Chiles of Florida, a member of the Senate Committee on Aging, is urging that $200-million be allotted for the elderly nutrition program for the coming year This program, which has already done so much good, needs to be expanded to reach many more of the poor, hungry elderly This funding will be done through the Labor-HEW appropriations bill

'All these matters will be aided if concerned citizens of all ages write to their congressmen to support the legislation As we all know, congressmen do respond to constituent pressure, and this is a good cause '

COMMENT: Thank you for writing These matters are important for all Americans to be concerned about

The Senate will be discussing mass transit, too, and it is important to senior citizens Bill No 622 provides financial assistance to meet the public transit needs of elderly and handicapped persons

In transit planning it is important to take into account that elderly and handicapped persons have great difficulty in reaching up to the unusually high step into most buses

Quick-closing subway doors must have sensitive bumpers so that they do not injure passengers who are halfway in or out of the car when the door begins to close

Matters like these should be brought to the attention of the congressmen who are drafting or revising legislation which relates to elderly and/or handicapped persons, whose interests are closely related in these areas

Citizens who wish to make their opinions known about these pending bills should write to their own congressmen and senators It will also be beneficial to address similar letters to the members of the Special Committee on Aging of the Senate and the new similar committee of the House which was established this spring Sen. Frank Church of Idaho is the chairman of the Senate Aging Committee The comparable House Select Committee is chaired by Rep William J Randall of Missouri

San Francisco — A little foggy drizzle in the morning to let us know summer has gone Boys have a built-in time clock Several weeks ago, they brought out footballs and began booting them around the yard

In the same timepiece ticking inside, they know exactly when to bring out marbles, when to bring out kites They are fool proof You can set your watch on them

I said 'Throw one to me

But something must have happened over the years I had it in my hands but it went right through I didn t admit it though

I said "You threw it too low Besides I think I was out of bounds '

☆ ☆ ☆

There comes a time when the inner clock ticks more and more faintly Until you don't hear it at all A new crowd of clock watchers has taken over

Homework is coming home again — heaven help us there s a lot I ve forgotten

The world, friends, is not shaped like an orange Not roundy round as we learned And the song about Columbus — "he knew the world was round-o" — is all wrong

Science has determined the good earth is shaped more like a pear A little paunchy in the middle Saggy at the bottom But aren't we all? Easy come, easy go, says I

☆ ☆ ☆

The International Flat Earth Society used to say flatly the earth was flat as a pancake Their headquarters were in London They wrote to me occasionally — I wrote about them and publicity on flat earths was hard to come by

Galileo believed in a round and moving earth For saying so they stretched him on the rack and cranked it up a notch or two

They said ' You still think it s round, Galileo?'

The rack was no summer cruise It stretched everything including your imagination

Galileo recanted Took it back and for a long time the earth stayed flat

While the modern world said the earth was like an orange (they were wrong too) the Flat Earth Society continued the battle for flatness They sent out publicity releases They met and congratulated each other on being among the few sane people on the flat earth

They said Airlines continue misleading the public by selling them round the-world tickets Actually these flights only take the passenger around the saucer-like edge of the earth

When the first men went to the moon there was a short wire story out of London

After viewing pictures of Earth as seen from the moon The International Flat Earth Society dissolved itself today

Train Charges Pesticide 'Smear'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Administrator Russell E. Train charged Wednesday that a "smear campaign" was trying to link EPA pesticide restrictions, falsely, with the nation's outbreak of encephalitis.

Rep. Steven D. Symms, R-Idaho, and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz have made comments implying EPA's ban on DDT and restrictions on other pesticides contributed to the spread of encephalitis, a dangerous disease carried by mosquitoes.

In a letter to Symms, Train noted DDT still can be used for public health protection and mosquitoes can be controlled with other pesticides that may be more effective than DDT.

In an interview, Train used blunter language, saying the allegation that EPA was responsible for ecephalitis was "an outrageous smear, totally without any factual basis."

The argument erupted just as the House of Representatives prepared to vote on an extension of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), the law underlying EPA pesticide regulations.

Symms was pressing for an amendment — already rejected by the House Agriculture Committee — which would give the Agriculture Department a veto over EPA pesticide rulings.

As a member of the committee, Symms filed a dissenting statement beginning with an imaginary headline that said: "Dozens Die from Encephalitis in Chicago."

Symms' statement said such headlines "are sure to be printed in the not too distant future, thanks in large part to the EPA."

Interviewed Wednesday, Symms was asked if he was really charging that EPA pesticide rules directly contributed to the current encephalitis outbreak.

"Of course they have," he said. But Symms could not cite any evidence of such a connection.

Train said exceptions to the pesticide restrictions could be made if mosquito control officials requested them, but that EPA was not receiving such requests.

An aide to Symms said mosquito control officials of Butte County, Calif., had requested permission to use DDT about 18 months ago and were turned down by EPA, but the aide knew of no evidence that this rejection contributed to any cases of encephalitis.

An aide to Butz confirmed Wednesday that Butz also implied an EPA-encephalitis link, while testifying recently before the House Agriculture Committee.

The aide said Butz was asked about the possibility and replied that "DDT does kill mosquitoes" and that Butz added, "You've got to make up your mind if you're going to be for mosquitoes or for human health."

Nepal Royalty Arrive

Belgrade (UPI) — King Birendra and Queen Aishwarya of Nepal arrived on an official visit to Yugoslavia, and President Josip Broz Tito and his wife Jovanka staged a ceremonial welcome in front of Belgrade's White Palace.

House Stands Pat On Panama Canal

Washington (UPI) — The House Wednesday voted 208 to 197 to stand by its earlier decision against giving away any U.S. rights in Panama Canal negotiations.

The narrow vote rejected a compromise of the earlier House action that said no funds could be used to negotiate "the surrender or relinquishment of any U.S. rights in the Panama Canal Zone."

The Panamanian government is demanding control over the Canal Zone in negotiations being carried on with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Brutal Portrait Of Mao Painted By Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — The official Soviet news agency Tass fired a new propaganda barrage at Peking on Wednesday that included a brutal personal portrait of Chinese Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

In separate articles, Tass accused Chinese leaders of trying to gain an imperialistic foothold in East Africa and reviewed a book attributed to a former rival of Chairman Mao entitled "Fifty Years of the CPC and Mao Tse-tung's Betrayal."

Tass said the book by Wang Wing, a former member of the Chinese Communist party, portrayed Mao as a ruthless egotist whose sole aim is preservation of his personal power. The news agency did not mention that Wang Wing fled to the Soviet Union in 1956 and died here last year at age 69.

"Mao Tse-tung is extremely suspicious of everybody," Wang Wing was quoted as saying. "His principle is: 'I would rather be mean to others than let them wrap me around their finger.'"

Wang Wing was denounced as a "right-wing opportunist" by the Chinese Communist party Congress in 1969.

In the article on Chinese-African relations, Tass said a new railway Peking helped to build between Tanzania and Zambia is regarded by the Chinese as a "Trojan horse",

Train Charges Pesticide 'Smear'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Administrator Russell E. Train charged Wednesday that a "smear campaign" was trying to link EPA pesticide restrictions, falsely, with the nation's outbreak of encephalitis.

Rep. Steven D. Symms, R-Idaho, and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz have made comments implying EPA's ban on DDT and restrictions on other pesticides contributed to the spread of encephalitis, a dangerous disease carried by mosquitoes.

In a letter to Symms, Train noted DDT still can be used for public health protection and mosquitoes can be controlled with other pesticides that may be more effective than DDT.

In an interview, Train used blunter language, saying the allegation that EPA was responsible for ecephalitis was "an outrageous smear, totally without any factual basis."

The argument erupted just as the House of Representatives prepared to vote on an extension of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), the law underlying EPA pesticide regulations.

Symms was pressing for an amendment — already rejected by the House Agriculture Committee — which would give the Agriculture Department a veto over EPA pesticide rulings.

As a member of the committee, Symms filed a dissenting statement beginning with an imaginary headline that said: "Dozens Die from Encephalitis in Chicago."

Symms' statement said such headlines "are sure to be printed in the not too distant future, thanks in large part to the EPA."

Interviewed Wednesday, Symms was asked if he was really charging that EPA pesticide rules directly contributed to the current encephalitis outbreak.

"Of course they have," he said. But Symms could not cite any evidence of such a connection.

Train said exceptions to the pesticide restrictions could be made if mosquito control officials requested them, but that EPA was not receiving such requests.

An aide to Symms said mosquito control officials of Butte County, Calif., had requested permission to use DDT about 18 months ago and were turned down by EPA, but the aide knew of no evidence that this rejection contributed to any cases of encephalitis.

An aide to Butz confirmed Wednesday that Butz also implied an EPA-encephalitis link, while testifying recently before the House Agriculture Committee.

The aide said Butz was asked about the possibility and replied that "DDT does kill mosquitoes" and that Butz added, "You've got to make up your mind if you're going to be for mosquitoes or for human health."

Nepal Royalty Arrive

Belgrade (UPI) — King Birendra and Queen Aishwarya of Nepal arrived on an official visit to Yugoslavia, and President Josip Broz Tito and his wife Jovanka staged a ceremonial welcome in front of Belgrade's White Palace.

House Stands Pat On Panama Canal

Washington (UPI) — The House Wednesday voted 203 to 197 to stand by its earlier decision against giving away any U.S. rights in Panama Canal negotiations.

The narrow vote rejected a compromise of the earlier House action that said no funds could be used to negotiate "the surrender or relinquishment of any U.S. rights in the Panama Canal Zone."

The Panamanian government is demanding control over the Canal Zone in negotiations being carried on with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Poll: Ford Job Rating Up After Trips Around Country

By LOUIS HARRIS

After a month of intensive campaigning around the country, President Ford has improved his job rating to 41-56% negative, up from his 38-60% negative rating in August. Still, his current standing is well below the 50-49% positive rating he was accorded back in May after the Mayaguez episode.

Contrary to the judgment of many political observers, First Lady Betty Ford receives a much higher score on doing her job than the President does on his: She is rated 50-36% positive by the American people. Apparently, the first lady's remarks about what she would do if her daughter were having an affair have not dimmed the essentially positive reaction of the public to her.

Despite Mrs. Ford's favorable rating, Ford continues to receive low marks from the public in his handling of the economy. On keeping the economy healthy, he is still rated 70-26% negative, on handling inflation, 76-20% negative, on his economic program, 68-23% negative, and on "really caring about the unemployed," he comes up with a 56-36% negative rating.

Nor is the President picking up much positive support in the foreign-policy area, despite the success of his administration in working out a first-step peace settlement in the Middle East.

On working for peace in the world, he has gone up marginally from 55-43% positive in August to 57-40% in September. But on handling relations with the Soviet Union, he has slipped from 47-43% negative last month to a current 49-42% negative, a reflection of public unhappiness over the impending wheat deal with Russia.

Between Aug. 30 and Sept. 6, the Harris Survey asked a national cross section of 1,497 adults in person:

"How would you rate the job President Ford is doing — excellent, pretty good, only fair or poor?"

OVERALL FORD JOB RATING TREND

	Positive %	Negative %	Not Sure %
Sept. 1975	41	56	3
August	38	60	2
July	41	56	3
May	50	49	1
April	40	57	3
March	37	60	3

Dec. 1974	46	52	2
Nov.	48	47	5
Oct.	45	49	6
Sept.	67	20	13

Except for the temporary blip upward following Mayaguez, President Ford has had a remarkably stable job rating since the first of this year, with the negatives hovering between 56 and 60%. This surely must point to potential difficulties for the President if he decides to run on the basis of his record.

For the first time, the Harris Survey asked about the public's reaction to Mrs. Ford. The cross section was asked:

"How would you rate the job Mrs. Ford is doing as first lady — excellent, pretty good, only fair or poor?"

RATING ON MRS. FORD

	Positive %	Negative %	Not Sure %
Nationwide	50	36	14
By Sex
Men	46	37	17
Women	54	36	10
By Age

By Education

It is interesting that Mrs. Ford is much more popular with women than men, has a better standing with younger people than those over 50, and is better received by the college educated than by those with less education.

Poll: Ford Job Rating Up After Trips Around Country

By LOUIS HARRIS

After a month of intensive campaigning around the country, President Ford has improved his job rating to 41-56% negative, up from his 38-60% negative rating in August. Still, his current standing is well below the 50-49% positive rating he was accorded back in May after the Mayaguez episode.

Contrary to the judgment of many political observers, First Lady Betty Ford receives a much higher score on doing her job than the President does on his: She is rated 50-36% positive by the American people. Apparently, the first lady's remarks about what she would do if her daughter were having an affair have not dimmed the essentially positive reaction of the public to her.

Despite Mrs. Ford's favorable rating, Ford continues to receive low marks from the public in his handling of the economy. On keeping the economy healthy, he is still rated 70-26% negative, on handling inflation, 76-20% negative, on his economic program, 68-23% negative, and on "really caring about the unemployed," he comes up with a 56-36% negative rating.

Nor is the President picking up much positive support in the foreign-policy area, despite the success of his administration in

Mrs. Ford's Score Higher

working out a first-step peace settlement in the Middle East.

On working for peace in the world, he has gone up marginally from 55-43% positive in August to 57-40% in September. But on handling relations with the Soviet Union, he has slipped from 47-43% negative last month to a current 49-42% negative, a reflection of public unhappiness over the impending wheat deal with Russia.

Between Aug. 30 and Sept. 6, the Harris Survey asked a national cross section of 1,497 adults in person:

"How would you rate the job President Ford is doing — excellent, pretty good, only fair or poor?"

	Positive %	Negative %	Not Sure %
Sept. 1975	41	56	3
August	38	60	2
July	41	56	3
May	50	49	1
April	40	57	3
March	37	60	3
Jan.	36	60	4
Dec. 1974	46	52	2
Nov.	48	47	5
Oct.	45	49	6
Sept.	67	20	13

Except for the temporary blip upward following Mayaguez, President Ford has had a remarkably stable job rating since the first of this year, with the negatives hovering between 56 and 60%. This surely must point to potential difficulties for the President if he decides to run on the basis of his record.

For the first time, the Harris Survey asked about the public's reaction to Mrs. Ford. The cross section was asked:

"How would you rate the job Mrs. Ford is doing as first lady — excellent, pretty good, only fair or poor?"

RATING ON MRS. FORD

	Positive %	Negative %	Not Sure %
Nationwide	50	36	14
By Sex
Men	46	37	17
Women	54	36	10
By Age
18-29	55	29	16
30-49	52	36	12
50 and over	44	42	14
By Education
8th Grade or Less	34	40	26
High School	46	39	15
College	60	32	8

It is interesting that Mrs. Ford is much more popular with women than men, has a better standing with younger people than those over 50, and is better received by the college educated than by those with less education.

Traveling By Train Immensely Improved

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

It's 1975, and you're going to Detroit on a train?

"You bet," I answered the incredulous inquirer. "Haven't you heard? Tracks are back."

And somewhere between Lincoln and Detroit, I realized that that Amtrack promotional slogan is right.

Tracks are back. Once on the endangered species list, passenger trains are now carrying many more people than you would imagine from here to there and back again.

There are students with guitars and televisions in tow; parents with children; businessmen; rail fans; retirees (ah, to have that much time to enjoy the train); even newspaper reporters.

Why are they riding the train? Some are enchanted with the mystique of rail travel. And there surely is something to be said for the sounds and sights and smells of the train. Something out of yesterday, repackaged for today.

Others are attracted by price tag. It costs $88 round trip coach fare to travel the 700 miles and 17 hours that lie between here and Detroit. That's some $60 less than traveling by air.

And there are those of us who simply don't like the other travel alternatives — cars, buses and, especially, airplanes.

We who have flown the friendly skies with nothing but white-knuckled apprehension, find the rhythm of sturdy wheels on sturdy tracks reassuring.

For some of us, the novelty of seeing the land from 35,000 feet up soon wears thin. The detachment is annoying.

In a train, you become part of the landscape. As the rivers — Missouri, Mississippi — the towns with their intriguing depots, the hills and the trees float by, you know you are going somewhere.

Cars stop for you — for a change. Children stand by the crossings with bicycles and dogs, waving at the passing train. The feeling of placid country village and inner city ghetto is brought close.

But trains are always late, they're dirty, railroad employes are unfriendly, I was told before I left.

Wrong, wrong and wrong again. Amtrack coaches are either new or remodeled; and they're comfortable and clean. Fourteen hundred miles round trip, and we weren't late once.

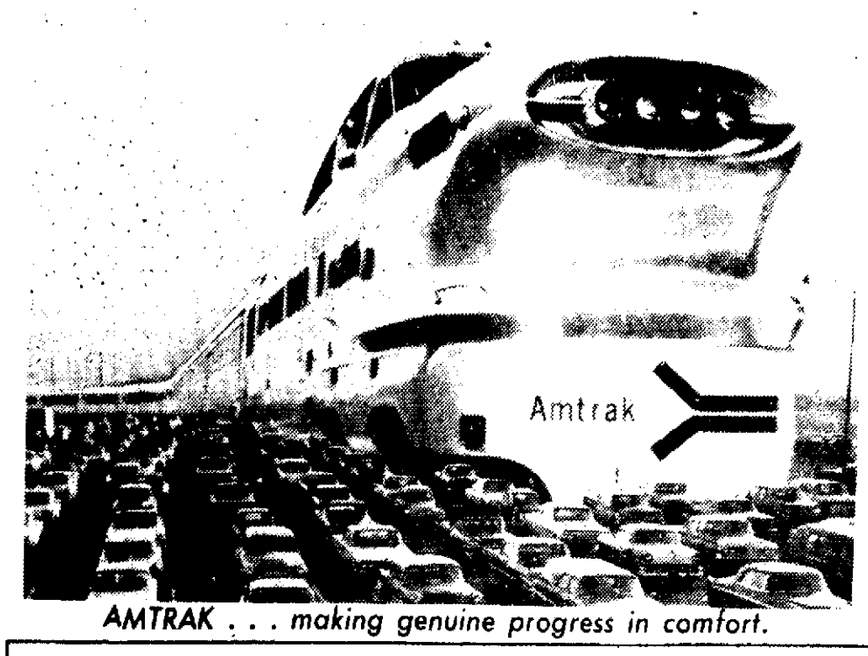

And Amtrack employes? One brief episode tells it all: "What do you do on the train?" asked a young boy as the uniformed man checked his ticket.

"I'm a brakeman. And at Christmas, I play Santy Claus," the portly gentleman responded with a smile.

Meals are served on tables with white cloths, fresh flowers and real silver (none of that plastic stuff). There are snacks and drinks available in the bar car 24 hours a day.

You can get up and walk around (careful though, it's tricky). You can sit in the dome car with a bird's-eye view of the scenery. You can sleep, read, knit, twiddle your thumbs, socialize.

And when it's over, you'll understand what Edna St. Vincent Millay meant when she wrote, "... there isn't a train I wouldn't take, no matter where it's going."

Ms. Fulton Is Not Lisa

Lifescape

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

When she's not living in the suds and bubbles of afternoon television, Eileen Fulton isn't anything like Lisa Shea.

Apparently at least some of the estimated 10 million viewers of "As the World Turns" haven't made that distinction.

They love to hate Lisa, the lying, scheming villain of the show. And as a result, Eileen has even been slapped and cursed in public by strange women.

"Lisa's just a character I play," Ms. Fulton, the daughter of a Methodist minister, said repeatedly in an interview.

"Lisa's a fascinating character to a lot of people. Many people live very vicariously through her."

While soap operas in general have been blasted for presenting an unrealistic picture of life, Ms. Fulton said she thinks they are "actually very true to life. Otherwise, so many people wouldn't watch them."

People Write Lisa

More evidence is the fact that people write to Lisa, she said, asking advice and sometimes giving it.

People write: "I'm going through the same thing you're going through. I know you're an actress, but to play it so believably, surely you could help me with my problem."

Once when Lisa was considering an abortion, Ms. Fulton received a letter from an Iowa woman, saying, "Don't you dare. If you must lose the baby, fall down the stairs or have a car accident."

EILEEN FULTON . . . not a grandmother.

And anytime Lisa is married (she has been four times at last count) or has a baby on the show, people bombard the studio with cards and gifts.

Rating Always High

To borrow a phrase, it's a strange, strange world she lives in. But after 18 years, "As the World Turns" still has one of the highest ratings of television soaps.

The plot is unbelievably loaded with lies and concealment.

The queen of soap opera writers, Agness Nixon, knew what she was saying when she decided "An angry viewer is a hooked viewer."

Even Eileen Fulton can't always stand Lisa. She said she has quit the show "forever" at least three times, including once after Lisa "had been such a terror and loused up her marriage. She did terrible things — everything but become a drug addict and alcoholic."

Accept No Substitute

But everytime Ms. Fulton quits, the producers woo her back with better contracts. The audience has never accepted a new actress as Lisa.

Ms. Fulton said she earns "a lot of money" playing Lisa Miller Hughes Shea. Though she wouldn't be specific, a spokesman for CBS said actors on daytime television make a minimum of $225 per half hour and salaries go as high as $100,000 a year.

"It's hard work" and "it ties you down," she said. At times it's also dangerous, even when she's not around strange women in public places.

Doesn't Drive Car

Remember Lisa's auto accident? Well, Eileen Fulton doesn't drive, but she had to that day

Soap operas, as most people know, got their names because the first sponsors sold soap and detergent to their female listeners.

Over the wishy-washy years, they've become quite profitable for all involved. Consider that it takes an average of $15,000 to produce a typical half-hour soap and that each of the eight minutes of advertising during the program sells for about $12,000.

Simple arithmetic shows why soaps are irresistably attractive to the networks. They return 6½ times their cost, while prime-time shows don't always break even

Ms. Fulton said she has "one great big say — and only one so far" with what goes on the air.

It's her "grandma clause" and it's there because she doesn't want to be one. Any regular viewer would know she's old enough. In the past 18 years, "As the World Turns" has introduced five generation of Stewarts and four of the Hughes.

Eileen laughed and said if Lisa were as old as she should be, she'd be going on 200 and Grandpa Hughes would be "307."

Soap opera time is flexible so children can be written out of the scripts for several months and return much older. "It makes for a more interesting story line," Ms. Fulton explained.

When the serial writers decided to grow her son Tom up one summer and marry him off to Carol, Ms. Fulton put her foot down.

Not A Grandmother

She doesn't want Carol having babies because that would make her a grandmother. When her contract expired, she insisted on the "grandma clause."

Though she refused to reveal her real age, Ms. Fulton insisted, "I'm too young. I don't want that (grandmotherly) image."

Besides, she has her new career as a nightclub singer to think about. Because of her sudsy following, crowds have driven as far as 600 miles to see her in the flesh.

For those interested, she'll be performing at Omaha's Club 89 through Saturday doing two shows a night and a Friday matinee.

Reader Would Like To Keep Marijuana Plants

DEAR ABBY. I love to grow plants About a year ago, someone gave me some marijuana seeds, and I planted them. Well, they thrived and are really beautiful

I have never smoked marijuana, and I don't plan to. I know it's against the law to grow it, but would like to know what the fine would be if I were caught.

Please answer in your column for obvious reasons.

NO NAME IN CALIF.

DEAR NO NAME: Arthur Groman, a top-notch California attorney, says that you would be charged with "possessing marijuana," and the penalty would vary, depending upon the quantity of marijuana found in your possession.

He suggests you destroy the marijuana and plant geraniums. And if you're wise, you'll take your cue about what to grow from Groman.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been dead for six years. We had a wonderful marriage in every way. Our daughter, now 16, misses her father almost as much as I do She and I have always had a very close and loving relationship.

About six months ago, I met Manny and we were attracted to each other immediately. He was at my home for dinner one night last week. One thing led to another, and he ended up spending the night in my bedroom.

My daughter came home from a date and saw Manny "spending the night" with me She ran crying to her room and locked herself in. A few days later, she told me she "hated" Manny, and she's been very cool and distant to me ever since.

Did she expect me to be loyal to her father forever?

Abby, I am 39 and only human. Should I break up with Manny just to make my daughter happy?

ONLY HUMAN

DEAR ONLY: Admittedly, we are all only human, but when a daughter discovers her mother's feet of clay, mother usually winds up as "mud."

I doubt if breaking up with Manny will make your daughter "happy." In time, she may understand that mothers have needs, too, but your lack of discretion netted you (and Manny) some well-deserved criticism.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a retired mailman with a valuable tip for your readers; If you have something important or irreplaceable to mail, such as legal documents, pictures or film to be developed, take it to the post office and mail it INSIDE the building.

Why? Becaues in the summer, the inside of that corner mailbox on the street can get as hot as 140 degrees, which can foul up film In the winter, some of those mailboxes leak like sieves.

Years ago, when I was on collections, I'd bring mail in from some corner boxes that was soaking wet and stuck together — just one big glob. The ink had run on the envelopes, and some of the addresses weren't even legible.

(Beware of the mailbox with a big, heavy lock hanging in front. They are the worst offenders for getting mail wet!)

Another thing: Some juvenile delinquents will buy a popsicle, eat half of it and throw the rest into a mailbox, and you know what a melted, sticky popsicle can do to the mail!

If my letter makes your column, just sign me .

EL MONTE READER

DEAR MONTE: It'll make the column all right. And it may even make the mailbox on the corner obsolete.

DEAR ABBY I have an unusual problem I look pregnant, although I'm not

I've always had a large protruding stomach

My son is now 18 months-old, but I'm about 20 pounds overweight and look like I'm seven months pregnant no matter how I dress

Needless to say, people are always saying to me, "Oh, you're having another one!"

When I say, "No, I'm not pregnant," an awkward silence follows

Abby, if anyone can come up with a better response to the endless comments, it's you

LOOKS P G IN FLORIDA

DEAR LOOKS: A more satisfactory solution is what to DO, not what to SAY. I know it's easier said than done, but if you would trim off that excess weight and buy yourself a good foundation garment, you'll ose that pregnant look.

Opening lead - jack of spades

There are many sound conclusions a player can draw from information gained during the bidding or play of a hand. For example, on this deal East must solve the problem of which card to play at trick one after West leads the jack of spades and declarer follows low from dummy.

If East goes up with the ace, the slam goes down when West eventually scores his heart trick. But if East follows low on the spade lead, declarer makes the contract. He loses only a heart trick.

It is true that East will do best in most deals by ducking the jack when faced with this spade position South will be dealt the Q-x or Q-x-x of spades far more often than the singleton queen, and going up with the ace will usually give declarer two spade tricks instead of only the one he is entitled to make

But East should go up with the ace in the present case — not because he takes a peek at South's hand, but because the common sense of the situation tells him that South almost certainly has the singleton queen of spades. Once he reaches this conclusion, East plays the ace not only because it can do him no harm to win the trick, but also because a great deal of harm might come from not winning the trick

How does East reach this conclusion? He simply recalls the bidding and notes that South, in effect, bid a slam single-handed, and could not reasonably have done so with two spade losers Accordingly, East plays the ace and is well rewarded for his accurate card reading

Reader Would Like To Keep Marijuana Plants

DEAR ABBY: I love to grow plants. About a year ago, someone gave me some marijuana seeds, and I planted them. Well, they thrived and are really beautiful.

I have never smoked marijuana, and I don't plan to. I know it's against the law to grow it, but would like to know what the fine would be if I were caught.

Please answer in your column for obvious reasons.

NO NAME IN CALIF.

DEAR NO NAME: Arthur Groman, a top-notch California attorney, says that you would be charged with "possessing marijuana," and the penalty would vary, depending upon the quantity of marijuana found in your possession.

He suggests you destroy the marijuana and plant geraniums. And if you're wise, you'll take your cue about what to grow from Groman.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been dead for six years. We had a wonderful marriage in every way. Our daughter, now 16, misses her father almost as much as I do. She and I have always had a very close and loving relationship.

About six months ago, I met Manny and we were attracted to each other immediately. He was at my home for dinner one night last week. One thing led to another, and he ended up spending the night in my bedroom.

My daughter came home from a date and saw Manny "spending the night" with me. She ran crying to her room and locked herself in. A few days later, she told me she "hated" Manny, and she's been very cool and distant to me ever since.

Did she expect me to be loyal to her father forever?

Abby, I am 39 and only human. Should I break up with Manny just to make my daughter happy?

ONLY HUMAN

DEAR ONLY: Admittedly, we are all only human, but when a daughter discovers her mother's feet of clay, mother usually winds up as "mud."

Trio In Hearst Probe Wanted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three fugitives who figure in the Patricia Hearst probe are wanted by federal officials for questioning in connection with a brutal bank robbery-murder, it was learned Wednesday.

A source close to the probe told The Associated Press that James Kilgore and Kathy and Josephine Soliah are being sought in connection with an April 21 holdup of a branch of Crocker Bank in the Sacramento suburb of Carmichael.

Walt Weiner, assistant agent in charge of the Sacramento FBI office, said that during the $15,000 robbery, Myrna Ophasl — a mother of four children — was slain by a shotgun blast "for no reason."

In addition, Weiner said the four robbers — their faces hidden by ski masks — went behind the counter and stomped on the heads of persons they had ordered to the floor.

Police also said they believe a fifth person waited outside the bank in a second getaway car.

In a related development, CBS television reported Wednesday night that marked cash from the bank robbery was found in an apartment occupied by Patricia Hearst and a radical comrade.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning, asked about the report, said he could neither confirm nor deny it.

Authorities say the apartment was rented by Steven Soliah, 27, indicted Wednesday on a charge of harboring a fugitive. Soliah's fingerprints have linked him to a getaway car used in the robbery, the law enforcement source in Sacramento added.

Kilgore's fingerprints also were found on one of the cars, the source confirmed.

Soliah, a house painter and associate of Kilgore, was indicted by a federal grand jury in San Francisco Wednesday on charges of harboring Miss Hearst. He was also charged with being an accessory after the fact to the robbery by SLA members of a San Francisco branch of the Hibernia Bank on April 15, 1974.

Soliah was arrested last week along with Miss Hearst and three other members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Festival Is Fourth

Lake Havasu City, Ariz. (UPI) — This year-round resort city on the lower Colorado River will mark the fourth anniversary of the opening of the historic London Bridge with a 10-day festival Oct. 3-12, featuring an Old English costume pagent.

Indonesian Airliner Crashes, Kills 24

Jakarta, Indonesia (UPI) — An Indonesian airliner attempting to land in a heavy fog overshot the runway and crashed in a burst of flames Wednesday, killing 24 persons — 23 persons aboard and a woman standing in a nearby field, authorities said.

All 36 known survivors of the crash at Palembang Airport in South Sumatra were injured, Communications Minister Emil Salim announced. Two persons were listed as missing.

Authorities said the Garuda Airways plane apparently struck a rubber tree, exploded and crashed in a field near the runway, hitting and killing a woman there.

Salim said the twin-engine Fokker F28 plane with 52 passengers and a crew of nine was on a routine domestic flight.

Harrises' Bail $500,000 Each

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Bail was set at $500,000 each for William and Emily Harris, traveling comrades of Patricia Hearst, at a confused court hearing Wednesday.

Conflicting court orders temporarily disrupted plans to transfer the two Symbionese Liberation Army members to Los Angeles later Wednesday to face arraignment there on 18 state felony charges.

The Harrises, who were arrested in San Francisco last week, are being held on a variety of charges growing out of a shooting at a Los Angeles sporting goods store on May 16, 1974.

The charges include kidnaping, robbery, car theft and assault with intent to commit murder. Federal weapons charges against the two were dropped Tuesday, paving the way for early prosecution of the state case.

The $500,000 bail on the federal charges was replaced by the $500,000 bail on the state counts.

Harris, 30, was dressed in an orange prison jump suit during the brief session. A chain was around his waist, but his hands were not bound.

His 28-year-old wife wore a flowered blouse and blue pants and laughed during a short conversation with her attorney after the court session ended.

Radical Handelsman Is Arrested In Seattle

Seattle (UPI) — Leonard Handelsman, a radical sought by the FBI since 1970 on mob action charges in Chicago and pipe bomb possession charges in Cleveland, was arrested Wednesday in his Seattle apartment.

U.S. Magistrate John Weinberg set bail aat $25,000 for the 6-foot, 5-inch bearded and dark-haired defendant and scheduled a hearing Oct. 3 on the government's motion to transfer Handelsman to Cleveland for trial.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Gerald Olson said the question of what to do about charges of mob action resulting from the 1969 "days of rage" demonstration in Chicago would be decided later.

Weinberg noted that Handelsman had been a fugitive for several years and set bail at $25,000.

The government said Chicago charges of aggravated battery and aiding escape had been dropped but the mob action charges and charges of unlawful possession of a pipe bomb and Molotov cocktail were pending.

Handelsman was indicted by a federal grand jury in Cleveland in January, 1973.

The "days of rage" in Chicago six years ago pitted the militant Weatherman group, which since has changed its name to the Weather Underground, against police in the Loop.

Scores of persons were injured and store windows smashed in the demonstrations condemning U.S. participation in the Vietnam war.

Man, Found Innocent, Says He's Murderer

HUDSON, Wis. (AP) — Two years ago, Wayne Maynard Johnson was found innocent of charges he murdered Lynn Schulte. The verdict climaxed a seven-day trial in St. Croix County Circuit Court.

Johnson, this week, found himself in the same courtroom, before the same Judge John Bartholomew, to answer charges in an unrelated case.

"When I was here last time in the murder trial and found not guilty, I actually did it," Johnson told a stunned courtroom at the conclusion of the most recent proceedings.

"Well, Mr. Johnson," the judge responded, "the murder trial is over and you can't be placed in double jeopardy. That is, a person can't be tried twice for the same crime."

Schulte, 24, of Ellsworth, Wis., was killed March 20, 1973. His body was found March 22 in a field near Hager City, Wis., and Johnson was arrested later while driving Schulte's car.

"I had to," Johnson was overheard telling his sister after admitting the Schulte killing.

Bartholomew, whose offer to remove himself from the case was turned down, sentenced Johnson, 28, to three years in prison for striking a Texas man with a hatchet last June 10.

Member Nations Decide To 'Phase Out' SEATO

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The six-nation SEATO Council decided Wednesday that the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, set up by the United States 21 years ago to contain communism in the region, "should now be phased out."

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and the foreign ministers of Britain, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and Thailand participated in the closed meeting, which instructed the SEATO secretary general "to prepare a detailed plan for the phasing out process . . ."

Former Thai diplomat Sunthorn Hongladarom since 1972 has been secretary general of SEATO, which is based in Bangkok.

Thailand and the Philippines recommended in May that SEATO be "phased out . . in accordance with the new realities of the region." The action followed the Communist takeover of Vietnam and Cambodia.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles organized SEATO as part of his policy of containment of communism.

Trio In Hearst Probe Wanted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three fugitives who figure in the Patricia Hearst probe are wanted by federal officials for questioning in connection with a brutal bank robbery-murder, it was learned Wednesday.

A source close to the probe told The Associated Press that James Kilgore and Kathy and Josephine Soliah are being sought in connection with an April 21 holdup of a branch of Crocker Bank in the Sacramento suburb of Carmichael.

Walt Weiner, assistant agent in charge of the Sacramento FBI office, said that during the $15,000 robbery, Myrna Ophasl — a mother of four children — was slain by a shotgun blast "for no reason."

In addition, Weiner said the four robbers — their faces hidden by ski masks — went behind the counter and stomped on the heads of persons they had ordered to the floor.

Police also said they believe a fifth person waited outside the bank in a second getaway car.

In a related development, CBS television reported Wednesday night that marked cash from the bank robbery was found in an apartment occupied by Patricia Hearst and a radical comrade.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning, asked about the report, said he could neither confirm nor deny it.

Authorities say the apartment was rented by Steven Soliah, 27, indicted Wednesday on a charge of harboring a fugitive. Soliah's fingerprints have linked him to a getaway car used in the robbery, the law enforcement source in Sacramento added.

Kilgore's fingerprints also were found on one of the cars, the source confirmed.

Soliah, a house painter and associate of Kilgore, was indicted by a federal grand jury in San Francisco Wednesday on charges of harboring Miss Hearst. He was also charged with being an accessory after the fact to the robbery by SLA members of a San Francisco branch of the Hibernia Bank on April 15, 1974.

Soliah was arrested last week along with Miss Hearst and three other members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Festival Is Fourth

Indonesian Airliner Crashes, Kills 24

Jakarta, Indonesia (UPI) — An Indonesian airliner attempting to land in a heavy fog overshot the runway and crashed in a burst of flames Wednesday, killing 24 persons — 23 persons aboard and a woman standing in a nearby field, authorities said.

All 36 known survivors of the crash at Palembang Airport in South Sumatra were injured, Communications Minister Emil Salim announced. Two persons were listed as missing.

Authorities said the Garuda Airways plane apparently struck a rubber tree, exploded and crashed in a field near the runway, hitting and killing a woman there.

Salim said the twin-engine Fokker F28 plane with 52 passengers and a crew of nine was on a routine domestic flight.

Harrises' Bail $500,000 Each

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Bail was set at $500,000 each for William and Emily Harris, traveling comrades of Patricia Hearst, at a confused court hearing Wednesday.

Conflicting court orders temporarily disrupted plans to transfer the two Symbionese Liberation Army members to Los Angeles later Wednesday to face arraignment there on 18 state felony charges.

The Harrises, who were arrested in San Francisco last week, are being held on a variety of charges growing out of a shooting at a Los Angeles sporting goods store on May 16, 1974.

The charges include kidnaping, robbery, car theft and assault with intent to commit murder. Federal weapons charges against the two were dropped Tuesday, paving the way for early prosecution of the state case.

The $500,000 bail on the federal charges was replaced by the $500,000 bail on the state counts.

Harris, 30, was dressed in an orange prison jump suit during the brief session. A chain was around his waist, but his hands were not bound.

His 28-year-old wife wore a flowered blouse and blue pants and laughed during a short conversation with her attorney after the court session ended.

Radical Handelsman Is Arrested In Seattle

Seattle (UPI) — Leonard Handelsman, a radical sought by the FBI since 1970 on mob action charges in Chicago and pipe bomb possession charges in Cleveland, was arrested Wednesday in his Seattle apartment.

U.S. Magistrate John Weinberg set bail aat $25,000 for the 6-foot, 5-inch bearded and dark-haired defendant and scheduled a hearing Oct. 3 on the government's motion to transfer Handelsman to Cleveland for trial.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Gerald Olson said the question of what to do about charges of mob action resulting from the 1969 "days of rage" demonstration in Chicago would be decided later.

Weinberg noted that Handelsman had been a fugitive for several years and set bail at $25,000.

The government said Chicago charges of aggravated battery and aiding escape had been dropped but the mob action charges and charges of unlawful possession of a pipe bomb and Molotov cocktail were pending.

Handelsman was indicted by a federal grand jury in Cleveland in January, 1973.

The "days of rage" in Chicago six years ago pitted the militant Weatherman group, which since has changed its name to the Weather Underground, against police in the Loop.

Scores of persons were injured and store windows smashed in the demonstrations condemning U.S. participation in the Vietnam war.

Man, Found Innocent, Says He's Murderer

HUDSON, Wis. (AP) — Two years ago, Wayne Maynard Johnson was found innocent of charges he murdered Lynn Schulte. The verdict climaxed a seven-day trial in St. Croix County Circuit Court.

Johnson, this week, found himself in the same courtroom, before the same Judge John Bartholomew, to answer charges in an unrelated case.

"When I was here last time in the murder trial and found not guilty, I actually did it," Johnson told a stunned courtroom at the conclusion of the most recent proceedings.

"Well, Mr. Johnson," the judge responded, "the murder trial is over and you can't be placed in double jeopardy. That is, a person can't be tried twice for the same crime."

Schulte, 24, of Ellsworth, Wis., was killed March 20, 1973. His body was found March 22 in a field near Hager City, Wis., and Johnson was arrested later while driving Schulte's car.

"I had to," Johnson was overheard telling his sister after admitting the Schulte killing.

Bartholomew, whose offer to remove himself from the case was turned down, sentenced Johnson, 28, to three years in prison for striking a Texas man with a hatchet last June 10.

Member Nations Decide To 'Phase Out' SEATO

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The six-nation SEATO Council decided Wednesday that the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, set up by the United States 21 years ago to contain communism in the region, "should now be phased out."

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and the foreign ministers of Britain, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and Thailand participated in the closed meeting, which instructed the SEATO secretary general "to prepare a detailed plan for the phasing out process . . ."

Former Thai diplomat Sunthorn Hongladarom since 1972 has been secretary general of SEATO, which is based in Bangkok.

Thailand and the Philippines recommended in May that SEATO be "phased out . . in accordance with the new realities of the region." The action followed the Communist takeover of Vietnam and Cambodia.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles organized SEATO as part of his policy of containment of communism.

2 Eastern Subdivisions Approved By Planners

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The planners weren't sure they had any clearer pictures of what the city's street policy is than they had a month ago. Nevertheless, they approved two subdivisions for development of land lying along 84th St.

Last month the City-County Planning Commission held off action on the two proposals because they wanted to determine what kind of detrimental effect more housing in eastern Lincoln would have on the city's traffic problems.

A two-day workshop on energy and transportation last week resulted in some reshaping of the city's policy on street widenings and the use of the automobile. The planning commission joined the City Council and County Board in that workshop.

Planning Commissioner Moneta Mathews said Wednesday she had hoped more detailed guidelines would be formulated at that workshop dealing with the subdivision of land in eastern Lincoln.

By approving residential housing units in eastern Lincoln, Mrs. Mathews said officials would be "continually compounding an already existing (traffic) problem by approving little bitty plats here and there."

Nevertheless, the commission unanimously approved Kenneth Clark's application for a change of zone from AA Rural to A-2 Single Family. He wants to build houses on about 30 acres of land located east of 84th and south of Vine. The planners also approved Norval Brandt's requested change of zone from AA Rural to A-1 Single Family on about six acres of land located east of the 84th and Pinedale Ave. intersection.

In approving the rezoning on both tracts of ground, the commission stipulated that only the land lying within the Stevens Creek watershed which could be connected into the existing sewer system could be developed.

In other business, the commission approved the Catholic bishop of Lincoln's request to construct an athletic field on the southeast corner of 70th and A.

Baseball, soccer and practice fields are proposed, plus another area for a volleyball court. The fields would be used only by parochial students.

In further action the commission:

Plats

—Approved preliminary plat of Brandt Heights, located east of 84th and Pinedale Ave

—Approved preliminary plat of Bicentennial Estates, at 20th and Superior

—Approved final plat of Groveland Place, at 20th and Fairfield

—Approved final plat of Golf Park 1st Add., northeast of 70th and Adams

County Road Opening

—Approved opening of east-west county road from N W 70th to N W 84th located on the south section line of Sec 2, T10N, R5E, Lancaster County

3-Month Zoom Of Dollar Levels Off

LONDON (AP) — A three-month zoom that raised the U.S. dollar's overseas value by more than 10 per cent leveled off Wednesday, offering at least temporary relief to Europe's currencies and gold.

In London, Paris, Zurich and Frankfurt, the pound sterling, French and Swiss francs and West German mark strengthened marginally against the dollar.

And in the London and Zurich bullion markets the price of gold climbed back to $132.75 an ounce — up $4 75 and $3, respectively, from Tuesday.

There were signs that central banks in certain key countries had again intervened to slow the ascent of the dollar. The state banks sold nearly $225 million Tuesday when it appeared the upward momentum of the dollar was reaching critical proportions for the Europeans and Japanese who pay Arab and other producers for their oil in dollars. The more expensive the dollar, the higher their fuel bills.

Perhaps coincidentally, the dollar's rise leveled on the very day oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — were discussing whether to hike the world oil price again.

The increase in the value of the dollar would certainly have bolstered the arguments of those countries like Kuwait and Saudi Arabia opposing a big new increase.

A costlier dollar, they could tell their colleagues in Vienna, would help offset the effects of inflation.

Behind the spectacular display of the U.S. dollar's strength since last spring lay several factors:

—Interest rates in the United States are rising steadily at a time when European rates are declining. Dollar-holders thus earn more.

—Measures to deal with inflation in the United States have been portrayed around the world as far more effective than in a host of other countries. This has revived confidence in the dollar.

—Investors in foreign countries have apparently taken the view that the slow recovery of the American economy will pick up momentum as the presidential election campaign approaches. Thus they are switching money from their own depressed national markets into American stock.

For Americans, a stronger dollar means lowered prices for imported goods and materials and cheaper vacations abroad. But it also means that the price of American goods goes up abroad, possibly reducing exports.

Here is a rundown of the dollar's performance in key European money markets Wednesday, with Tuesday's levels bracketed:

—In London the pound closed at $2.0435 (2.0422).

—In Paris the dollar closed at 4.5650 francs (4.58125).

—In Zurich the dollar closed at 2.7267 Swiss francs (2.7302).

—In Frankfurt the dollar closed at 2.6615 West German marks (2.6735).

The fractional rally of Britain's battered pound came despite the Labor government's disclosure of a $350 million two-year job-saving program. There are 1.24 million Britons currently out of work and the Labor government, pledged to a policy of full employment, is under trade union pressure to help the workless.

FBI Seizes Man In Plot To Kill Ford

OCALA, Fla. (AP) — An unemployed service station attendant who was allowed to go free this week after telling FBI agents he planned to kill President Ford was arrested Wednesday night, an FBI spokesman said

The spokesman said John Clayton Massey, 32, was arrested at an Ocala truckstop on a charge of conspiracy to kill the President

U S Atty. Robert Yerkes said Massey walked into the FBI office in this north Florida city on Tuesday or Wednesday and said he and others planned to kill Ford and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Massey was allowed to leave after he spoke with agents, but Arthur Nehrbass, agent in charge of the Jacksonville regional office, said he could not explain why.

"I don't have an answer right now There was an investigation under way," Nehrbass said. "He (Massey) did not make an overt threat that he would kill the President.

"Tomorrow the reason may come out, but I can't answer it tonight even though I know it makes us look bad "

Neither the FBI nor Yerkes would describe the alleged assassination plan.

"It was no immediate-type threat," Yerkes said. "I'm not even sure they had tried to carry it out "

$10,000 Given Black Museum

The Great Plains Black Museum in Omaha was awarded $10,000 in matching funds Wednesday by the Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

The commission, meeting in Bellevue, decided to delay a vote for other funding until Oct. 8, to give members more time to discuss proposals.

Altogether, the commission will consider about 15 projects for a share of the $80,000 remaining in federal matching funds it has to distribute.

Bedding Burns At Youth Center

A fire, apparently caused by careless smoking, did considerable damage to a mattress and bedding in Cottage No. 3 at the Nebraska Center for Children and Youth, 5701 Walker Ave., Wednesday afternoon, fire officials said.

Firemen said Iris Fields, 16, was in the cottage when the fire started. The burning mattress was pulled outside and extinguished by firemen.

Man Held In Murder Of 2 Police Officers

New York (UPI) — The police department announced Wednesday night that it had in custody Luis Serrano Velez, wanted for murdering two police officers on Manhattan's Lower East Side Sept. 16.

Details of the arrest were sketchy, but a department spokesman said the 26-year-old Velez was in the custody of detectives at a stationhouse in downtown Manhattan.

The policemen, Sgt. Frederick Reddy and Officer Andrew Glover, were shot to death on Manhattan's Lower East Side at about 8 p m CDT Sept. 16 when they stopped Velez' car for a routine auto check.

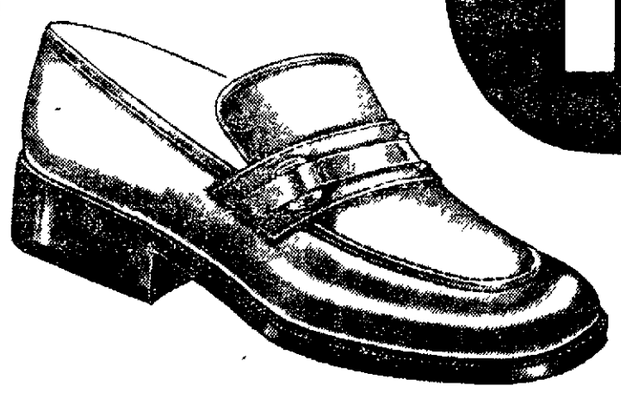

The officers died shortly after they arrived at nearby Bellevue Hospital.

Police said Velez, also known by the nicknames "Blackie" and "Angelo," and his companion the night of uthe murder, 24-year-old Frank Sagarra, also were responsible for the $10,000 robbery of a branch of First National City Bank on upper Broadway in Manhattan Sept. 11.

Pass Receiving Personal Battle For Renfro

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Texas Christian sophomore wide receiver Mike Renfro keeps himself busy during a Horned Frog football game. He'll also be trying to see to it that Nebraska's defensive backfield has the same tough afternoon Saturday when the two teams meet in Memorial Stadium.

Anywhere from 25 to 40 times a game in TCU's air-minded offense, Renfro engages in a personal battle, matching his quickness and cunning against one or more defensive players.

In Nebraska's case, the busy-body Huskers trying to keep him from getting the job done will be cornerbacks Chuck Jones and Dave Butterfield, monsterman Wonder Monds and safetyman Jim Burrow.

"I come off the line and I know there's a good chance the ball will come to me," Renfro said. "I know I have to outwork that defensive man for position if I'm going to catch the ball."

Winning Battles

So far this year Renfro has been winning the battle most of the time, even if TCU hasn't yet won a war. He has caught 12 passes for 179 yards and ranks sixth in the nation in average catches per game. His most empressive effort came last Saturday when he caught eight for 104 yards against Arizona State.

TCU coach Jim Shofner, who knows a good receiver when he sees one because of his background as an offensive coach for the San Francisco 49ers, says Renfro is no ordinary sophomore, just as he wasn't ordinary as a freshman.

THE LINCOLN STAR
Sports
Thursday, Sept 25, 1975 21

"He already knew a lot about pass routes," Shofner said. He had a spectacular pass-catching career in high school in hometown Fort Worth to attract recruiters from all over, including Nebraska.

Father All-Pro

His father, Ray Renfro, was an All-Pro receiver with the Cleveland Browns and later was an assistant with the Dallas Cowboys. Naturally, talk at home between Mike and Ray eventually got to how to run a pass route and how to catch the ball.

Mike is improved over his freshman season when he caught 21 passes for 362 yards.

"He's thinking more," says his uncle Dean Renfro, who is TCU's receiver coach and a former pro receiver. "He's no longer a freshman and he's not playing like a freshman. He's putting it all together now."

Weight Training

"I got into weights this summer for the first time and it helped me," young Renfro said. "I gained five pounds and it had to be the weights because I didn't eat that much." Even with the weight gain he's only 175 pounds, carried on a 6-foot frame. He runs 4.5 to 4.6 in the 40.

The effectiveness of TCU's passing game is shown in the statistics for the Southwest Conference. Renfro and teammates Vernon Wells, flanker back, and Ronald Parker, tight end, rank 1-2-3 in league receiving. Another Frog, halfback Ricky Wright, is sixth.

TCU's inclination to pass has hurt the Frogs' rushing statistics. Quarterbacks Lee Cook and Jimmy Dan Elzner have been thrown for 77 yards in losses while attempting to pass.

The Frogs are trying to work on improving their running attack. They had a pretty good balance between the run and the pass (43-47) against Arizona State, but the pass still was the most effective weapon.

"If TCU continues to improve its running game and short passing game, they should be a fine team," said ASU coach Frank Kush after his Sun Devils won 33-10 last Saturday. "I know for sure this wasn't the same team that played last week (against Texas-Arlington). In many ways we were fortunate to beat them. It seemed like they had 7,000 yards passing. That little guy Renfro is a great one."

Nuggets, Nets Petition To Join NBA

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Nuggets, who compiled pro basketball's best regular season record a year ago, and New York Nets have petitioned the National Baksetball Association for admittance, sources said Wednesday.

The move, which was expected to be announced during a Thursday afternoon news conference in Denver, was reportedly designed to force a merger between the 10-team American Basketball Association — to which Denver and New York belong—and the older NBA.

Nugget General Manager and President Carl Scheer was in New York Wednesday making arrangements with Nets and NBA officials for the petition effort which, if successful, would go into effect for the 1976-77 season.

However, ABA President John Y. Brown, husband of the majority owner of the Kentucky Colonels, said both teams contacted Kentucky about joining the petition effort but the Colonels declined.

"I talked with the people from Denver and New York about a month ago and they wanted us to go along on this but we're not going to," said Brown. "From a legal standpoint, they are contractualy obligated to the ABA and they can't get out of it.

"So they are just going to embarrass themselves by doing this," he said. "We want to merge with the NBA as much as anyone because it's really the only salvation for pro basketball but we do not feel it should be on a peace-meal basis like this."

The legal matters may not be as big an obstacle as may be thought. There is a protective clause in all franchise contracts that calls for a forfeiture of $100,000 should a franchise fail to function according to league bylaws; however, that figure is insignificant compared to player salaries.

The major difference between the two leagues has been a national television contract which the 17-member NBA has with CBS while the ABA's efforts at national exposure have failed.

With multi-million dollar contracts a common occurrence, owners of both leagues also would like to see the bidding war between leagues ended.

An injunction filed by the NBA Players Association has prevented merger discussions and congressional approval for such a move.

The Nuggets had a 65-19 record last year and have become even more attractive to fans during the summer with the signing of rookies David Thompson and Marvin Webster, two of the NBA's top three draft choices. They move this year from a 6,880-seat arena to the new 18,000-seat McNichols Sports Arena.

New York has been one of the most solid teams in the ABA since moving to Uniondale and acquiring Julius Erving. The Nets won the ABA title two years ago and last year were upset in the first-round of the playoffs by the Spirits of St. Louis.

Ironically, the announcement comes at a time when the ABA appeared to be in its most solid state. Only one team moved during the past summer—Memphis to Baltimore—and trades among the members have strengthened most of the teams.

The only ownership changes saw former Nugget owner Frank Goldberg sell the team to Scheer and a group of local businessmen and then buy the San Diego franchise while Denver businessman Bill Daniels sold the Utah Stars to a local group.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien said the league would welcome the two clubs. It would give the NBA the top two players it is missing—Erving and Thompson—as well as add the Rocky Mountain television market to their regular viewing audience and leave the ABA without teams in nation's three major television markets—New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The move would provide expansion of the NBA to 20 teams without weakening of any existing teams and would give the older league four fiveteam divisions. Denver would apparently fit into the division with Milwaukee, Detroit, Chicago and Kansas City while the Nets would be in the same division as Boston, Buffalo, New York Knicks and Philadelphia.

Pro Stay Enjoyable For Damkroger

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

All the wire bulletin said was: "Second year linebacker Maury Damkroger from Nebraska, was released on waivers by the New England Patriots. Damkroger attended Lincoln Northeast high school where he was a football, baseball and basketball standout."

The story didn't explain the fact that Maurice Damkroger was the 1970 Sunday Journal and Star Prep Athlete of the Year, or that he was on Nebraska's national championshp team, or helped Lincoln Northeast to two state basketball titles and on one Rocket team that went unbeaten until the semifinals of the tourney, or that he was drafted by the Los Angeles Dodgers following his senior year at high school.

But now Damkroger is not on any roster anywhere.

"It's no big change for me," said Damkroger. "I enjoyed playing while it lasted," the two-year New England Patriots' linebacker and special team member said.

Maury Damkroger
Career Over?

No Regrets

"I don't have any regrets or bitterness about it. I got to know a lot of good people and it's one of those things where you can say you did it," Damkroger added.

"It's really a different world in pro football," he said. "People think of the stars and don't consider the 47th man on the roster. Sure it's good money but it's certainly not all glory."

A seventh round draft pick following a NU career at fullback where he gained 700 yards rushing and a reputation for being one of the best blocking backs in the country, Damkroger said he learned a lot from the differences between pro and college football.

It's A Living

"First off it's a living. You're there because you enjoy playing football but you're also there to make money."

Damkroger said his greatest professional thrill was just making the Patriot team, but it was also the drawback to pro football.

"I didn't expect to get drafted, so making the team was really great," Damkroger said. "But having the insecurity of not knowing whether you're going to be with the team all season long is the one thing I have against pro football."

Damkroger said he might have made the team were it not for the new player limits cutting the roster to just 43 men per team.

"I think I was one of the last five people cut. But they (Patriots) had drafted Rod Shoate from Oaklahoma and picked up linebacker Steve Zabel from Philadelphia."

"They tried me at fullback for about two weeks toward the end of the exhibition season and I had a good time running with the ball again," Damkroger said. "I knew the basics but the system was a lot more complicated than when I played in college. The fullback runs a lot more pass patterns and carries the ball a lot more in the pros."

"But they picked up two running backs and filled in the spots there," Damkroger said.

NFL Strike

Commenting on the current NFL player's strike Damkroger said, "last year the player's demands were out of reason. This year I think that they have become more reasonble, but the owners' offers haven't been too great. I think that they're closer to agreement though and should have it settled soon."

"Like I said, it's a job and you have to get what you think you deserve just like any other union."

Future

"I'm really glad I came back last year and picked up my degree in business," Damkroger said. "I figured it would be silly for me to not graduate with just a few hours to go. And you never know how long a future you can have in football so you almost have to get that degree."

Now Maury is looking for the security of having a job that he knows he can't get cut from just before the season starts.

"I don't see me getting back into football. If I have a good job a year from now I know I'll stick with it. I really doubt that I'll play pro football again," Damkroger said. "I enjoyed it while it lasted but you have to realize that football isn't everything."

Hardship Sought For NU's Everett

By United Press International

Nebraska coach Tom Osborne Wednesday said he will try to get reserve quarterback Earl Everett classified as a hardship case in an effort to give him an extra year of football eligibilty.

"Earl has had enough injuries that have affected his spring and fall football chances," Osborne said. "He had severe back problems and ankle and knee injuries in spring practice."

If Everett is declared a hardship case, he will not be allowed to play the rest of the season. Everett cannot be redshirted because he played in one game this year

He played quarterback his first two years with the Cornhuskers, but would have been switched to wingback this spring if he had not suffered the injuries.

Third-string quarterback Randy Garcia will suit up against Texas Christian University Saturday, in place of Everett.

Osborne has made three changes in the Cornhuskers' kickoff coverage team, adding speed and size. "We don't have anybody out there who can't run at least a 4.7" for the 40-yard dash. Osborne said

Added to the specialty team were fullbacks Dodie Donnell and Gary Higgs, who run the 40-yard dash in 4 5 and 4.6 seconds respectively, and defensive end Ray Phillips He is 6-4 and 225 pounds and runs the 40 in 4.7 seconds.

Osborne said Mike Coyle has recovered from a hip injury and will handle all the place kicking duties on Saturday

Also returning to the lineup will be defensive end Dave Redding, out with a pulled hamstring muscle, and I-back Dave Gillespie, who was suffering from a hip pointer.

AP Writer Sees 'Light'

Fred Rothenberg, Associated Press sports writer who was awarded the game ball by the Nebraska football team after he picked Indiana to beat the Huskers last Saturday, has seen the light.

"In picking Indiana over Nebraska last week, I missed by a mere 46 points," he wrote in his weekly prediction story "Maybe the pick made Indiana overconfident. In any case, the gracious Cornhuskers awarded me the game ball. If they fill it with hot air, it would be appropriate . . . . Nebraska 49, TCU 0."

Husker sports information director Don Bryant has secured the autographs of co-captains Terry Luck and Bob Martin and properly lettered the same ball early this week. It is on its way to New York.

For the record, it was deflated.

'C.T.' Fransen Spurs NU Field Hockey Win

By DAVE SITTLER

Mary Claire Fransen is called "C.T." by her field hockey teammates because her colorful practice uniform resembles a Christmas tree.

Following Nebraska's smashing 7-0 season-opening win over Concordia College Wednesday afternoon on the Cornhuskers' field, the initials C.T. should stand for "clutch touch."

Fransen, a 5-6, 135-pound senior from Lincoln, used her clutch touch to ram home four goals as Coach Elizabeth Petrakis' Huskers dominated the contest.

"I should have scored at least three more goals for sure," commented C.T. on her play from the center forward position. "I played alright, but it could have been better."

Not Agree

The Bulldogs from Concordia probably would not agree with Fransen's appraisal of her performance.

Played before a small but vocal and appreciative crowd, the Nebraska team displayed an offensive and defensive attack that was as sharp as the team's new uniforms.

Sporting red and white plaid kilts and white blouses for first contest of the year, the Cornhusker jumped to a 4-0 first half advantage against Concordia and were never headed.

Then it was time for Clutch Touch Fransen to show her deft scoring ability.

Blonde Beauty

Fransen ran in a goal from the right side at the 10:36 mark and then ended first half scoring with a goal from the middle as 7:55 remained on the clock.

A blonde headed beauty, Fransen picked up where she left in the first half as she scored a goal with less than a minute gone in the second half.

Fransen got her fourth and final goal at the 27:16 mark of the final period and senior Sue Hansen ended the scoring with a final goal with 10 minutes gone in the last 35 minute half.

"We finally started working as a team in the second half," coach Petrakis said. "We still missed a few chances for goals, but it was a good match for the first one of the year."

Strong Defense

Nebraska's defensive effort, led by Beth Ann Pillen of Omaha, was so strong that Concordia only had one real shot at the goal the entire contest.

In addition to Fransen's fine play, sophomore Jean Shandera of Lincoln played a strong passing game from her right wing position. It was Shandera's first varsity appearance.

Following Wednesday's victory, the Huskers travel to Lamoni, Ia., Saturday for games against Graceland College and Northern Iowa.

Huskers Slated For TV Show

Monte Anthony and Mike Fultz, starters on Nebraska's football team, and Husker coach Tom Osborne will be interviewed on the Nebraska ETV minority affairs seminar called "Rap About it" at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Mal Adams, host for the show, will discuss statistics, projections and past performances of black athletes who have contributed to Nebraska's football success over the years.

Hebron Coach Takes Only Alternative—Postpone Game

Only 22 of Hebron's 45-man football squad practiced Tuesday night.

When five of those 22 missed first period classes Wednesday morning, the number of available players reduced to a maximum 17.

There was only one thing Hebron coach Bob Fuller could do — postpone Friday's home game against Hastings St. Cecilia.

Game Rescheduled

It's been reset for Monday, Oct. 27, the week after teacher's convention.

Prep Picks
By Randy York

Although Hebron first was hit by individual cases of encephalitis last week, local health officials emphasize that the most recent sickness has been the flu.

"There hasn't been a case of encephalitis in the last week," one official said. "It's no epidemic and never has been. I'm sure there's the same thing in towns all over the state."

Nevertheless, Hebron's football team has dwindled to just 17 players and "four or five of those are freshmen," according to Fuller.

"It looks like this thing is going to take the course and run through the whole squad. By next week, I think everyone will have had some form of it," said Fuller, who missed three days of school himself because of sickness last week.

Walking Death

"We've got some boys who were gone back in school," he noted, "but they look like walking death. They're pretty peaked and awfully weak."

Harold Simpson, Hebron's varsity assistant coach, was hospitalized Monday morning, according to Fuller.

"People have really gotten sick," he said. "Most have gotten extreme headaches, stiff necks and backs and almost all have been vomiting."

Despite a heavily depleted squad, Hebron played at Sutton last Friday night and lost, 9-8. "It was the best effort I've ever gotten from kids since I've been coaching though," Fuller declared.

"There is some light and promise," he said. "We're getting some kids back in school. Of course, they can't practice."

But that's hardly the most important thing to Fuller and other townspeople in the sports-minded community.

"It's been utter chaos around here," Fuller observed. "We told St. Cecilia we might be able to give them an eight-man game without any substitutes.

"We're hoping everything cools down, so our kids can resume normal activity and get some strength back," he added.

The Hebron coach is thankful that the recent onslaught of sickness isn't encephalitis.

"Nobody's been able to really pinpoint what it is," he said. "There have been a lot of rumors and guesswork, but nothing definite I know of. Things will probably be up in the air two or three more weeks."

Hebron will play Superior the Wednesday before the postponed St. Cecilia game on a Monday. "We also might ask Henderson to move our Oct. 31st game from Friday to Saturday," Fuller indicated.

In games involving Lincoln teams this weekend, it's:

Lincoln Northeast (3-0) v. Lincoln High (0-3), Friday night, Seacrest Field — The Links' defense is solid, but it doesn't win football games.

Minden (1-2) at Lincoln Pius X (3-0), Friday night — Minden runs through phase 4 of its early-season meatgrinder of Holdrege, Lexington, Superior and Pius X.

Lincoln Southeast (1-2) at Hastings (1-2), Friday night — Hastings' win over Kearney and 12-6 press of Lincoln East should make the Tigers the favorites, but we'll go with the Knights on a hunch.

Ralston (2-1) v. Lincoln East (3-0-1), Saturday night, Seacrest Field — The Spartans are a puzzling team so far. They're prone to inconsistency except when it comes to one thing — winning.

Pass Receiving Personal Battle For Renfro

Anywhere from 25 to 40 times a game in TCU's air-minded offense, Renfro engages in a personal battle, matching his quickness and cunning against one or more defensive players.

In Nebraska's case, the busy-body Huskers trying to keep him from getting the job done will be cornerbacks Chuck Jones and Dave Butterfield, monsterman Wonder Monds and safetyman Jim Burrow.

"I come off the line and I know there's a good chance the ball will come to me," Renfro said. "I know I have to outwork that defensive man for position if I'm going to catch the ball."

Winning Battles

So far this year Renfro has been winning the battle most of the time, even if TCU hasn't yet won a war. He has caught 12 passes for 179 yards and ranks sixth in the nation in average catches per game. His most empressive effort came last Saturday when he caught eight for 104 yards against Arizona State.

TCU coach Jim Shofner, who knows a good receiver when he sees one because of his background as an offensive coach for the San Francisco 49ers, says Renfro is no ordinary sophomore, just as he wasn't ordinary as a freshman.

"He already knew a lot about pass routes," Shofner said. He had a spectacular pass-catching career in high school in hometown Fort Worth to attract recruiters from all over, including Nebraska.

Father All-Pro

His father, Ray Renfro, was an All-Pro receiver with the Cleveland Browns and later was an assistant with the Dallas Cowboys. Naturally, talk at home between Mike and Ray eventually got to how to run a pass route and how to catch the ball.

Mike is improved over his freshman season when he caught 21 passes for 362 yards.

"He's thinking more," says his uncle Dean Renfro, who is TCU's receiver coach and a former pro receiver. "He's no longer a freshman and he's not playing like a freshman. He's putting it all together now."

Weight Training

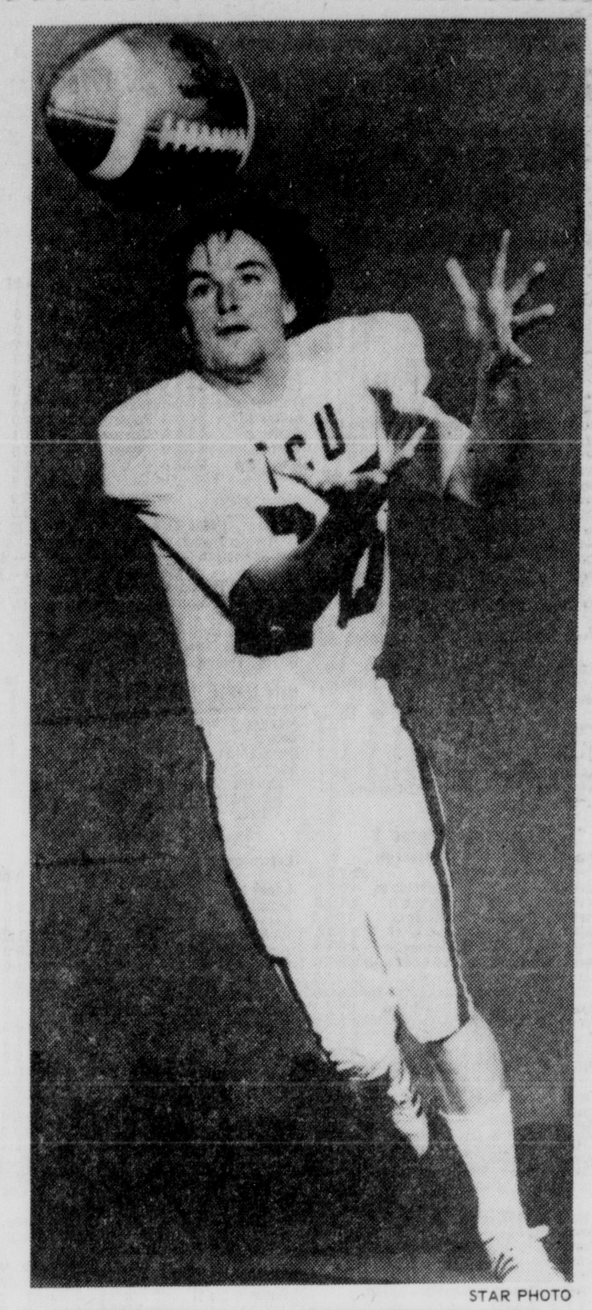

"I got into weights this summer for the first time and it helped me," young Renfro said. "I gained five pounds and it had to be the weights because I didn't eat that much." Even with the weight gain he's only 175 pounds, carried on a 6-foot frame. He runs 4.5 to 4.6 in the 40.

The effectiveness of TCU's passing game is shown in the statistics for the Southwest Conference. Renfro and teammates Vernon Wells, flanker back, and Ronald Parker, tight end, rank 1-2-3 in league receiving. Another Frog, halfback Ricky Wright, is sixth.

TCU's inclination to pass has hurt the Frogs' rushing statistics. Quarterbacks Lee Cook and Jimmy Dan Elzner have been thrown for 77 yards in losses while attempting to pass.

The Frogs are trying to work on improving their running attack. They had a pretty good balance between the run and the pass (43-47) against Arizona State, but the pass still was the most effective weapon.

"If TCU continues to improve its running game and short passing game, they should be a fine team," said ASU coach Frank Kush after his Sun Devils won 33-10 last Saturday. "I know for sure this wasn't the same team that played last week (against Texas-Arlington). In many ways we were fortunate to beat them. It seemed like they had 7,000 yards passing. That little guy Renfro is a great one."

Nuggets, Nets Petition To Join NBA

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Nuggets, who compiled pro basketball's best regular season record a year ago, and New York Nets have petitioned the National Baksetball Association for admittance, sources said Wednesday.

The move, which was expected to be announced during a Thursday afternoon news conference in Denver, was reportedly designed to force a merger between the 10-team American Basketball Association — to which Denver and New York belong—and the older NBA.

Nugget General Manager and President Carl Scheer was in New York Wednesday making arrangements with Nets and NBA officials for the petition effort which, if successful, would go into effect for the 1976-77 season.

However, ABA President John Y. Brown, husband of the majority owner of the Kentucky Colonels, said both teams contacted Kentucky about joining the petition effort but the Colonels declined.

"I talked with the people from Denver and New York about a month ago and they wanted us to go along on this but we're not going to," said Brown. "From a legal standpoint, they are contractualy obligated to the ABA and they can't get out of it.

"So they are just going to embarrass themselves by doing this," he said. "We want to merge with the NBA as much as anyone because it's really the only salvation for pro basketball but we do not feel it should be on a peace-meal basis like this."

The legal matters may not be as big an obstacle as may be thought. There is a protective clause in all franchise contracts that calls for a forfeiture of $100,000 should a franchise fail to function according to league bylaws; however, that figure is insignificant compared to player salaries.

The major difference between the two leagues has been a national television contract which the 17-member NBA has with CBS while the ABA's efforts at national exposure have failed.

With multi-million dollar contracts a common occurrence, owners of both leagues also would like to see the bidding war between leagues ended.

An injunction filed by the NBA Players Association has prevented merger discussions and congressional approval for such a move.

The Nuggets had a 65-19 record last year and have become even more attractive to fans during the summer with the signing of rookies David Thompson and Marvin Webster, two of the NBA's top three draft choices. They move this year from a 6,880-seat arena to the new 18,000-seat McNichols Sports Arena.

New York has been one of the most solid teams in the ABA since moving to Uniondale and acquiring Julius Erving. The Nets won the ABA title two years ago and last year were upset in the first-round of the playoffs by the Spirits of St. Louis.

Ironically, the announcement comes at a time when the ABA appeared to be in its most solid state. Only one team moved during the past summer—Memphis to Baltimore—and trades among the members have strengthened most of the teams.

The only ownership changes saw former Nugget owner Frank Goldberg sell the team to Scheer and a group of local businessmen and then buy the San Diego franchise while Denver businessman Bill Daniels sold the Utah Stars to a local group.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien said the league would welcome the two clubs. It would give the NBA the top two players it is missing—Erving and Thompson—as well as add the Rocky Mountain television market to their regular viewing audience and leave the ABA without teams in nation's three major television markets—New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The move would provide expansion of the NBA to 20 teams without weakening of any existing teams and would give the older league four fiveteam divisions. Denver would apparently fit into the division with Milwaukee, Detroit, Chicago and Kansas City while the Nets would be in the same division as Boston, Buffalo, New York Knicks and Philadelphia.

Pro Stay Enjoyable For Damkroger

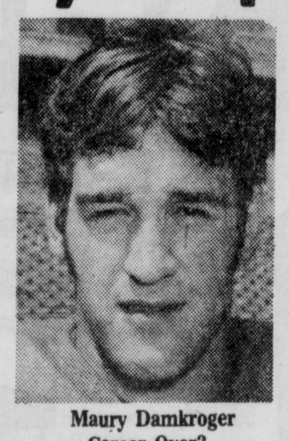

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

All the wire bulletin said was: "Second year linebacker Maury Damkroger from Nebraska, was released on waivers by the New England Patriots. Damkroger attended Lincoln Northeast high school where he was a football, baseball and basketball standout."

The story didn't explain the fact that Maurice Damkroger was the 1970 Sunday Journal and Star Prep Athlete of the Year, or that he was on Nebraska's national championshp team, or helped Lincoln Northeast to two state basketball titles and on one Rocket team that went unbeaten until the semifinals of the tourney, or that he was drafted by the Los Angeles Dodgers following his senior year at high school.

But now Damkroger is not on any roster anywhere.

"It's no big change for me," said Damkroger. "I enjoyed playing while it lasted," the two-year New England Patriots' linebacker and special team member said.

Maury Damkroger
Career Over?

No Regrets

"I don't have any regrets or bitterness about it. I got to know a lot of good people and it's one of those things where you can say you did it," Damkroger added.

"It's really a different world in pro football," he said. "People think of the stars and don't consider the 47th man on the roster. Sure it's good money but it's certainly not all glory."

A seventh round draft pick following a NU career at fullback where he gained 700 yards rushing and a reputation for being one of the best blocking backs in the country, Damkroger said he learned a lot from the differences between pro and college football.

It's A Living

"First off it's a living. You're there because you enjoy playing football but you're also there to make money."

Damkroger said his greatest professional thrill was just making the Patriot team, but it was also the drawback to pro football.

"I didn't expect to get drafted, so making the team was really great," Damkroger said. "But having the insecurity of not knowing whether you're going to be with the team all season long is the one thing I have against pro football."

Damkroger said he might have made the team were it not for the new player limits cutting the roster to just 43 men per team.

"I think I was one of the last five people cut. But they (Patriots) had drafted Rod Shoate from Oaklahoma and picked up linebacker Steve Zabel from Philadelphia."

"They tried me at fullback for about two weeks toward the end of the exhibition season and I had a good time running with the ball again," Damkroger said. "I knew the basics but the system was a lot more complicated than when I played in college. The fullback runs a lot more pass patterns and carries the ball a lot more in the pros."

"But they picked up two running backs and filled in the spots there," Damkroger said.

NFL Strike

Commenting on the current NFL player's strike Damkroger said, "last year the player's demands were out of reason. This year I think that they have become more reasonble, but the owners' offers haven't been too great. I think that they're closer to agreement though and should have it settled soon."

"Like I said, it's a job and you have to get what you think you deserve just like any other union."

Future

"I'm really glad I came back last year and picked up my degree in business," Damkroger said. "I figured it would be silly for me to not graduate with just a few hours to go. And you never know how long a future you can have in football so you almost have to get that degree."

Now Maury is looking for the security of having a job that he knows he can't get cut from just before the season starts.

"I don't see me getting back into football. If I have a good job a year from now I know I'll stick with it. I really doubt that I'll play pro football again," Damkroger said. "I enjoyed it while it lasted but you have to realize that football isn't everything."

Hardship Sought For NU's Everett

By United Press International

Nebraska coach Tom Osborne Wednesday said he will try to get reserve quarterback Earl Everett classified as a hardship case in an effort to give him an extra year of football eligibility.

"Earl has had enough injuries that have affected his spring and fall football chances," Osborne said. "He had severe back problems and ankle and knee injuries in spring practice."

If Everett is declared a hardship case, he will not be allowed to play the rest of the season. Everett cannot be redshirted because he played in one game this year.

He played quarterback his first two years with the Cornhuskers, but would have been switched to wingback this spring if he had not suffered the injuries.

Third-string quarterback Randy Garcia will suit up against Texas Christian University Saturday, in place of Everett.

Osborne has made three changes in the Cornhuskers' kickoff coverage team, adding speed and size. "We don't have anybody out there who can't run at least a 4.7" for the 40-yard dash, Osborne said.

Added to the specialty team were fullbacks Dodie Donnell and Gary Higgs, who run the 40-yard dash in 4.5 and 4.6 seconds respectively, and defensive end Ray Phillips. He is 6-4 and 225 pounds and runs the 40 in 4.7 seconds.

Osborne said Mike Coyle has recovered from a hip injury and will handle all the place kicking duties on Saturday.

Also returning to the lineup will be defensive end Dave Redding, out with a pulled hamstring muscle, and I-back Dave Gillespie, who was suffering from a hip pointer.

AP Writer Sees 'Light'

Fred Rothenberg, Associated Press sports writer who was awarded the game ball by the Nebraska football team after he picked Indiana to beat the Huskers last Saturday, has seen the light.

"In picking Indiana over Nebraska last week, I missed by a mere 46 points," he wrote in his weekly prediction story. "Maybe the pick made Indiana overconfident. In any case, the gracious Cornhuskers awarded me the game ball. If they fill it with hot air, it would be appropriate . . . . Nebraska 49, TCU 0."

Husker sports information director Don Bryant has secured the autographs of co-captains Terry Luck and Bob Martin and properly lettered the same ball early this week. It is on its way to New York.

For the record, it was deflated.

'C.T.' Fransen Spurs NU Field Hockey Win

By DAVE SITTLER

Mary Claire Fransen is called "C.T." by her field hockey teammates because her colorful practice uniform resembles a Christmas tree.

Following Nebraska's smashing 7-0 season-opening win over Concordia College Wednesday afternoon on the Cornhuskers' field, the initials C.T. should stand for "clutch touch."

Fransen, a 5-6, 135-pound senior from Lincoln, used her clutch touch to ram home four goals as Coach Elizabeth Petrakis' Huskers dominated the contest.

"I should have scored at least three more goals for sure," commented C.T. on her play from the center forward position. "I played alright, but it could have been better."

Not Agree

The Bulldogs from Concordia probably would not agree with Fransen's appraisal of her performance.

Played before a small but vocal and appreciative crowd, the Nebraska team displayed an offensive and defensive attack that was as sharp as the team's new uniforms.

Sporting red and white plaid kilts and white blouses for first contest of the year, the Cornhusker jumped to a 4-0 first half advantage against Concordia and were never headed.

Then it was time for Clutch Touch Fransen to show her deft scoring ability.

Blonde Beauty

Fransen ran in a goal from the right side at the 10:36 mark and then ended first half scoring with a goal from the middle as 7:55 remained on the clock.

A blonde headed beauty, Fransen picked up where she left in the first half as she scored a goal with less than a minute gone in the second half.

Fransen got her fourth and final goal at the 27:16 mark of the final period and senior Sue Hansen ended the scoring with a final goal with 10 minutes gone in the last 35 minute half.

"We finally started working as a team in the second half," coach Petrakis said. "We still missed a few chances for goals, but it was a good match for the first one of the year."

Strong Defense

Nebraska's defensive effort, led by Beth Ann Pillen of Omaha, was so strong that Concordia only had one real shot at the goal the entire contest.

In addition to Fransen's fine play, sophomore Jean Shandera of Lincoln played a strong passing game from her right wing position. It was Shandera's first varsity appearance.

Following Wednesday's victory, the Huskers travel to Lamoni, Ia., Saturday for games against Graceland College and Northern Iowa.

Huskers Slated For TV Show

Monte Anthony and Mike Fultz, starters on Nebraska's football team, and Husker coach Tom Osborne will be interviewed on the Nebraska ETV minority affairs seminar called "Rap About it" at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Mal Adams, host for the show, will discuss statistics, projections and past performances of black athletes who have contributed to Nebraska's football success over the years.

Hebron Coach Takes Only Alternative—Postpone Game

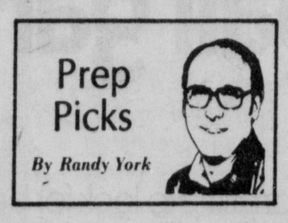

Only 22 of Hebron's 45-man football squad practiced Tuesday night.

When five of those 22 missed first period classes Wednesday morning, the number of available players reduced to a maximum 17.

There was only one thing Hebron coach Bob Fuller could do — postpone Friday's home game against Hastings St. Cecilia.

Game Rescheduled

It's been reset for Monday, Oct. 27, the week after teacher's convention.

Although Hebron first was hit by individual cases of encephalitis last week, local health officials emphasize that the most recent sickness has been the flu.

"There hasn't been a case of encephalitis in the last week," one official said. "It's no epidemic and never has been. I'm sure there's the same thing in towns all over the state."

Nevertheless, Hebron's football team has dwindled to just 17 players and "four or five of those are freshmen," according to Fuller.

"It looks like this thing is going to take the course and run through the whole squad. By next week, I think everyone will have had some form of it," said Fuller, who missed three days of school himself because of sickness last week.

Walking Death

"We've got some boys who were gone back in school," he noted, "but they look like walking death. They're pretty peaked and awfully weak."

Harold Simpson, Hebron's varsity assistant coach, was hospitalized Monday morning, according to Fuller.

"People have really gotten sick," he said. "Most have gotten extreme headaches, stiff necks and backs and almost all have been vomiting."

Despite a heavily depleted squad, Hebron played at Sutton last Friday night and lost, 9-8. "It was the best effort I've ever gotten from kids since I've been coaching though," Fuller declared.

"There is some light and promise," he said. "We're getting some kids back in school. Of course, they can't practice."

But that's hardly the most important thing to Fuller and other townspeople in the sports-minded community.

"It's been utter chaos around here," Fuller observed. "We told St. Cecilia we might be able to give them an eight-man game without any substitutes.

"We're hoping everything cools down, so our kids can resume normal activity and get some strength back," he added.

The Hebron coach is thankful that the recent onslaught of sickness isn't encephalitis.

"Nobody's been able to really pinpoint what it is," he said. "There have been a lot of rumors and guesswork, but nothing definite I know of. Things will probably be up in the air two or three more weeks."

Hebron will play Superior the Wednesday before the postponed St. Cecilia game on a Monday. "We also might ask Henderson to move our Oct. 31st game from Friday to Saturday," Fuller indicated.

In games involving Lincoln teams this weekend, it's:

Lincoln Northeast (3-0) v. Lincoln High (0-3), Friday night, Seacrest Field — The Links' defense is solid, but it doesn't win football games.

Minden (1-2) at Lincoln Pius X (3-0), Friday night — Minden runs through phase 4 of its early-season meatgrinder of Holdrege, Lexington, Superior and Pius X.

Lincoln Southeast (1-2) at Hastings (1-2), Friday night — Hastings' win over Kearney and 12-6 press of Lincoln East should make the Tigers the favorites, but we'll go with the Knights on a hunch.

Ralston (2-1) v. Lincoln East (3-0-1), Saturday night, Seacrest Field — The Spartans are a puzzling team so far. They're prone to inconsistency except when it comes to one thing — winning.

Morning Briefing
A Sports Roundup

FOOTBALL

The Buffalo Bills and Houston Oilers, two teams which refused to join last week's NFL strike, voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to reject the league's latest contract offer. With two of the 26 teams reporting their positions, the vote against what the NFL Management Council called "our best shot" was 85-1.

Fullback Bill Brown, 37, who was released by the Minnesota Vikings before the start of training camp, has officially announced his retirement.

The Southeastern Conference has voted down a University of Florida proposal to limit both visiting and home teams in conference games to 48 players each, Florida coach Doug Dickey said.

WFL owners concluded a two-day meeting in New York and league President Chris Hemmeter said that "no problem exists as to our present 10 teams completing the 1975 season."

The Oakland Raiders have acquired veteran defensive tackle Dave Rowe from San Siego to replace Kelvin Korver who will be out for the season with a knee injury.

BASKETBALL

Tates Locke, former basketball coach at Clemson, was quoted as denying that he made the payments on rental cars for some of his players in violation of NCAA rules. Locke resigned as Clemson coach shortly after the NCAA launched an investigation into alleged illegal recruiting practices and now is an assistant coach with the NBA Buffalo Braves.

Veteran guard Freddie Lewis, in a contract dispute with the Spirits of St. Louis, failed to appear as the team opened training camp for the 1975-76 season.

Mendy Rudolph officially announced his resignation as chief of staff of referees in the NBA and became an analyst for nationally-televised NBA games for the 1975-76 season.

Cyclones' Volkens Ruled Out

By Associated Press

Iowa State has apparently lost reserve defensive end Craig Volkens for the rest of the season with a fractured hand.

"He apparently was injured in Monday's practice, but we did not learn of the fracture until X-rays Tuesday," said coach Earle Bruce.

Unless Volkens is able to rejoin the squad within three weeks, the Big Eight will be asked to grant a hardship ruling to protect Volkens' year of eligibility, Bruce said.

Oklahoma State

William Miller moved ahead of Richard Allen at the No. 1 defensive nose guard spot and Joe Avanzini was shifted from safety to defensive end Wednesday as Oklahoma State whipped through a two-hour filmed workout.

Avanzini and freshman Larry Jackson shared the alternate defensive end slot behind starter Bobby Douglas Wednesday, leaving Jerry Kramer and Scott Burk at strong safety

Placekicker Abby Daigle probably will miss Saturday's game with North Texas State, but fullback Mike Mitchell's kicking in practice surprised OSU coach Jim Stanley

"Mitchell looks like he has some distance," said Stanley. "He kicks them long and high He could kick our field goals and extra points Gary Irons will handle the kickoffs."

Oklahoma

Oklahoma offensive guard Terry Webb, still hampered by a sprained ankle, participated in the workout and is expected to play Friday.

Defensive end Jumbo Elrod's pulled groin muscle continued to bother him.

Kansas

Running back Bill Campfield was back at full speed Wednesday as the Kansas football team drilled for Oregon State

Missouri

Missouri star tailback Tony Galbreath returned to workouts after running out kinks left over from last week's Illinois game

Kansas State

Fullback Jim Couch is the only one of Kansas State's bruised Wildcats who won't make this week's trip to Wake Forest

Couch strained knee ligaments in last Saturday's Wichita State game, and his No 2 slot in the lineup will be filled by Regan Steiner, back in action from offseason knee surgery himself.

CU Offense Tops Big 8

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Colorado has jumped out in front of Oklahoma in total offense in the Big Eight Conference.

The Buffs are averaging 529 yards a game. Oklahoma, the leader for approximately two years, is right behind Colorado with a 523-yard game average. Oklahoma State is third with a 423-yard average

Oklahoma leads in three of the eight major departments — rushing offense, scoring offense and rushing defense. The top-ranked Sooners have averaged 461 yards in rushing offense followed by Colorado with 402.5 and Oklahoma State with 339.5.

Oklahoma has averaged 54 points a game. Colorado, with 30 5, is second and Nebraska, 27 5, third.

The Sooners held their two opponents, Oregon and Pittsburgh, to an average of 63.5 yards in rushing. Behind them are Kansas State, 71.5, and Nebraska, 94.0

Kansas State is tops in passing offense, having completed 16 of 32 tosses for 255 yards or an average of 127.5 yards. Colorado is close in second with a 126.5-yard average and Nebraska third with 125.5.

Nebraska is the leaders in the other defensive categories. The Huskers have allowed only 14 completions of 30 passes thrown for an average per game of 53 yards gained by the opposition. Next are Oklahoma State, 91.5 yards, and Iowa State, 105.0 yards.

In total defense, the Huskers have yielded only an average of 147 yards, Oklahoma 211 and Kansas State 216.5.

Nebraska's opponents have been able to average only 3.5 points as compared to 6.5 points by Oklahoma State and 8.0 by Kansas State.

Morning Briefing

FOOTBALL

The Buffalo Bills and Houston Oilers, two teams which refused to join last week's NFL strike, voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to reject the league's latest contract offer. With two of the 26 teams reporting their positions, the vote against what the NFL Management Council called "our best shot" was 85-1.

Fullback Bill Brown, 37, who was released by the Minnesota Vikings before the start of training camp, has officially announced his retirement.

The Southeastern Conference has voted down a University of Florida proposal to limit both visiting and home teams in conference games to 48 players each, Florida coach Doug Dickey said.

WFL owners concluded a two-day meeting in New York and league President Chris Hemmeter said that "no problem exists as to our present 10 teams completing the 1975 season."

The Oakland Raiders have acquired veteran defensive tackle Dave Rowe from San Siego to replace Kelvin Korver who will be out for the season with a knee injury.

BASKETBALL

Tates Locke, former basketball coach at Clemson, was quoted as denying that he made the payments on rental cars for some of his players in violation of NCAA rules. Locke resigned as Clemson coach shortly after the NCAA launched an investigation into alleged illegal recruiting practices and now is an assistant coach with the NBA Buffalo Braves.

Veteran guard Freddie Lewis, in a contract dispute with the Spirits of St. Louis, failed to appear as the team opened training camp for the 1975-76 season.

Mendy Rudolph officially announced his resignation as chief of staff of referees in the NBA and became an analyst for nationally-televised NBA games for the 1975-76 season.

CU Offense Tops Big 8

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Colorado has jumped out in front of Oklahoma in total offense in the Big Eight Conference.

The Buffs are averaging 529 yards a game. Oklahoma, the leader for approximately two years, is right behind Colorado with a 523-yard game average. Oklahoma State is third with a 423-yard average.

Oklahoma leads in three of the eight major departments — rushing offense, scoring offense and rushing defense. The top-ranked Sooners have averaged 461 yards in rushing offense followed by Colorado with 402.5 and Oklahoma State with 339.5.

Oklahoma has averaged 54 points a game. Colorado, with 30.5, is second and Nebraska, 27.5, third.

The Sooners held their two opponents, Oregon and Pittsburgh, to an average of 63.5 yards in rushing. Behind them are Kansas State, 71.5, and Nebraska, 94.0.

Kansas State is tops in passing offense, having completed 16 of 32 tosses for 255 yards or an average of 127.5 yards. Colorado is close in second with a 126.5-yard average and Nebraska third with 125.5.

Nebraska is the leaders in the other defensive categories. The Huskers have allowed only 14 completions of 30 passes thrown for an average per game of 53 yards gained by the opposition. Next are Oklahoma State, 91.5 yards, and Iowa State, 105.0 yards.

In total defense, the Huskers have yielded only an average of 147 yards, Oklahoma 211 and Kansas State 216.5.

Nebraska's opponents have been able to average only 3.5 points as compared to 6.5 points by Oklahoma State and 8.0 by Kansas State.

Cyclones' Volkens Ruled Out

By Associated Press

Iowa State has apparently lost reserve defensive end Craig Volkens for the rest of the season with a fractured hand.

"He apparently was injured in Monday's practice, but we did not learn of the fracture until X-rays Tuesday," said coach Earle Bruce.

Unless Volkens is able to rejoin the squad within three weeks, the Big Eight will be asked to grant a hardship ruling to protect Volkens' year of eligibility, Bruce said.

Oklahoma State

William Miller moved ahead of Richard Allen at the No. 1 defensive nose guard spot and Joe Avanzini was shifted from safety to defensive end Wednesday as Oklahoma State whipped through a two-hour filmed workout.

Avanzini and freshman Larry Jackson shared the alternate defensive end slot behind starter Bobby Douglas Wednesday, leaving Jerry Kramer and Scott Burk at strong safety.

Placekicker Abby Daigle probably will miss Saturday's game with North Texas State, but fullback Mike Mitchell's kicking in practice surprised OSU coach Jim Stanley.

"Mitchell looks like he has some distance," said Stanley. "He kicks them long and high. He could kick our field goals and extra points. Gary Irons will handle the kickoffs."

Oklahoma

Oklahoma offensive guard Terry Webb, still hampered by a sprained ankle, participated in the workout and is expected to play Friday.

Defensive end Jimbo Elrod's pulled groin muscle continued to bother him.

Kansas

Running back Bill Campfield was back at full speed Wednesday as the Kansas football team drilled for Oregon State.

Missouri

Missouri star tailback Tony Galbreath returned to workouts after running out kinks left over from last week's Illinois game.

Kansas State

Fullback Jim Couch is the only one of Kansas State's bruised Wildcats who won't make this week's trip to Wake Forest.

Couch strained knee ligaments in last Saturday's Wichita State game, and his No. 2 slot in the lineup will be filled by Regan Steiner, back in action from offseason knee surgery himself.

New Book Helps Understand Game Birds

Hunting Readings

Whenever the seasons change in interest, I have a tendency to try to get a headstart by reading ahead. For example, when spring rolls around, I grab every fishing book I can get my hands on. The same goes for fall and hunting works.

One such book, although not dealing with hunting as such, is to be found right in our own backyard. The University of Nebraska Press has recently published Dr. Paul A. Johnsgard's "North American Game Birds of Upland and Shoreline."

Johnsgard's book deals with the game birds, their range, identifying marks, aging, sexing, habitat, food supplies and reproductive biology. As one of the foremost authorities on game birds, any reader can count on all the information within being as complete and factual as can be found.

It's All Outdoors

By Tom Vint
Outdoor Editor

A devoted sporting man can make valuable use of this work to further his or her understanding of game birds. And they must might pick up a pointer or two about habitat and life habits to aid them while in the field.

Johnsgard's book is not one for the leisure reader wanting to find a plot, adventure and excitement. It is more an identification manual for game birds from Canada to Mexico.

The professor of zoology at the University has also authored five other books, including works on waterfowl, grouse and quail.

Pheasant and More

If one specific bird, rather than Johnsgard's complete listing, is your bag, Crown Publishing, Inc , of New York and E.C. Janes offers an answer, at least for pheasant enthusiasts.

The book entitled "Ringneck: Pheasants and Pheasant Hunting," should have been entitled "Everything You Always Wanted to know About Pheasants and Even Some Things You Didn't Know You Wanted to Know."

E.C Janes has apparently done his homework on the No. 1 game bird of the Midwest. Even though he resides in Massachusetts, you'd think Janes grew up along the cornfields of Iowa or the waterways running through Nebraska's milo fields.

"Ringneck! Pheasants and Pheasant Hunting" is a conglomeration of years of in-the-field research with veteran pheasant hunters. He covers the bird's history, predators, cover, shooting, guns, dogs, clothing to wear and even some 20 recipes.

'Janes's book could do wonders for the fledgling pheasant hunter or the hunter who's been having trouble hitting the colorful bird and wondering why. His chapter on pheasant shooting will enlighten one on everything from the shotgun and shot size to how to lead the bird in flight.

The only exception I could take to the book as a veteran pheasant hunter in the heart of pheasant territory is the space spent on predators of the bird. Pheasant losses to the predators listed in the early chapter o "Killers" don't amount to much compared to number losses from dwindling habitat.

Overall, however, "Ringneck! Pheasants and Pheasant Hunting" goes a long way with information for America's popular game bird.

Hastings Vaults To 11th In Poll

Hastings College, riding on the crest of a 3-0 season start, is currently ranked 11th in the NAIA Division II poll. Midland College of Fremont, which lost a 16-6 decision to Wayne State last week, dropped to 19th in the poll.

Other area college teams receiving votes include Missouri Western 20th in Division II, Dickinson College 14th, and Northwestern of Iowa first. In division I Missouri Valley, which defeated Concordia College last Saturday, was on top followed by William Penn.

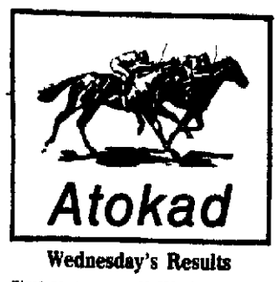

The Hastings rushing defense is currently ranked second in the NAIA poll for both divisions, allowing an average of -8-yards rushing per game, while the Bronco passing offense is ranked 12th in the poll.

Turkey Shoot Set At Pioneers

An 8 a.m. shotgun start is slated for the LMGA's annual "Turkey Shoot" Sunday at Pioneers Golf Course. Following the meet the Moose Club will have drawings for prizes for all LMGA members and a general membership meeting with elections of new board members.

LMGA's two-man best ball and breakfast event is slated for Holmes Holf Course on Oct. 12. To enter call Holmes Golf Course or sign up at the course.

HANDI-FOOTBALL RATINGS

HOW TO USE THE RATINGS . .

ILLUSTRATION Air Force versus Yale

If the Air Force game were to meet Yale on a neutral field Air Force's Handi-Rating of 25 would hold a 10 point advantage over Yale's 33 rating

If the game were played AT AIR FORCE allow Air Force 3 points for playing at home AIR FORCE would become a 13 point favorite

If the game were played AT YALE allow Yale 3 points for playing at home This would make AIR FORCE a 7 point favorite

All teams are measured from the TOP RATING of zero

Spikers Run For Uniforms

Nebraska's volleyball team for women has come up short in outfitting its taller players.

The Cornhusker women discovered last week that warm-ups available to the team were too small for several of the players.

With no funds to purchase new suits, Coach Pat Sullivan's club has decided to stage a 55-mile run to Omaha in an attempt to raise the money.

The team will leave Lincoln Sunday at 10 a.m. Team members are searching out sponsors who are willing to pledge contributions towards each mile run

NWU Harriers Eye Doane Meet

Crete — The Nebraska Wesleyan cross country team will try to improve on its third place finish in the W-Club meet held last week, this Saturday as the same teams minus the W-Club winner, will meet in the Doane Cross-Country Invitational at Crete's College Heights Country Club

Doane which finished second in the Wesleyan W-Club meet, is expected to offer the Plainsmen the top competition, while improved showings from Kearney, Midland and Concordia are expected.

John Eggers, a NWU sophomore finished third in the W-Club meet just one-tenth a second ahead of Doane's Mike Neeman in the four-mile run.

Boxing Stable Seeks Members

Competition for the 8-15-year-olds and 16-25-year-olds will be provided for anyone interested in joining the Auld Boxing Stable. Workouts will be held each Monday and Wednesday evening. Further information is available by contacting Ron Stutzman, the boxing coach at 464-1890 or by calling the Auld Recreation Center.

Wright Arch Preserver® Shoes

TRY A PAIR OF WRIGHT'S
AND YOU MAY NEVER WEAR ANOTHER SHOE
Into the insole of every Wright Arch Preserver shoe they build a special little bump that fits right into the hollow of your foot. That little bump makes Wright's different from*— and for most men probably more comfortable than – any other shoe in the world. It also makes Wright's clientele the most loyal shoe clientele to be found today. Is there a better reason for trying a pair on your feet just as soon as you can?

New Book Helps Understand Game Birds

It's All Outdoors

By Tom Vint
Outdoor Editor

Hunting Readings

Whenever the seasons change in interest, I have a tendency to try to get a headstart by reading ahead. For example, when spring rolls around, I grab every fishing book I can get my hands on. The same goes for fall and hunting works.

One such book, although not dealing with hunting as such, is to be found right in our own backyard. The University of Nebraska Press has recently published Dr. Paul A. Johnsgard's "North American Game Birds of Upland and Shoreline."

Johnsgard's book deals with the game birds, their range, identifying marks, aging, sexing, habitat, food supplies and reproductive biology. As one of the foremost authorities on game birds, any reader can count on all the information within being as complete and factual as can be found.

A devoted sporting man can make valuable use of this work to further his or her understanding of game birds. And they must might pick up a pointer or two about habitat and life habits to aid them while in the field.

Johnsgard's book is not one for the leisure reader wanting to find a plot, adventure and excitement. It is more an identification manual for game birds from Canada to Mexico.

The professor of zoology at the University has also authored five other books, including works on waterfowl, grouse and quail.

Pheasant and More

If one specific bird, rather than Johnsgard's complete listing, is your bag, Crown Publishing, Inc., of New York and E.C. Janes offers an answer, at least for pheasant enthusiasts.

The book entitled "Ringneck: Pheasants and Pheasant Hunting," should have been entitled "Everything You Always Wanted to know About Pheasants and Even Some Things You Didn't Know You Wanted to Know."

E.C. Janes has apparently done his homework on the No. 1 game bird of the Midwest. Even though he resides in Massachusetts, you'd think Janes grew up along the cornfields of Iowa or the waterways running through Nebraska's milo fields.

"Ringneck! Pheasants and Pheasant Hunting" is a conglomeration of years of in-the-field research with veteran pheasant hunters. He covers the bird's history, predators, cover, shooting, guns, dogs, clothing to wear and even some 20 recipes.

Janes's book could do wonders for the fledgling pheasant hunter or the hunter who's been having trouble hitting the colorful bird and wondering why. His chapter on pheasant shooting will enlighten one on everything from the shotgun and shot size to how to lead the bird in flight.

The only exception I could take to the book as a veteran pheasant hunter in the heart of pheasant territory is the space spent on predators of the bird. Pheasant losses to the predators listed in the early chapter o "Killers" don't amount to much compared to number losses from dwindling habitat.

Overall, however, "Ringneck! Pheasants and Pheasant Hunting" goes a long way with information for America's popular game bird.

Hastings Vaults To 11th In Poll

Hastings College, riding on the crest of a 3-0 season start, is currently ranked 11th in the NAIA Division II poll. Midland College of Fremont, which lost a 16-6 decision to Wayne State last week, dropped to 19th in the poll.

Other area college teams receiving votes include Missouri Western 20th in Division II, Dickinson College 14th, and Northwestern of Iowa first. In division I Missouri Valley, which defeated Concordia College last Saturday, was on top followed by William Penn.

The Hastings rushing defense is currently ranked second in the NAIA poll for both divisions, allowing an average of -8-yards rushing per game, while the Bronco passing offense is ranked 12th in the poll.

Turkey Shoot Set At Pioneers

An 8 a.m. shotgun start is slated for the LMGA's annual "Turkey Shoot" Sunday at Pioneers Golf Course. Following the meet the Moose Club will have drawings for prizes for all LMGA members and a general membership meeting with elections of new board members.

LMGA's two-man best ball and breakfast event is slated for Holmes Holf Course on Oct. 12. To enter call Holmes Golf Course or sign up at the course.

HANDI-FOOTBALL RATINGS

ILLUSTRATION: Air Force versus Yale
If the Air Force were to meet Yale on a neutral field, Air Force's Handi-Rating of 23 would hold a 10-point advantage over Yale's 33 rating.
If the game were played AT AIR FORCE, allow Air Force 3 points for playing at home. AIR FORCE would become a 13-point favorite.
If the game were played AT YALE, allow Yale 3 points for playing at home. This would make AIR FORCE a 7-point favorite.

All teams are measured from the TOP RATING of zero.
ALLOW THREE POINTS FOR HOME FIELD ADVANTAGE.
First number in brackets ( ) indicates Final 1974 Rating.
Middle bracket ( ) indicates team's 1974 Won-Loss Record vs. Pointspread
Remaining figure represents current 1975 Team Power Rating.

NWU Harriers Eye Doane Meet

Crete — The Nebraska Wesleyan cross country team will try to improve on its third place finish in the W-Club meet held last week, this Saturday as the same teams minus the W-Club winner, will meet in the Doane Cross-Country Invitational at Crete's College Heights Country Club.

Doane which finished second in the Wesleyan W-Club meet, is expected to offer the Plainsmen the top competition, while improved showings from Kearney, Midland and Concordia are expected.

John Eggers, a NWU sophomore finished third in the W-Club meet just one-tenth a second ahead of Doane's Mike Neeman in the four-mile run.

Spikers Run For Uniforms

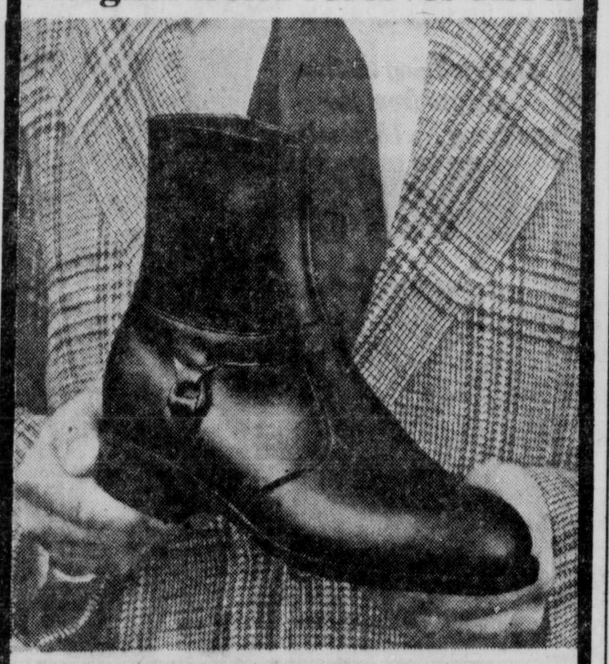

Nebraska's volleyball team for women has come up short in outfitting its taller players.

The Cornhusker women discovered last week that warm-ups available to the team were too small for several of the players.

With no funds to purchase new suits, Coach Pat Sullivan's club has decided to stage a 55-mile run to Omaha in an attempt to raise the money.

The team will leave Lincoln Sunday at 10 a.m. Team members are searching out sponsors who are willing to pledge contributions towards each mile run.

Wright Arch Preserver® Shoes

AND YOU MAY NEVER WEAR ANOTHER SHOE
Into the insole of every Wright Arch Preserver shoe they build a special little bump that fits right into the hollow of your foot. That little bump makes Wright's different from*— and for most men probably more comfortable than — any other shoe in the world. It also makes Wright's clientele the most loyal shoe clientele to be found today. Is there a better reason for trying a pair on your feet just as soon as you can?

Bond Says He's Not Campaigning

Des Moines (UPI) — Black Georgia legislator Julian Bond said he would make a good candidate for the presidency, but admitted he "couldn't get it altogether" and wasn't campaigning for the nomination

The 35-year-old Democrat, who was nominated for vice president at the 1968 convention, said necessary economic reforms would not be passed by the current Congress and the Ford administration.

Alarm Sounded For Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans, already outnumbered two to one in the House, could lose 25 more seats in next year's elections, a party panel has bluntly warned GOP members

The House Republican Research Committee sounded the alarm, citing columns of statistics from past elections. It denounced, in a fact sheet sent to GOP members, "smugness . . (that) borders on arrogance" and called for "positive initiatives."

The committee, headed by Rep. Louis Frey , Jr , R-Fla , is part of the Republican House organization.

The panel said that Republican successes earlier this year in sustaining President Ford's vetoes and what it termed the majority Democrats' inability to pull together behind a legislative program sent a wave of optimism through Republican ranks — including the committee itself

"And then it was Tuesday, Sept 16 Election Day in New Hampshire," the report continued, referring to Democrat John A. Durkin's stunning 27,000-vote defeat of Republican Louis C. Wyman in the rerun of a senatorial election that had been too close to name a winner last November.

"They elected a Democrat in a state where even the Independents outnumber the Democrats," the committee said

"They elected a Democrat after the President and ex-Gov. (Ronald) Reagan (of California) went up and campaigned for the Republican

"The handwriting is on the wall Can we read it?"

The 1974 off-year election gave the Democrats a net gain of 43 seats in the House. The party division now is 289 Democrats, 145 Republicans One vacancy, formerly a Democratic seat, is to be filled by special election in Tennessee

Republicans hold 51 marginal seats — won by less than 10% of the vote — the report said. It said 42 Democratic seats are marginal

Dogcatching Meter Reader Enters Pot Plea

Carlisle, Iowa (UPI) — Carlisle meter reader and dogcatcher Nancy Dutcher, 24, was free on $1,000 bond Wednesday after she pleaded innocent in Magistrate's Court to a charge of a possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver.

Ms. Dutcher was arrested last month after sheriff's deputies said they seized a quantity of a substance believed to be marijuana at her rural Carlisle home.

Freedom Train Could Return To State

Omaha — Nebraska communities disappointed that Omaha was the only scheduled stop in the state of the American Freedom train should hold onto their return trip stubs.

"We're open on schedules as we come east," Petr Spurney, president of the Freedom Train Foundation, said "If the city is willing to demonstrate excitement and attendance, we'll do everything possible to include them "

Refinements in the 25-car traveling Bicentennial display of American history are continual, Spurney said

"The sound system is nowhere where it's going to be, but we've come a long way," he said. "We're gaining momentum. It seems to have more meaning in the great heartland than it did on the coast "

Spurney sees the train as a catalyst to spark greater meaning locally in the Bicentennial and says he hopes "to turn the country on "

He was impressed with the train's reception in Omaha and praised the state's Bicentennial organizations

The Freedom Train will be in Omaha at Union Station through Sunday The hours are 8 a m -10 p m , except Friday and Saturday when the train will be open until midnight

Herstein 1st Manager

Knoxville, Iowa (UPI) — Richard Herstein, 28, of Fort Madison has been appointed as Knoxville's first city manger.

Amount Of Damages Awarded Injured Butler Co. Man Reduced

A new amount of $285,000 has been awarded to a Butler County man for injuries he sustained in a fall from a 30-foot power pole in July 1969.

A U.S District Court jury last year awarded the man, Dennis L. Riha, $460,500. The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the amount was excessive because testimony on inflation should not have been allowed in the trial.

The suit contended that Riha sustained severe and permanent injuries, including a broken hip, when a loop connector broke and allowed electrical wires to spring loose and knock him from the power pole.

The part was manufactured by the Jasper Blackburn Co., a division of the International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

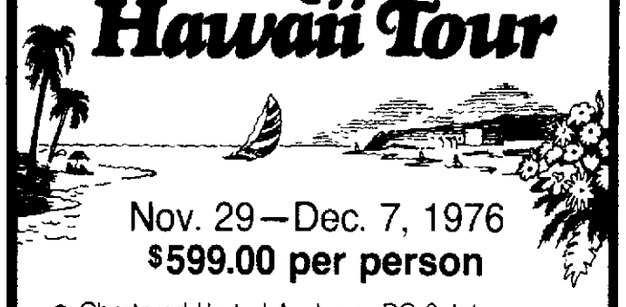

The new amount was set by U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom, who was directed by the appellate court to set an amount which fairly and reasonably compensated Riha, or allow to hold a new trial on the question of the amount of damages

Sharing May End

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — Dallas, Tex., Mayor Wes Wise, addressing the 77th annual convention of the Iowa League of Municipalities here, said there was a very real possibility federal revenue sharing would be completely discontinued.

The committee, headed by Rep. Louis Frey , Jr., R-Fla., is part of the Republican House organization.

The panel said that Republican successes earlier this year in sustaining President Ford's vetoes and what it termed the majority Democrats' inability to pull together behind a legislative program sent a wave of optimism through Republican ranks — including the committee itself.

"And then it was Tuesday, Sept. 16: Election Day in New Hampshire," the report continued, referring to Democrat John A. Durkin's stunning 27,000-vote defeat of Republican Louis C. Wyman in the rerun of a senatorial election that had been too close to name a winner last November.

"They elected a Democrat in a state where even the Independents outnumber the Democrats," the committee said.

"They elected a Democrat after the President and ex-Gov. (Ronald) Reagan (of California) went up and campaigned for the Republican.

"The handwriting is on the wall. Can we read it?"

The 1974 off-year election gave the Democrats a net gain of 43 seats in the House. The party division now is 289 Democrats, 145 Republicans. One vacancy, formerly a Democratic seat, is to be filled by special election in Tennessee.

Republicans hold 51 marginal seats — won by less than 10% of the vote — the report said. It said 42 Democratic seats are marginal.

Dogcatching Meter Reader Enters Pot Plea

Carlisle, Iowa (UPI) — Carlisle meter reader and dogcatcher Nancy Dutcher, 24, was free on $1,000 bond Wednesday after she pleaded innocent in Magistrate's Court to a charge of a possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver.

Ms. Dutcher was arrested last month after sheriff's deputies said they seized a quantity of a substance believed to be marijuana at her rural Carlisle home.

Amount Of Damages Awarded Injured Butler Co. Man Reduced

A new amount of $285,000 has been awarded to a Butler County man for injuries he sustained in a fall from a 30-foot power pole in July 1969.

A U.S. District Court jury last year awarded the man, Dennis L. Riha, $460,500. The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the amount was excessive because testimony on inflation should not have been allowed in the trial.

The suit contended that Riha sustained severe and permanent injuries, including a broken hip, when a loop connector broke and allowed electrical wires to spring loose and knock him from the power pole.

The part was manufactured by the Jasper Blackburn Co., a division of the International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The new amount was set by U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom, who was directed by the appellate court to set an amount which fairly and reasonably compensated Riha, or allow to hold a new trial on the question of the amount of damages.

Sharing May End

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — Dallas, Tex., Mayor Wes Wise, addressing the 77th annual convention of the Iowa League of Municipalities here, said there was a very real possibility federal revenue sharing would be completely discontinued.

Freedom Train Could Return To State

Omaha — Nebraska communities disappointed that Omaha was the only scheduled stop in the state of the American Freedom train should hold onto their return trip stubs.

"We're open on schedules as we come east," Petr Spurney, president of the Freedom Train Foundation, said. "If the city is willing to demonstrate excitement and attendance, we'll do everything possible to include them."

Refinements in the 25-car traveling Bicentennial display of American history are continual, Spurney said.

"The sound system is nowhere where it's going to be, but we've come a long way," he said. "We're gaining momentum. It seems to have more meaning in the great heartland than it did on the coast."

Spurney sees the train as a catalyst to spark greater meaning locally in the Bicentennial and says he hopes "to turn the country on."

He was impressed with the train's reception in Omaha and praised the state's Bicentennial organizations.

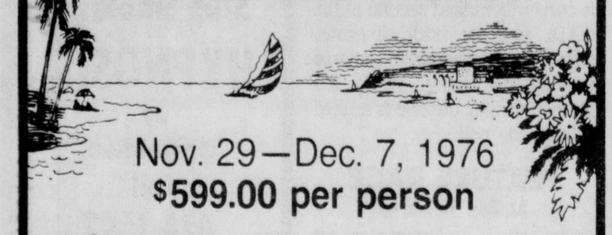

The Freedom Train will be in Omaha at Union Station through Sunday. The hours are 8 a.m.-10 p.m., except Friday and Saturday when the train will be open until midnight.

Second Opinion To Be Sought On Busing Law

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Education will seek a second opinion from Nebraska Atty Gen Paul Douglas regarding the constitutionality of a 1975 busing law.

LB522 requires each local school district that provides transportation for its public school children to grant free rides for those attending non-public schools

A public school bus need not deviate from a regularly scheduled route, but must honor requests to transport non-public school children from a point on that route nearest their homes to a destination nearest their schools

The board vote to seek the second legal opinion was 6-0, with Marilyn Fowler of Lexington and Frank Landis of Lincoln absent The motion offered by Dorothy Creigh of Hastings was a direct response to a recommendation by Kelley Baker, legal counsel for the Nebraska State School Boards Association (NSSBA)

In its first opinion, the attorney general's office stated LB522 could not be called unconstitutional, but the clarity of a double negative has been interpreted as vague The opinion was delivered on March 3, before the Legislature amended LB522 to exclude from busing benefits those students attending private, profit-making schools

While no lawsuits have been filed questioning the constitutionality of LB522, Baker told the board, "This is a politically divisive issue in many communities" The issue is church-state separation, in using buses supported by public monies to benefit non-public school children

"Both the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union and the NSSBA feel that the law is unconstitutional, but we would like to see the question answered by the attorney general so suits could be prevented," Baker said

"There will be a law suit if the attorney general says the law is constitutional," he predicted

In an interview, Baker said the original opinion from Douglas' office ignored Nebraska law, which is more stringent than federal law Yet LB522 may be unconstitutional on federal grounds, he said "because the prime beneficiaries are private school students."

Baker told the state board that public school districts have had to bear increased costs to meet their new transportation responsibilities

In one district, he told a reporter, the cost to bus public school students last year was $21,000, in a contract with a special busing corporation. Parochial school students also contracted for rides with that corporation and paid their own fees

However, this year, Baker said the district must pay the corporation for busing 133 non-public school students, more than doubling its transportation expenses, to $44,000

Moreover, the busing corporation refused to buy a new bus to accommodate additional riders, Baker said, thus, the district was forced to buy a new bus with public funds

Baker told The Star that church "parishes are going slow and easy" in demanding rides for their students under LB522, according to numerous Nebraska public school superintendents The parochial schools don't want to "create problems," he said, and intend rather to let the law work for a year and tackle arising problems later

The state board directed its president, R Jerry Hargitt of Omaha, to request the second opinion from Douglas.

Second Opinion To Be Sought On Busing Law

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Education will seek a second opinion from Nebraska Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas regarding the constitutionality of a 1975 busing law.

LB522 requires each local school district that provides transportation for its public school children to grant free rides for those attending non-public schools.

A public school bus need not deviate from a regularly scheduled route, but must honor requests to transport non-public school children from a point on that route nearest their homes to a destination nearest their schools.

The board vote to seek the second legal opinion was 6-0, with Marilyn Fowler of Lexington and Frank Landis of Lincoln absent. The motion offered by Dorothy Creigh of Hastings was a direct response to a recommendation by Kelley Baker, legal counsel for the Nebraska State School Boards Association (NSSBA).

In its first opinion, the attorney general's office stated LB522 could not be called unconstitutional, but the clarity of a double negative has been interpreted as vague. The opinion was delivered on March 3, before the Legislature amended LB522 to exclude from busing benefits those students attending private, profit-making schools.

While no lawsuits have been filed questioning the constitutionality of LB522, Baker told the board, "This is a politically divisive issue in many communities." The issue is church-state separation, in using buses supported by public monies to benefit non-public school children.

"Both the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union and the NSSBA feel that the law is unconstitutional, but we would like to see the question answered by the attorney general so suits could be prevented," Baker said.

"There will be a law suit if the attorney general says the law is constitutional," he predicted.

In an interview, Baker said the original opinion from Douglas' office ignored Nebraska law, which is more stringent than federal law. Yet LB522 may be unconstitutional on federal grounds, he said "because the prime beneficiaries are private school students."

Baker told the state board that public school districts have had to bear increased costs to meet their new transportation responsibilities.

In one district, he told a reporter, the cost to bus public school students last year was $21,000, in a contract with a special busing corporation. Parochial school students also contracted for rides with that corporation and paid their own fees.

However, this year, Baker said the district must pay the corporation for busing 133 non-public school students, more than doubling its transportation expenses, to $44,000.

Moreover, the busing corporation refused to buy a new bus to accommodate additional riders, Baker said; thus, the district was forced to buy a new bus with public funds.

Baker told The Star that church "parishes are going slow and easy" in demanding rides for their students under LB522, according to numerous Nebraska public school superintendents. The parochial schools don't want to "create problems," he said, and intend rather to let the law work for a year and tackle arising problems later.

The state board directed its president, R. Jerry Hargitt of Omaha, to request the second opinion from Douglas.

Memorial Societies Help Curb High Cost Of Dying

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — When someone you love dies, your grief tends to crowd out all other concerns Unable to think practically, and swayed by appeals to 'do right by the dead," you may well be drawn into paying more for a funeral than you can afford

This can happen to anyone, even sophisticated people who imagine themselvs well-armed against the tactics of a good casket salesman The power of entrenched funeral customs is very strong In the emotion of the moment, you may go along with them just to get it over with

The only way to avoid this trap is to plan in advance — and that generally means joining a memorial society There are now around 130 non-profit societies in the U S , claiming around half a million members, and all dedicated to providing dignified, yet inexpensive, last rites

A memorial society arranges with one or more funeral parlors in the area to provide its members with funeral services at prices ranging from around $150 to $350 By contrast, the average American funeral today costs some $1 200

The savings come principally from the simplicity of the arrangements Funeral society members tend to want cremations or simple earth burials with no open-coffin viewing or elaborate funeral-parlor services

They save themselves the cost of expensive caskets embalming (except in those states where it's required) a formal service at the funeral chapel, cosmetics and hairdressing for the corpse, limosines, organist, guest books and all the other incidentals of a large funeral

But beyond this, funeral parlors provide society members with discounts on the services they do use — generally in the area of 25 percent

You usually have to join a memorial society in advance of death, although some will help if you call up immediately after someone dies Family membership range from $3 50 to $20 plus an extra fee of $5 to $10 at time of death The money is used for printing, record-keeping and overhead, the societies are generally staffed by volunteers or run by church staffs

Even when assisted by churches the societies are open to members of all religions and often have arrangements with funeral parlors that cater specifically to Catholics, Protestants or Jews

When you join, you decide on your own funeral arrangement and file it with the society This relieves your survivors of the need to choose They don't have to deal with casket salesmen or feel guilty for wanting a cheaper model At death, the funeral director is called and told which plan to proceed with

Peggy Fleming, president of the Memorial Society of the Columbus (Ohio) Area, says that members tend to choose cremation, but the full range burial options is available — including at extra cost, a traditional funeral with all the trappings Members who choose burial typically have a simple graveside service for the family, followed by a memorial service in a church, synagogue or home

Memorial societies provide the information you need on donating eyes or organs for medical purposes But they don t have anything to do with buying cemetery land or gravestones Nor do they handle funeral arrangements

The growing interest in memorial societies has inevitably attracted imitators Memorial society presidents warn that if a 'society charges a large membership fee or tries to sell you any part of the funeral arrangements it s not the real thing

Oil Price Hopes Lift Stock Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — Hopes that the oil-exporting nations would limit themselves to a moderate price increase carried the stock market to a broad gain Wednesday despite some late profit taking

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up about 12 points at midafternoon, closed with a 6 34 advance at 826 19

Big Board volume was a moderate 16 06 million shares, up from 12 80 million on Tuesday

Gainers outnumbered losers in the over-all NYSE count, 1,005 to 372 among the 1,785 issues changing hands

The market s exuberant rise early in the session followed developmentsat the start of an Organization of Petroleum exporting Countries meeting in Vienna which were taken as signs that the oil cartel would post no more than a mild price increase

Saudi Arabia, the largest oil exporter, was urging no increase at all and saying it would agree to a ' nominal" boost

Iraq s oil minister told newsmen a consensus had developed in the group for a 10 per cent hike — considerably less than that nation and some of the more militant OPEC members have been calling for Later in the session however investors seemed to step back to await a formal move by the oil ministers

The market also appeared to benefit at the outset from early signs that a $2 billion offering of 29 month notes by the Treasury would be well received

Under basic supply-and-demand theory, good demand for such a new issue at current interest rates means lessened upward pressure on the rates

In oil stocks Exxon rose ¼ to 91¼, touching a new high for the year of 93 along the way, Mobil was up ⅛ at 44¼ Standard Oil of California gained ½ to 30½ Texaco added ¼ to 24 and Gulf was up ⅛ at 21⅝

General Motors the only auto maker showing a gain in mid-September sales rose ½ to 50½ in active trading Elsewhere in the group, Ford picked up ⅜ to 36⅞ Chrysler gained ¼ to 10½, and American Motors was up ¼ at 5½

Airline issues strengthened on the oil price hopes

Non-Member Sales Halted By Farmland

Kansas City Mo (UPI) — A spokesman for Farmland Industries, Inc , Wednesday said because the farm cooperative-owned industry is dedicated to serving its agricultural members, it was forced to stop sales of gasoline to 17 non-member businesses when federal controls were lifted from crude oil

Because of a lack of crude oil we had to sever that supply line to those non-member accounts and place ourselves in a position to serve agriculture," George Statham, Farmland vice president of petroleum, said

Statham said the firm had been forced by now-defunct federal controls to continue supply to the businesses because they had purchased from Farmland surpluses during the 1972 federal allocation base period

'We have no objection to serving these accounts," he said. "But we can't serve them without realistically priced crude oil "

A spokesman for the Kansas Energy Office said only three of the firms cut back by Farmland have contacted that agency for aid They are A-1 Oil of Parsons, National Oil of McCune, and Mid-America Refinery at Chanute

Omaha Hog Prices Slip

OMAHA, Neb (AP)—Hog sellers on the Omaha livestock got a jolt from "Cloud 9" Wednesday, but it was a gentle prod following three straight record days for butcher tops

However, Wednesday's retreat didn't seem to concern too many folks because of the generally high price levels in recent months, and the prediction that price levels are likely to remain high at least through the middle of next year

Wednesday s hog run was estimated at about 4 000 head

Barrows and gilts saw moderate activity, trending steady to 25-cents lower than Tuesday's close Looking from another angle, Wednesday s butcher trend was 50-to-75 cents lower than Tuesday s opening trade, which saw a record top of $64 00 on early rounds

There were about 3,500 cattle and calves on offer

Steers and heifers turned fully steady, but the trade on cows was quite slow, and the trend showed the effects After a few early cow sales earned a steady call the trade deteriorated, and the trend was called mostly 50-cents to $1 00 lower at the close

There were about 300 sheep on offer.

Grain Futures Rise Slightly

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures posted small gains on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday after a session of slow, but mixed dealings in a largely directionless market

Soybeans advanced up to 7 cents a bushel while corn gained nearly 3 cents and wheat and oats nearly 2 Soybean meal prices as well as iced broilers were irregular after the final bell but soybean oil held to a very small gain

Gold futures, down sharply in recent sessions, rose about $6 an ounce early, then fell back but closed with a gain of nearly $7 an ounce A big factor in the demand for gold futures was a strong spot gold market in the major foreign countries

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

New York — When someone you love dies, your grief tends to crowd out all other concerns. Unable to think practically, and swayed by appeals to "do right by the dead," you may well be drawn into paying more for a funeral than you can afford.

Jane Bryant Quinn

This can happen to anyone, even sophisticated people who imagine themselvs well-armed against the tactics of a good casket salesman. The power of entrenched funeral customs is very strong. In the emotion of the moment, you may go along with them just to get it over with.

The only way to avoid this trap is to plan in advance — and that generally means joining a memorial society. There are now around 130 non-profit societies in the U.S., claiming around half a million members, and all dedicated to providing dignified, yet inexpensive, last rites.

A memorial society arranges with one or more funeral parlors in the area to provide its members with funeral services at prices ranging from around $150 to $350. By contrast, the average American funeral today costs some $1,200.

The savings come principally from the simplicity of the arrangements. Funeral society members tend to want cremations or simple earth burials, with no open-coffin viewing or elaborate funeral-parlor services.

They save themselves the cost of expensive caskets, embalming (except in those states where it's required), a formal service at the funeral chapel, cosmetics and hairdressing for the corpse, limosines, organist, guest books and all the other incidentals of a large funeral.

But beyond this, funeral parlors provide society members with discounts on the services they do use — generally in the area of 25 percent.

You usually have to join a memorial society in advance of death, although some will help if you call up immediately after someone dies. Family membership range from $3.50 to $20, plus an extra fee of $5 to $10 at time of death. The money is used for printing, record-keeping and overhead; the societies are generally staffed by volunteers or run by church staffs.

Even when assisted by churches, the societies are open to members of all religions, and often have arrangements with funeral parlors that cater specifically to Catholics, Protestants or Jews.

When you join, you decide on your own funeral arrangement and file it with the society. This relieves your survivors of the need to choose. They don't have to deal with casket salesmen or feel guilty for wanting a cheaper model. At death, the funeral director is called and told which plan to proceed with.

Peggy Fleming, president of the Memorial Society of the Columbus (Ohio) Area, says that members tend to choose cremation, but the full range burial options is available — including, at extra cost, a traditional funeral with all the trappings. Members who choose burial typically have a simple graveside service for the family, followed by a memorial service in a church, synagogue or home.

Memorial societies provide the information you need on donating eyes or organs for medical purposes. But they don't have anything to do with buying cemetery land or gravestones. Nor do they handle funeral arrangements.

The growing interest in memorial societies has inevitably attracted imitators. Memorial society presidents warn that if a "society" charges a large membership fee or tries to sell you any part of the funeral arrangements, it's not the real thing.

Oil Price Hopes Lift Stock Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — Hopes that the oil-exporting nations would limit themselves to a moderate price increase carried the stock market to a broad gain Wednesday despite some late profit taking.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up about 12 points at midafternoon, closed with a 6.34 advance at 826.19.

Big Board volume was a moderate 16.06 million shares, up from 12.80 million on Tuesday.

Gainers outnumbered losers in the over-all NYSE count, 1,005 to 372 amog the 1,785 issues changing hands.

The market's exuberant rise early in the session followed developmentsat the start of an Organization of Petroleum exporting Countries meeting in Vienna which were taken as signs that the oil cartel would post no more than a mild price increase.

Saudi Arabia, the largest oil exporter, was urging no increase at all and saying it would agree to a "nominal" boost.

Iraq's oil minister told newsmen a consensus had developed in the group for a 10 per cent hike — considerably less than that nation and some of the more militant OPEC members have been calling for.Later in the session, however, investors seemed to step back to await a formal move by the oil ministers.

The market also appeared to benefit at the outset from early signs that a $2 billion offering of 29 month notes by the Treasury would be well received.

Under basic supply-and-demand theory, good demand for such a new issue at current interest rates means lessened upward pressure on the rates.

In oil stocks, Exxon rose ¼ to 91¾, touchding a new high for the year of 93 along the way; Mobil was up ½ at 44¼; Standard Oil of California gained ½ to 30½; Texaco added ¼ to 24, and Gulf was up ⅛ at 21⅝.

General Motors, the only auto maker showing a gain in mid-September sales, rose ½ to 50½ in active trading. Elsewhere in the group, Ford picked up ⅜ to 36⅞; Chrysler gained ¼ to 10½, and American Motors was up ¼ at 5½.

Airline issues strengthened on the oil price hopes.

Non-Member Sales Halted By Farmland

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — A spokesman for Farmland Industries, Inc., Wednesday said because the farm cooperative-owned industry is dedicated to serving its agricultural members, it was forced to stop sales of gasoline to 17 non-member businesses when federal controls were lifted from crude oil.

"Because of a lack of crude oil we had to sever that supply line to those non-member accounts and place ourselves in a position to serve agriculture," George Statham, Farmland vice president of petroleum, said.

Statham said the firm had been forced by now-defunct federal controls to continue supply to the businesses because they had purchased from Farmland surpluses during the 1972 federal allocation base period.

"We have no objection to serving these accounts," he said. "But we can't serve them without realistically priced crude oil."

A spokesman for the Kansas Energy Office said only three of the firms cut back by Farmland have contacted that agency for aid. They are A-1 Oil of Parsons, National Oil of McCune, and Mid-America Refinery at Chanute.

Omaha Hog Prices Slip

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Hog sellers on the Omaha livestock got a jolt from "Cloud 9" Wednesday, but it was a gentle prod following three straight record days for butcher tops.

However, Wednesday's retreat didn't seem to concern too many folks because of the generally high price levels in recent months, and the prediction that price levels are likely to remain high at least through the middle of next year.

Wednesday's hog run was estimated at about 4,000 head.

Barrows and gilts saw moderate activity, trending steady to 25-cents lower than Tuesday's close. Looking from another angle, Wednesday's butcher trend was 50-to-75 cents lower than Tuesday's opening trade, which saw a record top of $64.00 on early rounds.

There were about 3,500 cattle and calves on offer.

Steers and heifers turned fully steady, but the trade on cows was quite slow, and the trend showed the effects. After a few early cow sales earned a steady call, the trade deteriorated, and the trend was called mostly 50-cents to $1.00 lower at the close.

There were about 300 sheep on offer,

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Monday, Oct. 6, 1975
1:30 p.m.
City Council Chambers, City-County Building, 555 South 10

Purpose is to hear public comment on Community Development Department Environmental Assessment and finding of no significant adverse effect for street surfacing, alley graveling, sidewalk installation, and tree planting projects financed by the Housing and Community Development of 1974.

Estimated costs of projects are surfacing $177,920; alleys $11,980; sidewalks $53,290; and, trees, $10,000.

Project location is the Clinton area, bounded by 27th Street on the west, Holdrege Street on the south, 33rd Street on the east, and Leighton Street on the north.

Persons desiring to be heard on the environmental assessment of these assessments of their projects will be heard at this time.

The applicant for these project funds is the City of Lincoln, Nebraska; Mayor, Mrs. Helen G. Boosalis.

A draft copy of the environmental assessments and finding of no significant adverse effect is available at the Community Development Office at no charge in the City-County Building, 555 South 10 Street, Lincoln, Nebraska, 68508.

=30870, 15 T Sept. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, Oct. 1, 2, 3

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT

This finding relates to the four projects: street surfacing, alley graveling, sidewalk installation, and tree planting. These projects are all located in the Clinton area, bounded by 27th Street on the west, Holdrege Street on the south, 33rd Street on the east, and Leighton Street on the north.

The City of Lincoln has found that these projects have no significant effect on the environment.

Facts and reasons for this decision are in the Environmental Assessment and finding of no significant effect.

The City of Lincoln has made an Environmental Review Record, available for examination in the Community Development Office, City-County Building, 555 South 10 Street, Lincoln, Nebraska.

No further environmental review of these projects is proposed to be conducted and the City of Lincoln intends to request HUD to release funds for the projects.

Any comments may be submitted to the City of Lincoln, Community Development Office until and including October 6, 1975.

The applicant is the City of Lincoln, Nebraska; Mayor, Mrs. Helen Boosalis.

=30869, 15T, Sept. 19, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 29, 30, Oct. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Monday, Oct. 6, 1975
1:30 p.m.
City Council Chambers, City-County Building, 555 South 10

Purpose is to hear public comment on Community Development Department Environmental Assessment and finding of no significant adverse effect for street surfacing, alley graveling, sidewalk installation, and tree planting projects financed by the Housing and Community Development of 1974.

Estimated costs of projects are surfacing $177,920; alleys $11,980; sidewalks $53,290; and, trees, $10,000.

Project location is the Clinton area, bounded by 27th Street on the west, Holdrege Street on the south, 33rd Street on the east, and Leighton Street on the north.

Persons desiring to be heard on the environmental assessment of these assessments of their projects will be heard at this time.

The applicant for these project funds is the City of Lincoln, Nebraska; Mayor, Mrs. Helen G. Boosalis.

A draft copy of the environmental assessments and finding of no significant adverse effect is available at the Community Development Office at no charge in the City-County Building, 555 South 10 Street, Lincoln, Nebraska, 68508.
#30870, 15 T Sept. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, Oct. 1, 2, 3

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT

This finding relates to the four projects: street surfacing, alley graveling, sidewalk installation, and tree planting. These projects are all located in the Clinton area, bounded by 27th Street on the west, Holdrege Street on the south, 33rd Street on the east, and Leighton Street on the north.

The City of Lincoln has found that these projects have no significant effect on the environment.

Facts and reasons for this decision are in the Environmental Assessment and finding of no significant effect.

The City of Lincoln has made an Environmental Review Record, available for examination in the Community Development Office, City-County Building, 555 South 10 Street, Lincoln, Nebraska.

No further environmental review of these projects is proposed to be conducted and the City of Lincoln intends to request HUD to release funds for the projects.

Any comments may be submitted to the City of Lincoln, Community Development Office until and including October 6, 1975.

The applicant is the City of Lincoln, Nebraska; Mayor, Mrs. Helen Boosalis.

The Answer To A Salesman's Dream

We presently have a dozen men who require a commission check for $400-$800 per week & a monthly bonus check for between $400 & $600. They earn this amount of money by working 3 or 4 days/a week selling a variety of leads we furnish to them at no cost. They sell a product that you would be proud to write home about. This is not just another sales job. If you're in doubt, I'll arrange for you to meet some of the men I've talked about. Call me, I'll answer any questions you may have over the phone. Jim Fowler, 464-2247. 28

NOTICE

Salesmen — Are you earning as much money as you think you should? Are you spending as much time with your family as you would like to? Are you supplied with definite appointments? Are you sure you are selling the best product available? Are you satisfied with your present employer? Do you have the opportunity to own your own business within six months?
If you answer is YES to all of these questions, then why are you reading this ad? If your answer is NO to any of these questions, call 483-2931 and see if you qualify to work with this dynamic dedicated Fire Protection organization. Inquiries confidential.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Thursday

At the Track: Cancer can have luck with number 2. Gemini might win with 5. Scorpio could show a profit with number 1. The Taurus jockey has racing luck, finds openings. Aries riders bring in favorites. For longshot winners, the spotlight is on the Virgo jockey.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on security, obtaining backing from one who encourages your efforts. Cancer, Capricorn could figure in picture. Emphasize courage of convictions. Slight delay could be blessing in disguise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are able to make assets work. You benefit from timing, details, specifics. Persons who were indifferent could flock to your side. Make the most of legitimate offers. Don't back down — you have momentum to "ride to victory."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Changes work in your behalf — you get inside information, visits from those who represent organizations, special groups. Another Gemini is involved. Virgo, Sagittarius persons also are in picture.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent is on meditation and mediation. Diplomacy wins ball game. Means you make friends, influence people — and a loved one purchases luxury item. Professional superior acknowledges your contributions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emphasis is on promotion, decision, romantic interlude, the need to see situations and people as they actually exist. Goal is in sight but you may want to see something else. Need to set course on straight path is more obvious than in recent past.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You draw to you persons, situations that had been long ago, far away. Priorities fall into place. You know what should be done — and how to get it done. Means this is a time when the philosophical and the practical successfully blend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You get rid of fears regarding costs, leases, insurance. Decision goes in your favor and means money picture will be brighter. You will finish a project or assignment — and you do deserve an accolade.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You make choice between sharing and selfishness. Decision could be crucial. Your future happiness might be at stake. Know it and be grown-up about it. What is it you want? That should be the question, not how it looks to others or what impresses other people.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You get into areas that are unorthodox. Teaching, learning processes are emphasized. Work, basic achievements also figure prominently. Aquarian might come up with surprise answers, proposals.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Curiosity is satisfied. You glimpse truth and can benefit from knowledge. Accent is on creativity, involvement and relationship with very young people. You get support, can put across program and ring sales bell!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Details, basic issues, inner strengths, ability to face facts as they exist — these are spotlighted. If thorough, you win. If not, you repeat steps. If patient, you achieve. If not, you pay through the nose. It is simple, clear and direct — and the choice is your own.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Movement, messages, communication with relatives — these are featured. Special calls, messages, notes, mail — these, too, affect you in more profound ways than in recent days. Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius figure prominently.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are spiritual, perceptive, psychic, particular, sensitive, temperamental and not easy to live with or to completely comprehend. June was important — you travel in October. Pisces, Virgo persons play key roles in your life. You soon will overcome "emotional mishap," will be free — and "confronted with happiness."

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

winter car care

A special production of the Lincoln Journal and Star with articles and tips on both everyday and seasonal automotive maintenance.

Inside:

●Do-It-Yourself

Following the national trend, Lincolnites are doing more of their own automotive repair and maintenance work.

●Foreign Car Repair

This report reveals that local foreign car owners no longer are an island unto themselves when it comes time to service their exotic beauties.

●An Inside Job

●School Days

This fresh look at one of the state's vocational auto mechanics training programs shows that today's mechanically-inclined graduates are going down the road feeling glad.

●Snow Bound

Numerous reports on what to look out for when the snow flies this winter and how to prepare your car — and yourself — for the months ahead.

Auto Repair Sells Itself To Today's Car Owners

By Gene Kelly

Mechanics don't like autumn.

It's not the work load of getting cars ready for winter. Frankly, many of them hate having to be salesmen, since that's what you are when you harass a customer into getting his car winterized or having other obviously needed work done.

But there's something in the air this autumn.

"I've never found this before," says Paul Eiland, service manager at Behlen Motors, 1145 No. 48th St. in Lincoln. "This year people are keeping us busier than the devil on winterizing. They just come in and say 'go ahead, take care of anything that's needed.' I don't even have to 'sell' them on the idea."

Price Conscious

Consumers all over the city seem to be in the same mood, although they are very price conscious.

But it isn't just winterizing that has the garages, shops and service stations humming. People definitely are fixing up the family car, rather than trading, say a cross section of auto repair sources.

Even where a new car investment has been made, it's likely that the older car was not traded in, but has been kept and is being put in good repair.

Eiland says he's amazed at the pace of "minor $60 to $70 repair jobs, like brakes, exhaust and front steering, that are coming in on three-to-five-year-old cars.

Fixing, Not Trading

"A guy with oil seal problems used to trade. Now he's getting such things fixed. We don't see as many major overhauls as we used to, but I think that's because today's engines are built so much better."

He views this as a new attitude by Americans that preventive maintenance — getting small auto problems fixed before they become big headaches — is the cheapest way to go.

"Unless the estimate gets above a couple hundred, they're quite apt to say without even hesitating 'go ahead, fix it'.

"And when you tell a guy he needs a really costly overhaul, he usually says he'll get somebody to haul it away first. Or maybe he could burn it in effigy in the backyard."

Same Story

It's the same story for independent garage owners like LeRoy Hofker who has a shop at 3719 Touzalin.

"We've got all the work we want to do — praise the Lord," he says. "People are certainly more conscious of mileage — the shape their carburetor is in, and the tuneups . . .

"I think we're doing more valve jobs on older cars too; that's cheaper than trading."

Cliff Doiel agrees that people are "fixing up the older ones," but he doesn't feel his customers are "taking better care of the family car."

Doiel, a territory salesman out of the Firestone Store at 1139 N St., says people are "doing what has to be done, but we don't see too many who just flat tell you to take care of everything that's wrong — certainly not without asking first what the total bill is going to be.

"The guy who doesn't have to shop around will probably take his car back to the dealer.

Shopping Around

"But we get the guy who does have to shop and compare. And that customer has become a lot more conservative. He'll get the work done where the estimate's the lowest."

Although a Firestone store will do a wide range of servicing, Doiel explains that "we run service specials so people will come in where we can get a look at their tires. That's what we'd rather sell them."

Regardless of the service or sales philosophy, the auto repair industry has a big-ticket impact on the Lincoln economy.

Some 157 firms were involved in car service or repairs locally in 1972, the latest U.S. Census of Business figures that are available. This compared with 118 firms in 1967.

$8.9 Million in Sales

The sales total (labor and parts) that this represents was $8.9 million in 1972, based on these estimates. This contrasts with $5.5 million five years earlier.

And while the city has grown since 1967, these census estimates, supplied by Dave Wolvin, statistician for the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, show that there actually were fewer workers in this category in 1972 (a total of 309) than five years earlier (when the total was 331).

Wolvin said this seems to show that mechanics and service people are becoming more productive — and making higher wages. The payroll totals from the census estimates are $1.8 million in 1972 and $1.4 million in 1967.

The Nebraska Job Service people don't keep figures specifically on the auto repair or service industry.

But there are clues in another category. It's called auto dealers and service stations — an attempt to include nearly everyone who works with cars, except perhaps the backyard tinkerer.

2,000 Employes

The Lincoln employes (and many bosses too) in this category have totaled about 2,000 for the past year, says Bill Courtney, statistician in the Lincoln Job Service office.

It was down 50 or so around Christmas, he notes. "There were some layoffs of mechanics . . . the public was holding off, watching to see which way the economy was headed . . . trying to decide whether to keep their second car as gas prices inched up."

Family budgets were tight; repairs were delayed.

A lot of people who normally would have been trading in a three- or four-year-old car with 50,000 or so miles were doing something else: getting estimates on major tuneups, new muffler systems or a set of shocks.

Mechanics Needed

There's a steady demand right now, Courtney says, for good mechanics. "You have to get in line a week ahead for any kind of work at most garages," he continues. "I think that the choice people made is quite obvious."

And although a dozen or so service stations have closed in Lincoln, Courtney says he has orders in his files for attendants — especially those with tuneup skills.

How much can an experienced mechanic earn?

Courtney says the most common rate he hears is $5 to $6 an hour — maybe more if he's speedy and works on a flat commission basis.

A Lincoln garage will typically charge the customer $10 to $11 an hour for this labor, plus parts.

More Than the Boss

The service manager of a Lincoln new car dealer confided: "There were just a lot of weeks this year when half of my men took home more, I'll bet, than the boss did. The big models just weren't moving."

And this has resulted in the auto factories dropping the price of parts, says Doug McLeod, manager of the Nebraska Motor Parts Co. outlet at 1820 P St.

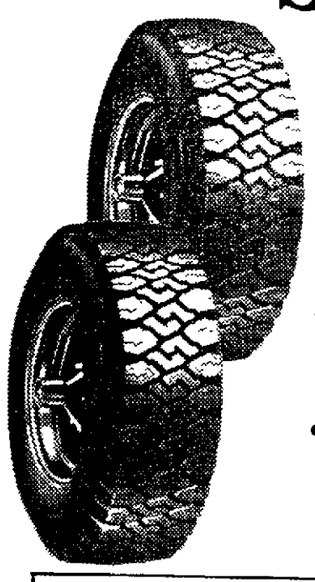

"Where we used to consistently undersell the new car dealers on many parts,

winter car care

A special production of the Lincoln Journal and Star with articles and tips on both everyday and seasonal automotive maintenance.

COLOR

Inside:

•Do-It-Yourself

Following the national trend, Lincolnites are doing more of their own automotive repair and maintenance work.

•Foreign Car Repair

This report reveals that local foreign car owners no longer are an island unto themselves when it comes time to service their exotic beauties.

•An Inside Job

•School Days

This fresh look at one of the state's vocational auto mechanics training programs shows that today's mechanically-inclined graduates are going down the road feeling glad.

•Snow Bound

Numerous reports on what to look out for when the snow flies this winter and how to prepare your car — and yourself — for the months ahead.

Auto Repair Sells Itself To Today's Car Owners

By Gene Kelly

Mechanics don't like autumn.

It's not the work load of getting cars ready for winter. Frankly, many of them hate having to be salesmen, since that's what you are when you harass a customer into getting his car winterized or having other obviously needed work done.

But there's something in the air this autumn.

"I've never found this before," says Paul Eiland, service manager at Behlen Motors, 1145 No. 48th St. in Lincoln. "This year people are keeping us busier than the devil on winterizing. They just come in and say 'go ahead, take care of anything that's needed.' I don't even have to 'sell' them on the idea."

Price Conscious

Consumers all over the city seem to be in the same mood, although they are very price conscious.

But it isn't just winterizing that has the garages, shops and service stations humming. People definitely are fixing up the family car, rather than trading, say a cross section of auto repair sources.

Even where a new car investment has been made, it's likely that the older car was not traded in, but has been kept and is being put in good repair.

Eiland says he's amazed at the pace of "minor $60 to $70 repair jobs, like brakes, exhaust and front steering, that are coming in on three-to-five-year-old cars.

Fixing, Not Trading

"A guy with oil seal problems used to trade. Now he's getting such things fixed. We don't see as many major overhauls as we used to, but I think that's because today's engines are built so much better."

He views this as a new attitude by Americans that preventive maintenance — getting small auto problems fixed before they become big headaches — is the cheapest way to go.

"Unless the estimate gets above a couple hundred, they're quite apt to say without even hesitating 'go ahead, fix it'.

"And when you tell a guy he needs a really costly overhaul, he usually says he'll get somebody to haul it away first. Or maybe he could burn it in effigy in the backyard."

Same Story

It's the same story for independent garage owners like LeRoy Hofker who has a shop at 3719 Touzalin.

"We've got all the work we want to do — praise the Lord," he says. "People are certainly more conscious of mileage — the shape their carburetor is in, and the tuneups . . .

"I think we're doing more valve jobs on older cars too; that's cheaper than trading."

Cliff Doiel agrees that people are "fixing up the older ones," but he doesn't feel his customers are "taking better care of the family car."

Doiel, a territory salesman out of the Firestone Store at 1139 N St., says people are "doing what has to be done, but we don't see too many who just flat tell you to take care of everything that's wrong — certainly not without asking first what the total bill is going to be.

"The guy who doesn't have to shop around will probably take his car back to the dealer.

Shopping Around

"But we get the guy who does have to shop and compare. And that customer has become a lot more conservative. He'll get the work done where the estimate's the lowest."

Although a Firestone store will do a wide range of servicing, Doiel explains that "we run service specials so people will come in where we can get a look at their tires. That's what we'd rather sell them."

Regardless of the service or sales philosophy, the auto repair industry has a big-ticket impact on the Lincoln economy.

Some 157 firms were involved in car service or repairs locally in 1972, the latest U.S. Census of Business figures that are available. This compared with 118 firms in 1967.

$8.9 Million in Sales

The sales total (labor and parts) that this represents was $8.9 million in 1972, based on these estimates. This contrasts with $5.5 million five years earlier.

And while the city has grown since 1967, these census estimates, supplied by Dave Wolvin, statistician for the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, show that there actually were fewer workers in this category in 1972 (a total of 309) than five years earlier (when the total was 331).

Wolvin said this seems to show that mechanics and service people are becoming more productive — and making higher wages. The payroll totals from the census estimates are $1.8 million in 1972 and $1.4 million in 1967.

The Nebraska Job Service people don't keep figures specifically on the auto repair or service industry.

But there are clues in another category. It's called auto dealers and service stations — an attempt to include nearly everyone who works with cars, except perhaps the backyard tinkerer.

2,000 Employes

The Lincoln employes (and many bosses too) in this category have totaled about 2,000 for the past year, says Bill Courtney, statistician in the Lincoln Job Service office.

It was down 50 or so around Christmas, he notes. "There were some layoffs of mechanics . . . the public was holding off, watching to see which way the economy was headed . . . trying to decide whether to keep their second car as gas prices inched up."

Family budgets were tight; repairs were delayed.

A lot of people who normally would have been trading in a three- or four-year-old car with 50,000 or so miles were doing something else: getting estimates on major tuneups, new muffler systems or a set of shocks.

Mechanics Needed

There's a steady demand right now, Courtney says, for good mechanics. "You have to get in line a week ahead for any kind of work at most garages," he continues. "I think that the choice people made is quite obvious."

And although a dozen or so service stations have closed in Lincoln, Courtney says he has orders in his files for attendants — especially those with tuneup skills.

How much can an experienced mechanic earn?

Courtney says the most common rate he hears is $5 to $6 an hour — maybe more if he's speedy and works on a flat commission basis.

A Lincoln garage will typically charge the customer $10 to $11 an hour for this labor, plus parts.

More Than the Boss

The service manager of a Lincoln new car dealer confided: "There were just a lot of weeks this year when half of my men took home more, I'll bet, than the boss did. The big models just weren't moving."

And this has resulted in the auto factories dropping the price of parts, says Doug McLeod, manager of the Nebraska Motor Parts Co. outlet at 1820 P St.

"Where we used to consistently undersell the new car dealers on many parts,

An Inside Job for the Family Car

Motorists Swamp Local Interior Shops

David Whacker, employe at McVicker's Auto Trim, tears the old cover off a car seat.

With people short of cash and the price of new automobiles going up, it's no wonder that fixing up and preserving the old jalopy seems to be gaining popularity.

And it's not just what's under the hood that is getting increased attention from motorists. The owners of those well broken-in models are maintaining the upholstery and other appointments on the interiors of their cars.

Jim McVicker of McVicker's Auto Trim and Top Shop said that he is so "swamped" with business that people may have to wait as long as three weeks to get their cars in for repair.

He said the bulk of his business is on the medium to larger family cars which may be up to 10 to 12 years old.

Could Afford New Cars

"And these people are not low income," he said, adding that many car owners having their older models fixed up are those who could afford to buy new models if they wanted to pay the high prices.

Russell Dodworth, who was getting an estimate for reupholstering his 1968 Pontiac, said he was spending about $600 to $800 to fix his car instead of buying a new one.

"I refuse to buy a new car until Detroit comes up with an answer" to the high cost of new cars, he said.

In addition to having the car reupholstered, Dodworth said he had purchased new radial tires, had the car completely tuned and had new shocks installed, added a new bumper and plans to have it repainted.

Fix-up Investment

He said the vehicle has about 60,000 miles on it and he hopes to realize another 40,000 miles' wear from his fix-up investment.

According to McVicker, his shop is "doing a little of everything," but the bulk of the business is for replacement of vinyl tops, new convertible tops and reupholstering.

He said there also is an increase in minor repair work on upholstering and replacement of carpeting.

But the custom jobs on the teen-ager's cars which were popular a few years ago are practically a thing of the past.

No Custom Work

McVicker and Joe Ochsner, an auto trimmer for Scheidt Auto Interiors and Upholstery, said that there is practically no market for custom work now.

"We probably don't average one a year," Ochsner said.

However, he said that the demand for antique car restoration is big.

Antique car owners want to restore their vehicles to the original state, but materials are quite expensive, Ochsner said, noting that he tries to get materials as close to the original equipment as possible without spending a great amount of money.

Work on Vans

He said that his firm has had a considerable amount of work on vans, but minor repair business has not been plentiful.

He said people are reluctant to spend the money for minor interior repairs, but are willing to pay for plush upholstery fabric such as crushed velvet when they have a complete reupholstering job.

However, McVicker indicated that he had had a considerable amount of small repair business.

If people would realize the importance of taking care of minor tears and rips "before it's too late," he said, total reupholstering jobs might not be necessary.

Both he and Ochsner mentioned that children's jumping on seats is a major problem with wear and tear on car upholstery.

Tune-Up Leads Gas Savers

The Automotive Parts and Accessories Assn. has ranked the five most effective keys to gasoline savings for drivers.

In order of importance, they are: a well-tuned engine, a light foot on the accelerator pedal, less frequent stops, proper tire inflation and general car maintenance.

Mechanical Business On the Rise

they've become quite competitive in recent months," he explains.

McLeod says his "jobber" sales volume is up, especially to the public: "People are doing their own brake jobs and apparently many things they used to have done in a garage."

A good barometer of this trend, he says, is the firm's machine shop business. "We usually have a spring slump back there, but not this year . . . we've had all sorts of people, obviously not mechanics, bring in engine parts for work. "And we've done a lot of engine rebuilding."

Dennis McKenzie, service manager of Wards Auto Center at Gateway, says most of his customers are "very cost conscious, but may not have the know-how to install the parts they buy. So shops like ours provide this convenience.

"And realistically, a lot of places won't install a part unless you buy it from them — for warranty reasons."

He feels Wards competes mostly with other department store and discount auto centers. "We know our customers do a lot of shopping around for price and service," he says.

The consumer has become much more cautious, McKenzie feels. "We don't have too many people just tell us to fix something without first asking 'what will it cost?'"

Roger Brandl says his business is up 30-40% over a year ago. "I'm glad to see the public is wising up and fixing the cars they used to trade," he says.

As manager of AAMCO Transmissions at 2414 N St., he says his firm is "even doing a lot more work for the new car dealerships, especially a make that's brought to them that they don't sell.

"The dealer used to be able to talk the customer into trading when the transmission was in bad shape. But when new car base prices are $4,000—

"Two years ago, if a guy had a $300 second car, he wouldn't stick a $50 transmission job into it. Now he may feel that could be a bargain."

Brandl sees this as a return to common sense: "The new car prestige syndrome isn't possible any more.

"One guy I know has put $1,500 into a 1969 pickup. He figures it's as good as new, with lower taxes and insurance. It's paid for and has 98,000 miles on it.

"His option was $6,000 for a comparable, new model."

The consumer has become much more cautious, McKenzie feels. "We don't have too many people just tell us to fix something without first asking 'what will it cost?' "

Roger Brandl says his business is up 30-40% over a year ago. "I'm glad to see the public is wising up and fixing the cars they used to trade," he says.

As manager of AAMCO Transmissions at 2414 N St., he says his firm is "even doing a lot more work for the new car dealerships, especially a make that's brought to them that they don't sell.

"The dealer used to be able to talk the customer into trading when the transmission was in bad shape. But when new car base prices are $4,000—

"Two years ago, if a guy had a $300 second car, he wouldn't stick a $50 transmission job into it. Now he may feel that could be a bargain."

Brandl sees this as a return to common sense: "The new car prestige syndrome isn't possible any more.

"One guy I know has put $1,500 into a 1969 pickup. He figures it's as good as new, with lower taxes and insurance. It's paid for and has 98,000 miles on it.

"His option was $6,000 for a comparable, new model."

The owner of this car could have used some winter starting tips.

Cold Weather Starting Tips

Auto mechanics have several tips for those cold winter mornings when neither you nor your car feels much like getting off to a roaring start

It's harder than ever for your car's engine to turn over when low temperatures have caused the oil and grease to thicken.

And the battery, which provides the zip needed to get going, becomes only about half as electrically efficient as it is in warm weather.

Some ways to help overcome these difficulties include the following.

Transmission — Release manual transmissions by depressing the clutch pedal; place automatic transmissions in neutral to lessen the load on the starter.

Electrical Accessories — Shut off lights, wipers, defrosters, heater, radio, etc. to assure maximum voltage.

Choking — Setting the hand choke is obvious, but many motorists don't realize that most automatic chokes must be set "on" by depressing the accelerator to the floor before starting.

Pumping the Accelerator — More gasoline will be ready for combustion in the engine if you give the accelerator a couple of extra pumps before starting.

Throttle Setting — The accelerator should be about halfway down when the key is turned. This will keep fuel and air going into the engine.

Starter Motor — Don't grind away on the motor when starting. Turn the key at short intervals Grinding may drain the battery or overheat the engine.

Exhaust Leaks Deadly

Any motorist knows his car will run with a faulty exhaust system, but he's risking his life — especially in winter

Leaky exhaust systems add strain and wear on the engine — besides being dangerous to your health

A leaky muffler poses added danger in the winter when all the car's windows usually are kept closed when driving.

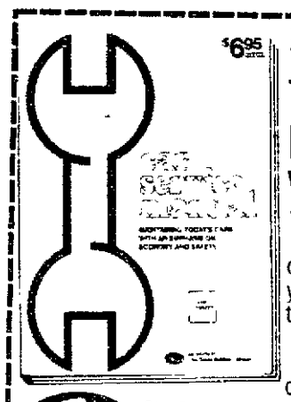

An exhaust system check takes only a few minutes. It can be done while the auto is on the mechanic's lift for lubrication and winterizing

Unfortunately, few motorists ask for such a check until a rusted tailpipe starts rattling or a ruptured muffler roars.

The needed repair may be only a clamp replacement, but a loose clamp could cause a life-threatening leak.

If you drive in heavy traffic with the windows up, those leaks that start small usually go unheard for some time.

With the windows up, you are exposing yourself to possible carbon monoxide poisoning if an exhaust leak goes undiscovered

Foreign Service Drafts Lincoln Motorists Into Ranks of Import Auto Enthusiasts

By Richard Paxson

Stand on any street corner downtown and one thing soon will become clear. More and more Lincolnites are driving cars that weren't made in Detroit—from the small gas-misers made by America's World War II adversaries to exotic sports and luxury cars from Great Britain.

Many Americans during the '50s and '60s were scared away from foreign car ownership because of woeful tales about temperamental engines and expensive repairs that could only be made after weeks of waiting for parts. But all that's not true in Lincoln now, according to people in the foreign car business here.

Geoff French is general manager of Import Auto Parts, Inc., whose three-year-old store in Lincoln sells parts both retail and wholesale. The company has had an Omaha store for 16 years.

No Need for Fear

"Lincoln has three or four of the better foreign car shops in the state," French says. "We get calls for referrals all the time. There's no where in Lincoln you have to be afraid to take a foreign car."

The availability of service apparently has increased with the overall quality. The Capital City now has more than 10 dealers who sell and service about 20 lines of British, Japanese, Italian, German and Swedish automobiles. Several local independent garages specialize in repairing these cars. And there's another growing source of repair.

"Gas stations are increasingly getting into foreign cars that they used to turn away," French says. "They are now coming in here for more parts. They have to because of all the foreign cars on the road."

Foreign car owners are also doing more of their own work, according to Terryl Tilman, an employe of Foreign Auto Parts, which sells mostly to do-it-yourselfers.

Repair Manuals Sell

"Sales are improving—really picking up a lot," he says. "People who drive foreign cars often like to work on them. But people who didn't know anything about repairs are learning to do things themselves. We're selling a lot of auto repair manuals."

Are foreign parts still more expensive and harder to get?

"Well, it does cost money to import things," Tilman says. "There's no import duty or special taxes on domestic parts. A water pump for my Chevy costs $15. One for a Triumph costs $23 50; but that may not really be an average difference in prices."

10-Day Maximum Wait

French said it now takes a maximum of 10 days to get parts not kept in stock. It used to take a minimum of two weeks.

Ironically for some foreign car owners, the more expensive the car, the longer it may take to get parts for it. There are fewer of the more expensive cars sold and thus the parts supply for them is smaller.

Ron Schoen, parts and service manager of Standard Motor Imports, which sells the British Leyland sports car line, admits that it takes longer to get parts for the more expensive models.

"It's just harder to get parts for a ($10,000 plus) Jaguar than for a ($4,000-$5,000) MG or Triumph," he says. "But when you've got that much money tied up in a car, you've got to use it."

Standards Set

Manufacturers' requirements have set standards for the service and parts inventories of some dealers. Tom Lewis is service-parts manager of Mazda of Lincoln, a dealership that opened about three years ago. The firm sells the Japanese Mazda and the German BMW.

"Most manufacturers require a minimum parts inventory and that you send your mechanics for factory training when you're granted a franchise," Lewis says. "We added almost $50,000 to our parts inventory last October."

Winterize Foreign Cars Now

With Nebraska's winter coming on, several of the service and parts people interviewed urged foreign car owners to winterize in the next three or four weeks. Most take the position that "a car is a car" and suggested that foreign cars, like domestic cars, need an antifreeze that tests positively down to low temperatures.

Terryl Tilman of Foreign Auto Parts, gives some further advice: "Unlike domestic cars that use a multigrade oil year round, foreign cars should be changed to a lighter weight engine and transmission oil for winter. The car should be tuned before winter, if that wasn't done recently, especially if it has dual carburetors. And make sure you have the right thermostat."

Speedometer Check Easy

The New York Motorist recommends this easy way to check the accuracy of your auto's speedometer:

Some highways have five-mile stretches marked for speedometer testing and most Interstate highways and freeways have markers every mile.

Drive for five miles at a constant 60 m.p.h. while a passenger records the exact time, in minutes and seconds, it takes to go the distance.

The following table can be used to determine the true speed.

Travel Time	True Speed
4 min , 30 sec.	67m p h
4 min , 40 sec	64m p h
4 min., 50 sec	62m p h
5 min	60m p h.
5 min., 10 sec	58m p h
5 min , 20 sec	56m p h
5 min , 30 sec	55m.p h
5 min , 40 sec	53m p h
5 min , 50 sec	52m p h
6 min.	51m p h

Turn Safely

While waiting to turn keep your tires straight until you actually make your move, says the Tire Industry Safety Council. If you should happen to be hit from behind, at least you can't be knocked into oncoming traffic.

You're paying for a tune-up whether you get one or not.

Untuned cars waste 1 to 2 gallons per tankful.

Before you think, "They're not talking to me," read the next sentence.

3 out of 5 cars on the road today need a tune-up.

That means there's a good chance we are talking to you. Especially if it's been 10,000 miles since your last tune-up.

A tune-up with Champion Spark Plugs can help save you that one to two gallons per tankful (depending on the size of your tank). To say nothing of giving you surer starts and better engine performance all winter.

Look—gasoline costs a lot these days. So get your car back in tune. Take it to your mechanic and say "Fill 'er up with Champions." Then you won't have to say "Fill 'er up with gas" nearly as often.

Old v New Costs Compared by Club

If you're riding around in a car that's on the verge of either a trade-in or a tune-up and repair job, the Auto Club of Missouri has some information that might help you make up your mind which course to take.

Is money spent to keep that old car running a wise investment? Or would people be dollars ahead by just trading the old car in on a brand new model.

To try to answer those questions, the Missouri club, that state's affiliate of the American Automobile Assn. (AAA), created two hypothetical situations in which they compared the costs of operating the old car as opposed to a new model.

The situations included.

- an owner of a three-year-old auto who has decided to trade it in on a new car of the same make and model with similar equipment.
- a motorists who decides to keep his three-year-old car.

Then it was determined how much each motorist would spend on his respective car during the next two years. The findings were applied to three different classes of autos — subcompact, compact and full-sized.

Operation cost determinations were taken from a U.S. Transportation Dept. study and include expenses such as depreciation, insurance and maintenance.

New car prices came from the 1975 Automotive News Almanac. Used car prices were taken from the central edition of the National Automobile Dealers Assn. Official Used Car Guide for May, 1975.

The accompanying table dramatically depicts the cost comparisons between buying a new car and keeping the old one.

The auto club found that car owners in all three classes could save as much as $3,500, in the case of the full-sized auto driver, by keeping their old cars in good operating condition and driving them for another two years.

Before you decide to tool around town in your old jalopy for another two years, it should be remembered that the auto club assumed in each case that the motorist would have to initially be willing to spend the money needed to put the old car into top running order.

Cost estimates for such initial repairs became the initial cost figures for the three-year-old cars used in the study.

Do-It-Yourself Tinkerers By-pass Automotive Pros

If trends at Lincoln auto-parts dealers are an accurate barometer, the local reading on do-it-yourself car repair is high and rising.

Motorists in the Capital City apparently are on the same increasingly heavily traveled road to backyard auto mechanics to which auto owners across the nation have been driven by the rising prices of new cars and increased charges for professional repairs on their old cars.

It used to be that teenagers tinkering with what they hoped would become a hot rod were the only people you'd find in Lincoln neighborhoods with their noses stuck under the hood of a car.

But now on a Sunday drive through the city, you can find anyone from the principal at your child's school to your boss from work sliding out from under the car with the shiny black hands that tell you he's just pulled the plug on his oil pan.

Doug McLeod, manager of the Nebraska Motor Parts Co. store at 1820 P St., says his business definitely indicates a sharp upswing in do-it-yourself auto repair in Lincoln.

"Without a shadow of a doubt, our non-pro business has increased," he says. The do-it-yourselfer trade we get has probably doubled since a year ago.

"It really took off when the recession and the oil crisis with its higher prices hit," McLeod says.

Try Anything

The local parts dealer says the variety of merchandise he sells seems to indicate the do-it-yourselfer will try most anything

While parts for regular tuneups and standard maintenance seem to be the fastest moving items at his store, McLeod says backyard mechanics "will tackle just about anything—which is disastrous sometimes."

Wes Sherman, an employe of Ben's Auto Parts at 2020 O St., says do-it-yourself parts trade also has jumped at his store.

One reason for the increased tendency of people to do their own mechanical work, Sherman says, is that some professional auto repair outlets are "pricing themselves out of the business."

Managers of the automotive departments at local discount stores agree with McLeod and Sherman that Lincolnites are doing a lot more of their own car repair work than ever before. Parts business at the discount centers also is up from the past.

Both McLeod and Sherman say that motorists should look for recognizable brand names when they go to buy parts for their cars

Good Guarantee

McLeod suggests that the do-it-yourselfer stick with reputable retailers who offer a good guarantee on their merchandise in order to be sure they are getting quality parts for their cars.

He says it's been his experience that many disgruntled do-it-yourselfers blame the suppliers for bad parts when a backyard repair goes wrong. More often than not, McLeod says, the real cause of home repair troubles is "pilot error."

Car Trouble

Regular auto service checks, compulsory under law in most states, have revealed some interesting facts about cars on the road today.

The ignition system has some form of breakdown in 49% of the cars checked.

Tire pressure is improper in 40% of cars

Headlights are out of adjustment on 38% of all cars.

Timing is incorrect on 35% and 28% have carburetor malfunctions.

Highway Waves

Don't make waves on the highway or your car may hydroplane out of control A car moving too fast in rainy weather can build up a wave of water between the tires and the pavement.

Old v New Costs Compared by Club

If you're riding around in a car that's on the verge of either a trade-in or a tune-up and repair job, the Auto Club of Missouri has some information that might help you make up your mind which course to take.

Is money spent to keep that old car running a wise investment? Or would people be dollars ahead by just trading the old car in on a brand new model.

To try to answer those questions, the Missouri club, that state's affiliate of the American Automobile Assn. (AAA), created two hypothetical situations in which they compared the costs of operating the old car as opposed to a new model.

The situations included:

- an owner of a three-year-old auto who has decided to trade it in on a new car of the same make and model with similar equipment.
- a motorists who decides to keep his three-year-old car.

Then it was determined how much each motorist would spend on his respective car during the next two years. The findings were applied to three different classes of autos — sub-compact, compact and full-sized.

Operation cost determinations were taken from a U.S. Transportation Dept. study and include expenses such as depreciation, insurance and maintenance.

New car prices came from the 1975 Automotive News Almanac. Used car prices were taken from the central edition of the National Automobile Dealers Assn. Official Used Car Guide for May, 1975.

The accompanying table dramatically depicts the cost comparisons between buying a new car and keeping the old one.

The auto club found that car owners in all three classes could save as much as $3,500, in the case of the full-sized auto driver, by keeping their old cars in good operating condition and driving them for another two years.

Before you decide to tool around town in your old jalopy for another two years, it should be remembered that the auto club assumed in each case that the motorist would have to initially be willing to spend the money needed to put the old car into top running order.

Cost estimates for such initial repairs became the initial cost figures for the three-year-old cars used in the study.

SAVE EARLY ON CHRISTMAS TOYS — WE'VE GOT 'EM

Inflation Revs Up Industry's Demand For Auto Mechanics

A candidate for Ripley's "Believe It or Not " Inflation is helping automotive students.

"Because of the demand for increased services, particularly with inflation," Robert Klabenes said, "people are keeping a car longer and requiring a lot more service on it "

Dr Klabenes, director of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Milford campus, said of his automotive program graduates "All of them who want jobs get jobs

"We could place a lot more than we're turning out."

3,575 Jobs

Last year, Milford's 433 graduates — including those in auto-related programs — had 3,575 job opportunities, Klabenes said.

Enrolment for auto study has held steady in the past five years, he said, averaging about 150 full-time students annually. Klabenes called that trend "excellent," and noted classes in the coming school year are full.

The Milford transportation department offers associate degree programs in auto mechanics and auto body repair, and a new diploma program in auto parts

The auto course instructors use an innovative evaluation method to keep track of students' work, including "an estimate of what they would be making out on the job," Klabenes said. The purpose is "to see if the students are actually producing enough work to be a satisfactory employe "

Liability or Asset

Few schools which train auto body men or mechanics use such an evaluation tool, without which employers could hire "a liability instead of an asset," he said

The Milford campus auto shop students use machines which are "right up to date with what business and industry are putting in," Klabenes said And numerous instructors specialize in technical areas, a boon to students' competence, instead of one or two teachers serving all areas

"Rather than operating an auto parts department as institutional overhead," he said, Milford, instead, trains the students to run it as part of the instructional program

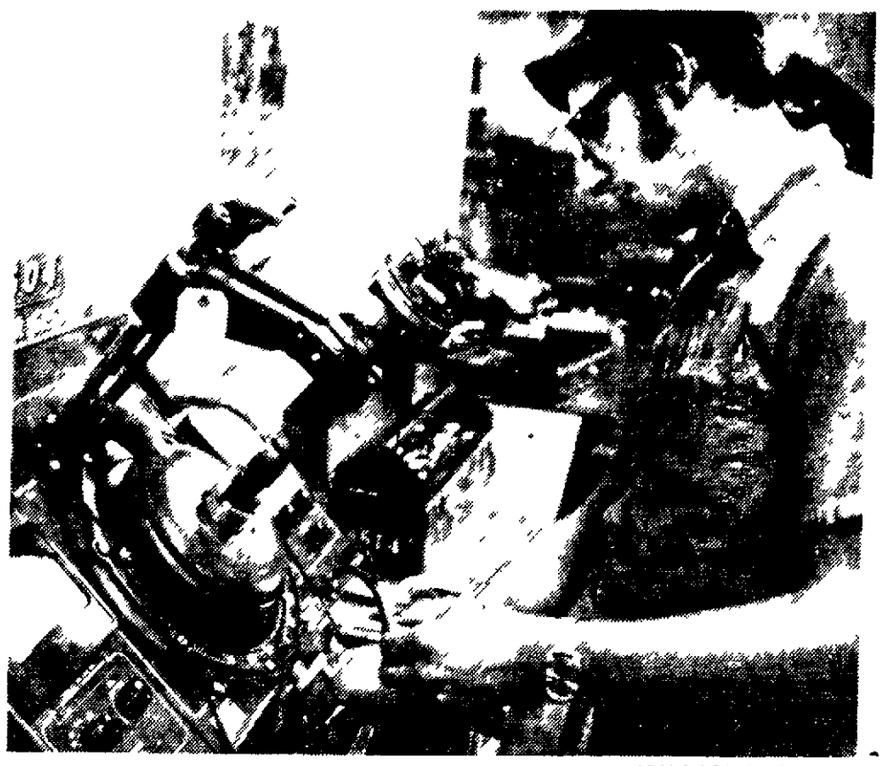

The first parts students will win their diplomas this year in the four-quarter, year-long program They'll be skilled in nomenclature, warranty policies, associated tools and equipment, cataloging, inventory control and management, customer sales and relations

On the Job

In the final quarter, parts students "are out on the job for four days a week and back in school one day" for a seminar with the instructor

In auto mechanics, students win an associate of applied science degree after 18 months study Then "they're ready to be a line mechanic," Klabenes said

Auto mechanics students develop skills in shop processes and automotive electricity, fuel systems and engines, engine overhaul brakes and front-end work, transmissions, trouble-shooting and tuneup

PHOTOS BY RANDY HAMPTON

Jerry Humphrey, Lincoln, electronically tests a distributor in the electrical section at the Milford campus.

Students in the last half of the program are confronted with wrecked cars "and turn the finished product out like it will be when they get on the job," he explained

18 Months' Study

Auto body students also win degrees after 18 months, learning body metal repair, welding, painting, collision repair and estimating, refinishing (such as spot painting) The last two quarters simulate closely what's done on the job in collision repair labs, he said

If unfilled jobs await the Milford students, the other bonus is the pay 'Last year,' Klabenes said, "the monthly beginning wage for auto body was $543 for auto mechanics $596

Citing graduates' expectations, he said at the end of their first year on the job, auto body repairmen earned an average of $701 monthly, while auto mechanics got $764

Five-year Reverse

'But then at the end of five years it reversed a little bit Klabenes said as Milford auto body graduates were collecting a $914 monthly average while mechanics made $899

Pay in auto-related fields has gone up gradually over the past few years, Klabenes said Since the first Milford parts students will graduate this year, the director noted he has no pay information, but 'the job opportunities look real good "

For the non-professional, Milford offers evening classes in basic and advanced auto engine tuneup, air conditioning upholstery, frame damage analysis, auto mechanics for women and small engine repair

Motorcycle Program

On the Southeast Community College Lincoln campus, full time students may enroll in a new motorcycle program, and another course offers on-the-job training repairing state-owned vehicles

Lincoln campus evening classes include driver education for adults and car operation and maintenance with one section for women only

At the Fairbury campus, Powder Puff Mechanics evening lessons explore family car general operation and maintenance and a defensive driving course is offered

Even Best Tires Still Need Care

Don't be lulled into bad tire care habits by 40,000-mile steel belted radials, warn the consumer experts at one of America's largest tire makers

The best tire in the world will wear out prematurely if it doesn't get proper care, they say.

Balancing, proper inflation, front-end alignment and tire rotation are as important with radials as with other tires if the radials are to achieve their full 40,000-mile potential

For the best possible results, spin balancing radial tires and wheels at highway speeds is recommended to correct any possible out-of-balance condition caused by the rotating assembly

Inflation Revs Up Industry's Demand For Auto Mechanics

A candidate for Ripley's "Believe It or Not:" Inflation is helping automotive students.

"Because of the demand for increased services, particularly with inflation," Robert Klabenes said, "people are keeping a car longer and requiring a lot more service on it."

Dr. Klabenes, director of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Milford campus, said of his automotive program graduates: "All of them who want jobs get jobs.

"We could place a lot more than we're turning out."

3,575 Jobs

Last year, Milford's 433 graduates — including those in auto-related programs — had 3,575 job opportunities, Klabenes said.

Enrolment for auto study has held steady in the past five years, he said, averaging about 150 full-time students annually. Klabenes called that trend "excellent," and noted classes in the coming school year are full.

The Milford transportation department offers associate degree programs in auto mechanics and auto body repair, and a new diploma program in auto parts.

The auto course instructors use an innovative evaluation method to keep track of students' work, including "an estimate of what they would be making out on the job," Klabenes said. The purpose is "to see if the students are actually producing enough work to be a satisfactory employe."

Liability or Asset

Few schools which train auto body men or mechanics use such an evaluation tool, without which employers could hire "a liability instead of an asset," he said.

The Milford campus auto shop students use machines which are "right up to date with what business and industry are putting in," Klabenes said. And numerous instructors specialize in technical areas, a boon to students' competence, instead of one or two teachers serving all areas.

"Rather than operating an auto parts department as institutional overhead," he said, Milford, instead, trains the students to run it as part of the instructional program.

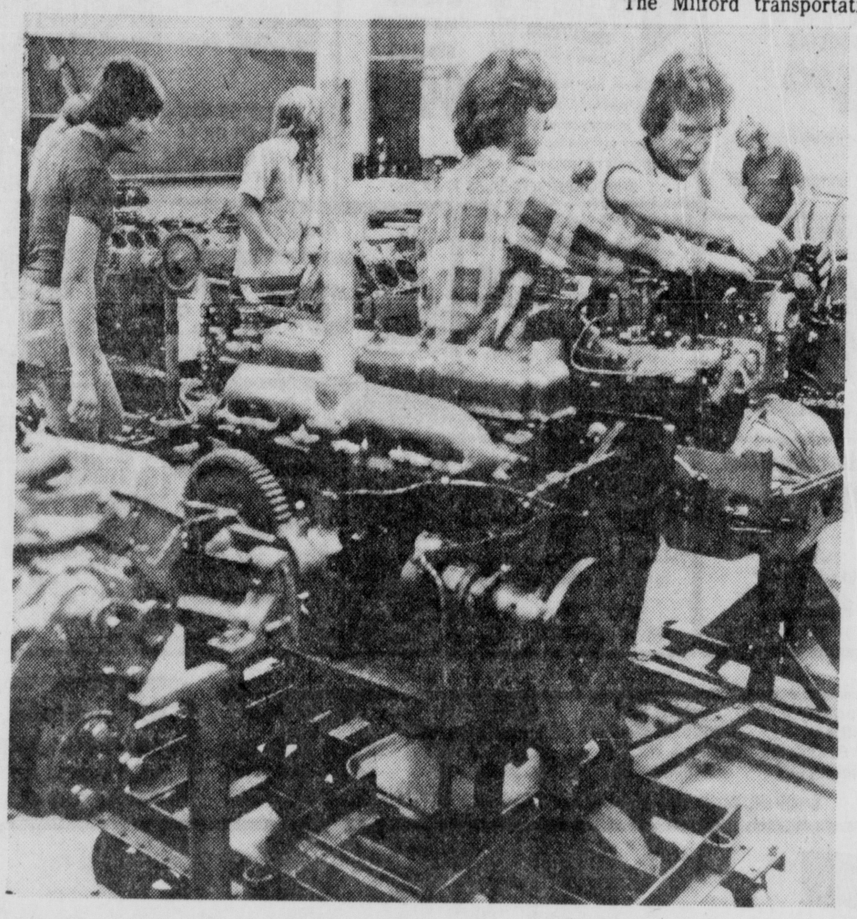

The first parts students will win their diplomas this year in the four-quarter, year-long program. They'll be skilled in nomenclature, warranty policies, associated tools and equipment, cataloging, inventory control and management, customer sales and relations.

On the Job

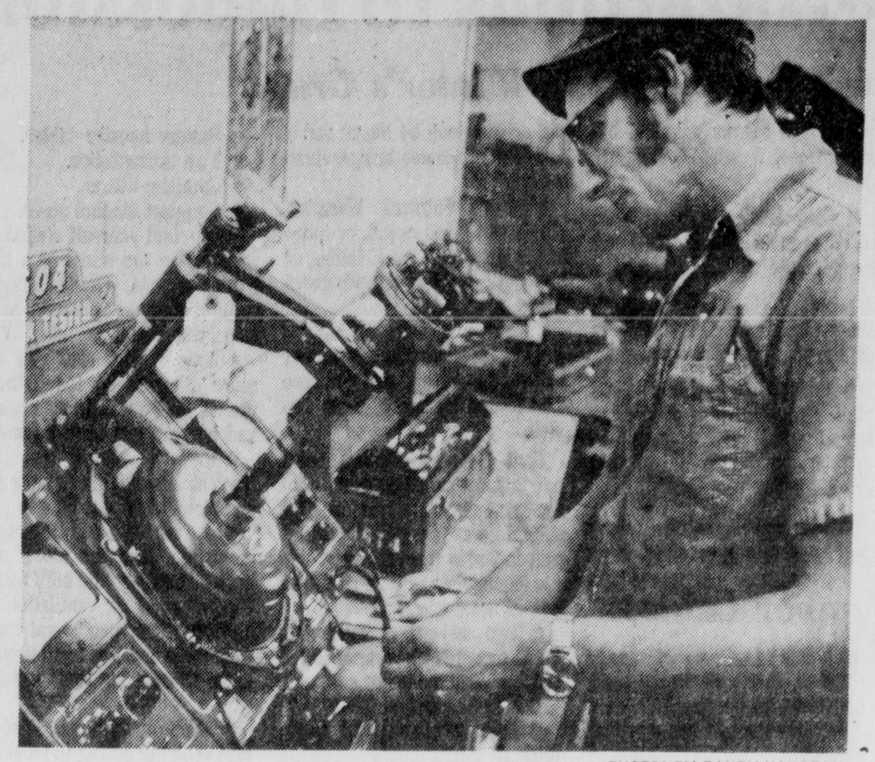

In the final quarter, parts students "are out on the job for four days a week and back in school one day" for a seminar with the instructor.

In auto mechanics, students win an associate of applied science degree after 18 months' study. Then "they're ready to be a line mechanic," Klabenes said.

Auto mechanics students develop skills in shop processes and automotive electricity, fuel systems and engines, engine overhaul, brakes and front-end work, transmissions, trouble-shooting and tuneup.

Richard Andrus, Omaha, and Roger Jackson, Fairbury, both front row, check out an engine in the maintenance shop.

PHOTOS BY RANDY HAMPTON

Jerry Humphrey, Lincoln, electronically tests a distributor in the electrical section at the Milford campus.

Students in the last half of the program are confronted with wrecked cars "and turn the finished product out like it will be when they get on the job," he explained.

18 Months' Study

Auto body students also win degrees after 18 months, learning body metal repair, welding, painting, collision repair and estimating, refinishing (such as spot painting). The last two quarters "simulate closely what's done on the job," in collision repair labs, he said.

If unfilled jobs await the Milford students, the other bonus is the pay. "Last year," Klabenes said, "the monthly beginning wage for auto body was $543;" for auto mechanics, $596.

Citing graduates' expectations, he said at the end of their first year on the job, auto body repairmen earned an average of $701 monthly, while auto mechanics got $764.

Five-year Reverse

"But then, at the end of five years, it reversed a little bit," Klabenes said, as Milford auto body graduates were collecting a $914 monthly average, while mechanics made $899.

Pay in auto-related fields has gone up gradually over the past few years, Klabenes said. Since the first Milford parts students will graduate this year, the director noted he has no pay information, but "the job opportunities look real good."

For the non-professional, Milford offers evening classes in basic and advanced auto engine tuneup, air conditioning, upholstery, frame damage analysis, auto mechanics for women and small engine repair.

Motorcycle Program

On the Southeast Community College Lincoln campus, full-time students may enroll in a new motorcycle program, and another course offers on-the-job training repairing state-owned vehicles.

Lincoln campus evening classes include driver education for adults, and car operation and maintenance with one section for women only.

At the Fairbury campus, "Powder Puff Mechanics" evening lessons explore family car general operation and maintenance, and a defensive driving course is offered.

Even Best Tires Still Need Care

Don't be lulled into bad tire care habits by 40,000-mile steel belted radials, warn the consumer experts at one of America's largest tire makers.

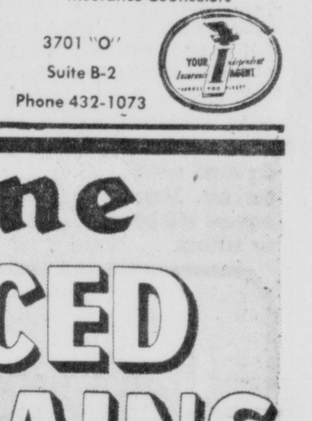

The best tire in the world will wear out prematurely if it doesn't get proper care, they say.

Balancing, proper inflation, front-end alignment and tire rotation are as important with radials as with other tires if the radials are to achieve their full 40,000-mile potential.

For the best possible results, spin balancing radial tires and wheels at highway speeds is recommended to correct any possible out-of-balance condition caused by the rotating assembly.

Check Pressure

When possible use a reliable gauge of your own to check your tires for proper inflation.

Driving—Hazardous to Impossible

Don't Get Caught in Winter's Grasp

The Blizzard of '75 with its record-breaking snows and frigid temperatures is history now

But Nebraska winters have never been stingy with the cold white stuff — record-breaking or not

Public safety officials say Nebraskans can begin to protect themselves from needless cold weather tragedy by getting themselves and their cars ready now for the onslaught of winter in the snow belt

Winter weather warnings should be familiar to all persons living in such a cold winter climate

Warnings regularly issued by the National Weather Service include

• Cold Wave Warning. This indicates a rapid fall of temperature within 24 hours

• Heavy Snow Warning. A snow of four or more inches is expected within 12 hours

• Hazardous Driving Warning. Freezing rain, drizzle, or strong winds are expected to create extremely difficult driving conditions

• Blizzard Warning. Winds will be 35 m p h or more, snow and drifting will be heavy and a 20-degree or lower temperature is expected.

• Severe Blizzard Warning. Winds will be 45 m p h or more with a great density of falling or blowing snow and temperatures below 10 degrees

In addition, warning for ice storms, freezing rain, blowing or drifting snow, sleet and wind are also issued by the weather service

Civil Defense officials point out that all cars venturing onto the road during winter months should carry a winter storm kit that includes the following

• Blankets, sleeping bags or a box of newspapers

• Two one-gallon cans with plastic covers or an empty coffee can for sanitary facilities

• Matches and candles

• Extra clothing, caps, mittens, etc

• Transistor or car radio for storm weather bulletins

• Compass and maps

• Pocketknife, first aid kit and shovel

• Facial tissue

• A small sack of sand for traction in snow and ice

• Flashlight or signal light to be used to find help

• Plastic scraper for the windshield

• Battery booster cables.

• Fire extinguisher.

• Catalytic heater

• Compact alcohol stove

If you find yourself stalled in your car in the midst of a bad winter storm, Civil Defense recommends the following safety procedures

• Stay in your car You are more likely to be found there than if you go wandering around and become lost or disoriented.

• Keep a window open for fresh air Freezing wet snow can completely seal out oxygen

• Beware of carbon monoxide Run the motor and heater sparingly and only with a window open for ventilation

• Clap your hands and move your arms and legs from time to time Change positions regularly

• Turn on the dome light inside your car during the night to make the car visible to snow removal and rescue crews

• If there are more than one person in the car, don t let everyone go to sleep at the same time

• Don t panic Careful preparation for winter's storms and observance of safety rules should enable Nebraska drivers to survive snowy trouble on the highway

How to Use Jumper Cables

The use of jumper cables to start a car with a run-down battery is a relatively simple matter If you know what you are doing, that is, and take precautions

Battery technicians suggest this procedure when using cables

1 Start the engine of the car used as the booster

2. Connect one end of the positive cable to the positive terminal of the booster battery. Then put the other positive cable to the positive terminal of the disabled battery

3 Connect the negative cable to the negative post of the booster battery. Then connect the other negative cable to the Bumper, frame or engine block of the car to be started.

4 Now try to start the dead engine.

Do not connect with the negative post of the disabled battery The spark created by the connection could create an explosion if there is excess gasoline fumes or raw gasoline present

Positive terminals are usually designated by a plus sign Negative terminals are usually identified by a minus sign

If you are not certain you're doing it correctly don t do it Instead call a professional service man

Snow Routes Designated

Lincoln s city traffic officials have prepared for the coming snows by designating 11 emergency snow routes throughout the city

The routes, generally set up along major arterial streets, are marked with clearly recognizable Snow Route" signs in red white and blue

The emergency routes are the first to be cleared by city snow crews and attempts are made to keep them open at all times — even in the midst of a major storm

When a snow emergency is declared by the mayor parking is banned on snow routes

A motorist illegally parked or stalled on one of the routes is subject to a $25 fine plus towing costs

Besides keeping the snow routes open city workmen try to clear all streets within 24 hours after snow stops falling

Safety, Air Costs High

Safety and emission-control equipment required by the federal government costs about $615 on every new car according to a study by General Motors

If new proposals currently being considered are put into effect over the next three years the extra cost will go to $1 225 per car Most of the added expense will be for better clean air systems

• Transistor or car radio for storm weather bulletins.
• Compass and maps.
• Pocketknife, first aid kit and shovel.
• Facial tissue.
• A small sack of sand for traction in snow and ice.
• Flashlight or signal light to be used to find help.
• Plastic scraper for the windshield.
• Battery booster cables.
• Fire extinguisher.
• Catalytic heater.
• Compact alcohol stove.

If you find yourself stalled in your car in the midst of a bad winter storm, Civil Defense recommends the following safety procedures:

• Stay in your car. You are more likely to be found there than if you go wandering around and become lost or disoriented.
• Keep a window open for fresh air. Freezing wet snow can completely seal out oxygen.
• Beware of carbon monoxide. Run the motor and heater sparingly and only with a window open for ventilation.
• Clap your hands and move your arms and legs from time to time. Change positions regularly.
• Turn on the dome light inside your car during the night to make the car visible to snow removal and rescue crews.
• If there are more than one person in the car, don't let everyone go to sleep at the same time.
• Don't panic. Careful preparation for winter's storms and observance of safety rules should enable Nebraska drivers to survive snowy trouble on the highway.

How to Use Jumper Cables

The use of jumper cables to start a car with a run-down battery is a relatively simple matter. If you know what you are doing, that is, and take precautions.

Battery technicians suggest this procedure when using cables.

1. Start the engine of the car used as the booster.

2. Connect one end of the positive cable to the positive terminal of the booster battery. Then put the other positive cable to the positive terminal of the disabled battery.

3. Connect the negative cable to the negative post of the booster battery. Then connect the other negative cable to the Bumper, frame or engine block of the car to be started.

4. Now try to start the dead engine.

Do not connect with the negative post of the disabled battery. The spark created by the connection could create an explosion if there is excess gasoline fumes or raw gasoline present.

Positive terminals are usually designated by a plus sign. Negative terminals are usually identified by a minus sign.

If you are not certain you're doing it correctly, don't do it. Instead, call a professional service man.

Snow Routes Designated

Lincoln's city traffic officials have prepared for the coming snows by designating 11 emergency snow routes throughout the city.

The routes, generally set up along major arterial streets, are marked with clearly recognizable "Snow Route" signs in red, white and blue.

The emergency routes are the first to be cleared by city snow crews, and attempts are made to keep them open at all times — even in the midst of a major storm.

When a snow emergency is declared by the mayor, parking is banned on snow routes.

A motorist illegally parked or stalled on one of the routes is subject to a $25 fine, plus towing costs.

Safety, Air Costs High

Safety and emission-control equipment required by the federal government costs about $615 on every new car, according to a study by General Motors.

If new proposals currently being considered are put into effect over the next three years, the extra cost will go to $1,225 per car. Most of the added expense will be for better clean air systems.
